SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: BPA's last wholesale power rate increase became effective on an interim basis on July 1, 1981. BPA has two sets of contracts which contain provisions allowing the adjustment of rates. The first set of contracts are those which were in existence prior to the offering of power sales contracts which, pursuant to section 5(g) of the Pacific Northwest Electric Power Planning and Conservation Act (Regional Act), were offered on August 28, 1981. These "existing contracts" currently permit rate adjustments only on July 1, 1982, and each July 1 thereafter. The second set of contracts are those offered by BPA on August 28, 1981. These "new contracts" permit rate adjustments upon 9 months' notice, but no more often than once in a 12-month period.

By letter dated October 15, 1981, BPA contacted all of its customers being served under the "existing contracts," proposing an amendment to the rate adjustment section of their "existing contracts" which would allow for a rate adjustment upon the same terms and conditions as under the "new contracts." Almost all customers with "existing contracts" have notified BPA that they have signed the amendments to their "existing contracts." Customers receiving power under the "existing contracts" who return executed amendments to BPA on or before December 31, 1981, will have their wholesale power rates adjusted effective October 1, 1982. All customers being served under the "existing contracts" who have not agreed to the October 1, 1982, rate adjustment date will be subject to an adjustment of their wholesale power rates on July 1, 1982.

Customers being served under the "new contracts" which allow rate adjustments upon 9 months' notice will be subject to the proposed wholesale power rates effective October 1, 1982, rather than July 15, 1982, as previously announced (46 FR 50838).

BPA expects to have its initial proposed rates developed by late February 1982. BPA will then publish a notice of proposed rates in the Federal Register. That notice will also include a schedule for formal hearings as specified in the Regional Act. These hearings will give interested persons an opportunity to present both oral and written comments on the proposal.

Dated: December 22, 1981.

Deputy Administrator.

Federal Energy Regulatory Commission

[Docket No. CP82-113-000]

Consolidated Gas Supply Corp.; Application

December 30, 1981.

Take notice that on December 11, 1981, Consolidated Gas Supply Corporation (Applicant), 445 West Main Street, Clarksburg, West Virginia 26301, filed in Docket No. CP82-113-000 an application pursuant to section 7(c) of the Natural Gas Act for a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing the construction and operation of 29.7 miles of 30-inch Line No. 50 and related and appurtenant facilities in Armstrong, Indiana and Jefferson Counties, Pennsylvania, all as more fully set forth in the application which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

Applicant proposed the construction and operation of approximately 29.7 miles of 30-inch Line No. 50 extending in a southwesterly direction from Applicant's Big Run Gas to a point on existing Line No. TL-378 near Valley Gate and looping existing 20-inch Line No. 280. The estimated cost of the proposed facilities is $22,822,700 which cost would be financed from funds on hand and from funds to be obtained from Applicant's parent corporation, Consolidated Natural Gas Company.

It is stated that the proposed extension of Line No. 50 is required to fill the northern storage pools during summer injection periods and would also enable Applicant to better maintain adequate storage inventories during unusually cold winter conditions. Moreover, the proposed facilities would enhance Applicant's ability to transport gas into its Northern Division to meet the day-to-day requirements of its northern market customers.

Any person desiring to be heard or to make any protest with reference to said application should on or before January 18, 1982, file with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, a petition to intervene or a protest in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) and the Regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR 157.10). All protests filed with the Commission will be considered by it in determining the appropriate action to be taken but will not serve to make the protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party to a proceeding or to participate as a party in any hearing therein must file a petition to intervene in accordance with the Commission's rules.

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission by sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, a hearing will be held without further notice before the Commission or its designee on this application if no petition to intervene is filed within the time required herein, if the Commission on its own review of the matter finds that a grant of the certificate is required by the public convenience and necessity. If a petition for leave to intervene is timely filed, or if the Commission on its own motion believes that a formal hearing is required, further notice of such hearing will be duly given.

Under the procedure herein provided for, unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for Applicant to appear or be represented at the hearing.

Secretary.

BILLING CODE 6717-01-M

[Docket No. CP82-103-000]

MIGC, Inc.; Application

December 30, 1981.

Take notice that on December 4, 1981, MIGC, Inc. (Applicant), 10880 Wilshire Boulevard, Los Angeles, California 90024, filed in Docket No. CP 82-103-000 an application pursuant to section 7(c) of the Natural Gas Act for a certificate of public convenience and necessity authirizing the transportation and exchange of natural gas with Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Company, all as more fully set forth in the application which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

It is stated that Applicant and Panhandle have entered into the Powder River Basin transportation and exchange agreement and A systemwide transportation and exchange agreement both dated February 27, 1981. Such agreements, it is stated, would enable Applicant and Panhandle to connect supplies of gas each has or might acquire in the future which are or would be located remote from the acquiring party's transmission system to the transmission system of the other party.

The Powder River Basin agreement provides for a maximum daily volume of gas to be delivered for transportation and/or exchange of 5,000 Mcf. Sources of supply under the agreement would be natural gas produced in the Powder River Basin of Wyoming. For the transportation of any imbalance volumes, it is stated that the party seeking transportation would pay a transportation charge of 5.5 cents per Mcf. It is also stated that the transporter would be reimbursed for the full cost of making the connection and installing gas measurement facilities at the point of delivery.

Applicant states that the authority requested herein is intended to include not only the specific delivery locations currently reflected in Exhibits C and D of the agreement but also the right of the parties to attach new delivery points at other locations by mutual agreement. In order to keep the Commission apprised of changes that may occur, Applicant proposes to submit each January 31 a tariff revision detailing the delivery points for all sources of gas transported and exchanged pursuant to the agreement. Applicant and Panhandle, it is asserted, expect to redeliver volumes of gas to each other through all redelivery points set forth on Exhibit E attached to the agreement or at such additonal or different redelivery points on which the parties may mutually agree.

It is explained that for gas supplies acquired by one party which are connected to the facilities of the other party on the upstream side of a compressor the amount of gas redelivered to the acquiring party would be equal to 93 percent of the quantity delivered and that for gas supplies acquired by one party connected to the facilities of the other party and not compressed, the amount of gas redelivered to the acquiring party would be equal to 99 percent of the quantity delivered by the acquiring party. It is stated that any out-of-balance condition occurring during any month would be adjusted within 60 days following the end of the month in which it occurred.

It is asserted that the systemwide agreement provdes that Panhandle and Applicant would additionally accept and redeliver gas supplies acquired by the other pipeline in areas other than the Powder River Basin of Wyoming. The agreement provides for a maximum daily volume of gas to be delivered for transportation and/or exchange of 20,000 Mcf. It is further asserted that the pipeline seeking transportation and/or exchange would reimburse the transporting party for any gathering service and would pay a transportation charge for transportation of imbalance volumes. Applicant states that gas transported and exchanged would initially be from delivery points set forth in Exhibit C of the agreement but that points may be added or deleted as supply sources vary. Applicant expects to redeliver volumes of gas to Panhandle as set forth in Exhibit C of the agreement as amended from time to time. Applicant proposes to submit each January 31 a tariff revision detailing the delivery points for all sources of gas transported and exchanged pursuant to the agreement.

It is submitted that unaccounted-for gas would be based upon the transporting party's actual systemwide experience or 0.5 percent whichever is less. The transportation rates were at the time of the agreement 24.80 cents per Mcf for Panhandle's system and 25.61 cents per million Btu for Applicant's system, it is stated. Applicant asserts that any out-of-balance condition occurring during any month would be adjusted insofar as practicable during the following month.

Any person desiring to be heard or to make any protest with reference to said application should on or before January 18, 1982, file with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, a petition to intervene or a protest in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) and the Regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR 157.10). All protests filed with the Commission will be considered by it in determining the appropriate action to be taken but will not serve to make the protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party to a proceeding or to participate as a party in any hearing therein must file a petition to intervene in accordance with the Commission's rules.

Taken further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission by sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, a hearing will be held without further notice before the Commission or its designee on this application if no petition to intervene is filed within the time required herein, if the Commission on its own review of the matter finds that a grant of the certificate is required by the public convenience and necessity. If a petition for leave to intervene is timely filed, or if the Commission on its own motion believes that a formal hearing is required, further notice of such hearing will be duly given.

Under the procedure herein provided for, unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for Applicant to appear or be represented at the hearing.

[Docket No. CP82-99-000]

Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Co. and Trunkline Gas Co.; Application

December 30, 1981.

Take notice that on December 1, 1981, Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Company (Panhandle), P.O. Box 1642, Houston, Texas 77001, and Trunkline Gas Company (Trunkline), P.O. Box 1642, Houston, Texas 77001, filed in Docket No. CP82-99-000 a joint application pursuant to section 7(c) of the Natural Gas Act for a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing the transportation of natural gas for Central Illinois Light Company (CILCO), all as more fully set forth in the application which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

Pursuant to a transportation agreement dated September 24, 1981, Applicants propose to transport up to 1,000 Mcf of natural gas per day on an interruptible basis for CILCO. It is asserted that the gas would be received by Panhandle by displacement from CILCO at Peoria, Illinois, and that Panhandle would redeliver such gas, less 1.0 percent fuel, to Trunkline at Tuscola, Illinois. Trunkline, it is stated, would deliver equivalent volumes to Midwestern Gas Transmission Company (Midwestern) at Potomac, Illinois, and Midwestern would deliver equivalent volumes to CILCO at Oakwood, Illinois. The maximum volume of gas transported would not exceed 60,000 Mcf annually.

It is submitted that CILCO would pay Panhandle a unit charge of 3.48 cents and that Panhandle would pay Trunkline 1.0 cent per Mcf for its pro rata share of the transportation service.

CILCO has informed Applicants that it has excess gas supplies at the Peoria delivery point and that it has a need for additional gas at Oakwood. Applicants assert that utilization of capacity in their existing facilities is the most efficient and economical means of transporting CILCO's gas.

Any person desiring to be heard or to make any protest with reference to said application should on or before January 18, 1982, file with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, a petition to intervene or a protest in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) and the Regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR 157.10). Any person wishing to become a party to a proceeding or to participate as a party in any hearing therein must file a petition to intervene in accordance with the Commission's rules.

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission by sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, a hearing will be held without further notice before the Commission or its designee on this application if no petition to intervene is filed within the time required herein, if the Commission on its own review of the matter finds that a grant of the certificate is required by the public convenience and necessity. Box 2563, Birmingham, Alabama 35202, filed in Docket No. CP82-106-000 an application pursuant to section 7(b) of the Natural Gas Act for permission and approval to abandon certain pipeline facilities and services, all as more fully set forth in the application which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

Applicant proposes to abandon in place approximately 3,770 feet of 4-inch pipeline and appurtenances known as the upstream portion of Applicant's Tinsley Line in Yazoo County, Mississippi, and the transportation services related to that portion of the line. The producers ceased their operations in the area, and the line and services associated therewith have not been utilized for some time.

Applicant also proposes to abandon a certain receiving station facility, approximately 890 feet of 4-inch pipeline and appurtenances located in the North Montegut Field area, Terrebonne Parish, Louisiana. These facilities were installed to receive gas sold to Applicant by Neuhoff Oil and Gas Corporation (Neuhoff), and Neuhoff has received authorization to abandon its sale to Applicant. Applicant states it would also abandon a receiving station facility and appurtenances located in the Pointe-a-la-Hache Field area, Plaquemines Parish, Louisiana, which was constructed to receive gas sold by Davis Oil Company, et al. (Davis). It is stated that by letter dated November 20, 1979, Davis gave written notice of its intent to plug and abandon the well.

In addition Applicant proposes to abandon approximately 1,500 feet of 10-inch pipeline and appurtenances located in the vicinity of the Bienville, Louisiana, Compressor Station on its 14-inch Logansport Line. The transportation service which was effected by those facilities was not required after April 1, 1981.

Finally, Applicant proposes to abandon a receiving station, approximately 0.8 mile of 4-inch pipeline facilities and appurtenances located in the Cranfield Field area, Adams County, Mississippi, which facilities were constructed to receive gas sold to Applicant by ADCO Producing Company, et al. (ADCO). Any person wishing to become a party to a proceeding or to participate as a party in any hearing therein must file a petition to intervene in accordance with the Commission's rules.

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission by sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, a hearing will be held without further notice before the Commission or its designee on this application if no petition to intervene is filed within the time required herein, if the Commission on its own review of the matter finds that permission and approval for the proposed abandonment are required by the public convenience and necessity. If a petition for leave to intervene is timely filed, or if the Commission on its own motion believes that a formal hearing is required, further notice of such hearing will be duly given.

Under the procedure herein provided for, unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for Applicant to appear or be represented at the hearing.

[Docket No. CP82-100-000]

Texas Gas Transmission Corp.; Application

December 30, 1981.

Take notice that on December 1, 1981, Texas Gas Transmission Corporation (Applicant), 3800 Frederica Street, Owensboro, Kentucky 42301, filed in Docket No. CP82-100-000 an application pursuant to section 7(c) of the Natural Gas Act for a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing the construction and operation of a metering station located in Logan County, Kentucky, all as more fully set forth in the application which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

Applicant proposes the construction and operation of a metering station located at approximately m.p. 68+599 on its Elkton-Mitchellville 10-inch pipeline in Logan County at an estimated cost of $95,065. Western Kentucky Gas Company (Western) has agreed to reimburse Applicant for such costs.

It is stated that Western would construct 43,200 feet of 6-inch pipeline to provide natural gas service to Anaconda Aluminum Company's a division of the Anaconda Company (Anaconda) aluminum rolling mill which is under construction in Logan County. Western's proposed 6-inch line, it is stated, would extend from the plant site to a point of intersection with Applicant's 10-inch Elkton-Mitchellville line where the proposed sales meter station would be constructed by Applicant. It is asserted that the natural gas to be sold to Anaconda by Western would be used primarily in the aluminum melting and holding furnaces and in aluminum process furnaces in which aluminum ingot and sheet is thermally processed for metallurgical treatment.

It is stated that service by Western to Anaconda would be on an interruptible basis. The construction of the proposed sales meter station would not result in an increase in Western's existing contract demand or quantity entitlement.

Any person desiring to be heard or to make any protest with reference to said application should on or before January 18, 1982, file with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, a petition to intervene or a protest in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) and the Regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR 157.10). Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corp.; Application

December 30, 1981.

Take notice that on December 8, 1981, Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corporation (Applicant), P.O. Box 1396, Houston, Texas 77251, filed in Docket No. CP82-108-000 an application pursuant to section 7(c) of the Natural Gas Act for a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing the limited-term transportation of natural gas for Elizabethtown Gas Company (Elizabethtown), all as more fully set forth in the application which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

Applicant proposes herein to transport for Elizabethtown up to 26,000 dekatherms (dt) equivalent of natural gas per day which Elizabethtown has available to it from the exploration and development activites of affiliated companies in Genesee County, New York. It is stated that Elizabethtown would arrange to have 21,000 dt equivalent per day made available to Consolidated Gas Supply Corporation (Consolidated) which Consolidated would deliver to Applicant at Leidy, Clinton County, Pennsylvania. It is further stated that Elizabethtown would arrange to have the remaining 5,000 dt equivalent delivered to National Fuel Gas Supply Corporation (National Fuel) and National Fuel would make equivalent quantities available to Applicant at an existing interconnection at the Wharton Storage Field, Potter County, Pennsylvania. Equivalent quantities less quantities retained for compressor fuel and line loss make-up would be delivered by Applicant to Elizabethtown at existing points of delivery between the two companies.

The proposed interruptible transportation service is to be for a term beginning on the date of initial deliveries hereunder and ending on January 3, 1984.

It is stated that Elizabethtown would initially pay 7.0 cents per dt equivalent during the months of November through March and 3.5 cents per dt equivalent during the months of April through October for the subject service. Applicant asserts it would initially retain 0.7 percent per dt equivalent for compressor fuel and line loss make-up during the months of November through March.

It is asserted that the subject gas would assist Elizabethtown in meeting the requirements of its high-priority customers and in returning gas to storage during the summers of 1982 and 1983 for use by its high-priority customers during the following winters.

Any person desiring to be heard or to make any protest with reference to said application should on or before January 18, 1982, file with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, a petition to intervene or a protest in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) and the Regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR 157.10). Any person wishing to become a party to a proceeding or to participate as a party in any hearing therein must file a petition to intervene in accordance with the Commission's rules.

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission by sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, a hearing will be held without further notice before the Commission or its designee on this application if no petition to intervene is filed within the time required herein, if the Commission on its own review of the matter finds that a grant of the certificate is required by the public convenience and necessity. If a petition for leave to intervene is timely filed, or if the Commission on its own motion believes that a formal hearing is required, further notice of such hearing will be duly given.

Under the procedure herein provided for, unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for Applicant to appear or be represented at the hearing.

The request to surrender the preliminary permit was made in order to avoid a conflict with the above-mentioned exemption application. EHC is the predecessor to Swift River Company by contractual arrangement. The surrender is effective as of the date of this notice.

Purpose of Exemption—An exemption, if issued, gives the Exemptee priority of control, development, and operation of the project under the terms of the exemption from licensing, and protects the Exemptee from permit or license applicants that would seek to take or develop the project.

Agency Comments—The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, The National Marine Fisheries Service, and the New Hampshire Department of Fish and Game are requested, for the purposes set forth in Section 408 of the Act, to submit within 60 days from the date of issuance of this notice appropriate terms and conditions to protect any fish and wildlife resources or to otherwise carry out the provisions of the Fish and Wildlife Coordination Act. General comments concerning the project and its resources are requested; however, specific terms and conditions to be included as a condition of exemption must be clearly identified in the agency letter. If an agency does not file terms and conditions within this time period, that agency will be presumed to have none. Other Federal, State, and local agencies are requested to provide any comments they may have in accordance with their duties and responsibilities. No other formal requests for comments will be made. Comments should be confined to substantive issues relevant to the granting of an exemption. If an agency does not file comments within 60 days for the date of issuance of this notice, it will be presumed to have no comments. One copy of an agency's comments must also be sent to the Applicant's representatives.

Competing Applications—Any qualified license applicant desiring to file a competing application must submit to the Commission, on or before February 8, 1982, either the competing license application that proposes to develop at least 7.5 megawatts in that project, or a notice of intent to file such a license application. Submission of a timely notice of intent allows an interested person to file the competing license application no later than 120 days from the date that comments, protests, etc. are due. Applications for preliminary permit will not be accepted.

A notice of intent must conform with the requirements of 18 CFR 4.33 1(b) and (c) (1980). A competing license application must conform with the requirements of 18 CFR 4.33 1(a) and (d) (1980).

Comments, Protests, or Petitions to Intervene—Anyone may submit comments, a protest, or a petition to intervene in accordance with the requirements of the rules of practice and procedure, 18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10 (1980). In determining the appropriate action to take, the Commission will consider all protests or other comments filed, but only those who file a petition to intervene in accordance with the Commission's rules may become a party to the proceeding. Any comments, protests, or petitions to intervene must be received on or before February 8, 1982.

Filing and Service of Responsive Documents—Any filings must bear in all capital letters the title "COMMENTS," "NOTICE OF INTENT TO FILE COMPETING APPLICATION," "COMPETING APPLICATION," "PROTEST,', or "PETITION TO INTERVENE", as applicable, and the Project Number of this notice. Any of the above named documents must be filed by providing the original and those copies required by the Commission's regulations to: Kenneth F. GENERAL SERVICES ADMINISTRATION

Recordkeeping Requirements

AGENCY: General Services Administration.

ACTION: Notice of recordkeeping requirements.

SUMMARY: This notice lists the GSA regulations that prescribe recordkeeping requirements and information collection requests that affect the public. Under the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980, the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) is responsible for approving all of these actions and assigning a control number to them. By publishing this list, GSA intends to clarify the actions that have been approved by OMB and those that have been or will be submitted for approval.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Jack Gilmore (202–566–1164).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The term "information collection" (abbreviated IC in this document) refers to a request by GSA for data that must be sent to GSA. The term "recordkeeping requirement" (abbreviated RR) refers to a GAS request for information that must be maintained and made available for inspection by GSA upon request, but the information need not necessarily be sent to GSA. For example, an IC request could require companies that wish to move freight for GSA to submit certain information before GSA will conduct business with those companies. In contrast, an RR might require a company doing business with GSA to maintain certain data, but those data are not required to be sent to GSA.

Information collections and/or recordkeeping requirements contained in the following regulations or GSA directives have been approved by the Office of Management and Budget under provisions of 44 U.S.C. Chapter 35 and have been assigned the OMB control number indicated:

Health Care Financing Administration

Medicare Program; Solicitation of Comments Related to a Study of Methods for Improving Coverage of Foot Care Services

AGENCY: Health Care Financing Administration (HCFA), HHS.

ACTION: General Notice.

SUMMARY: Present Medicare law specifically excludes coverage of routine foot care. Section 958 of the Omnibus Reconciliation Act of 1980 (Pub. L. 96-499) requires that we conduct a study of the effects of this exclusion and of alternative approaches to improving coverage for specific types of foot conditions. We will submit recommendations concerning coverage changes to Congress, based on the results of the study.

This notice invites organizations and parties concerned with these services to submit material for consideration in the study.

DATES: To assure consideration, comments should be mailed by January 29, 1982.

ADDRESS: Address comments concerning the study: Alice M. Litwinowicz, Office of Research and Demonstrations, Health Care Financing Administration, Room 4439G Health and Human Services Building North, 330 Independence Avenue, SW., Washington, D.C. 20201.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Alice M. Litwinowicz, (202) 245-6306.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Section 1862(a)(13)(C) of the Social Security Act specifically excludes routine foot care from Medicare coverage. Therefore, Congress, in section 958 of Pub. L. 96-499, the Omnibus Reconciliation Act of 1980, mandated a comprehensive analysis of the cost effects of alternative approaches to improving coverage under Medicare for the treatment of various types of foot conditions. The law also requires the Secretary of Health and Human Services to submit a report to Congress on the study and recommend any legislative changes the Secretary finds desirable as a result of conducting the study.

HCFA will conduct this study, and will consider specific foot conditions, the effect of other pathology or disability of the patient, and the cost effects of alternative approaches to improving coverage for specific types of foot conditions. Cost-effectiveness, assurances of quality and appropriateness of services, techniques for utilization and cost controls, and efficiency of administration will be important aspects of the study.

This notice invites interested agencies, professional organizations and other parties to submit views, analyses, and other material for consideration in the study. All material mailed by January 18, 1982 will be considered.

Medicare Program; Solicitation of Comments Related to a Study of Methods for Improving Coverage of Registered Dietitians' Services and for Respiratory Therapy Services Provided by Home Health Agencies

AGENCY: Health Care Financing Administration (HCFA), HHS.

ACTION: General notice.

SUMMARY: Present Medicare law and regulations do not permit coverage of registered dietitians' service or respiratory therapy services when the services are provided by a home health agency. Section 958 of the Omnibus Reconciliation Act of 1980 (Pub. L. 96-499) requires us to conduct studies of the circumstances and conditions under which these services should be covered as a home health benefit, and to submit recommendations concerning coverage changes to Congress based on the result of the studies.

This notice invites organizations and parties concerned with these services to submit material for consideration in the studies.

DATES: To assure consideration, comments on the studies should be mailed by January 29, 1982.

ADDRESS: Address comments concerning the studies to: Mildred Corbin, Office of Research and Demonstrations, Health Care Financing Administration, Room 1-B-15, Oak Meadows Building, 6340 Security Boulevard, Baltimore, Maryland 21207.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION, CONTACT: Mildred Corbin (301) 597-1457.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Medicare covers services of registered dietitians and of respiratory therapists when they are furnished as inpatient services by hospitals and skilled nursing facilities or as outpatient services by hospital outpatient departments. They are also covered if they meet the criteria for services furnished incident to the services of a physician (that is, they are provided under the physician's direct supervision and are included in the physician's bill for services.)

Under current Medicare law concerning home health coverage, Medicare does not cover home visits or direct counseling of patients in the home by a respiratory therapist or registered dietitian. However, home health agencies may be reimbursed for the salaries of these practitioners to provide consultation and general guidance to home health agency staff serving medicare beneficiaries. Also, Medicare covers the rental or purchase of respiratory equipment for use in the home as durable medical equipment.

In section 958 of the Omnibus Reconciliation Act of 1980 (Pub. L. 96–499), Congress directed the Secretary of Health and Human Services to conduct studies of the circumstances and conditions under which services furnished with respect to respiratory therapy and services furnished by a registered dietitian should be covered under Medicare when provided by home health agencies. The law also requires the Secretary to submit a report to Congress on all the studies mandated by section 958 and recommend any legislative changes the Secretary finds desirable as a result of conducting the studies. We will submit separate reports on the two studies discussed in this notice.

HCFA will conduct separate studies of the two types of benefits, including the need for the services in relation to medical diagnoses; qualifications and supply of manpower; quality assurances; techniques for control of utilization; quidelines for determining charges and controlling costs; and equitable and efficient administration. We will pay particular attention to cost/benefits considerations.

This notice invites interested agencies, professional organizations and other parties to submit views, analyses and similar material for consideration in either study. We will consider all material mailed by January 29, 1982.

Public Health Service

Privacy Act System; New System of Records

AGENCY: Department of Health and Human Services; Public Health Service.

ACTION: Notification of a new system of records.

SUMMARY: In accordance with the requirements of the Privacy Act, the Public Health Service (PHS) is publishing this notice of a proposal to establish a new system of records: Health Professions Preparatory Scholarship Program for Indians and Health Professions Scholarship Program Record System, HHS/HSA/IHS, 09–15–0036. We are also including routine uses with this system of records. PHS invites interested persons to submit comments on the proposed routine uses on or before February 1, 1982.

DATES: PHS has sent a Report of a New System to the Congress and to the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) on December 10, 1981. PHS has requested that OMB grant a waiver of the usual requirement that a system of records not be put into effect until 60 days after the report is sent to OMB and the Congress. If this waiver request is granted, PHS will publish a notice to that effect in the Federal Register.

ADDRESS: Comments should be addressed to: Director, Office of Communication and Public Affairs, Health Services Administration, Parklawn Building, 5600 Fishers Lane, Room 14A–55, Rockville, Maryland 20857.

Comments received will be available for inspection in Room 14A–55, Parklawn Building, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, Maryland 20857. Business hours of this office are 8:30 A.M. to 5:00 P.M. weekdays.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Ann Barber, Acting HSA Privacy Act Coordinator, Parklawn Building, 5600 Fishers Lane, Room 14A–55, Rockville, Maryland 20857 (301) 443–2065. (This is not a toll-free number.)

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Indian Health Service (IHS), Health Services Administration, proposes to establish a new system of records, the purposes of which are to select candidates for the IHS scholarship program, to monitor the scholarship-related activities of recipients, and to evaluate the effectiveness of the program. Scholarship-related activities are defined as enrollment and attendance in IHS-funded courses, the receipt by the student of a monthly stipend and the expenditure of funds by the student for the purchase of supplies (including books), equipment, tuition, fees and other reimbursable and justified expenses authorized by IHS.

This system of records will be used only by the components of IHS that are involved in the administration, evaluation or planning of the scholarship grant program. The Human Resources Management Branch, Office of Program Support, IHS, is responsible for scholarship grant records in this system. This proposed new system permits the administration of the IHS scholarship program in accordance with the provisions of the Indian Health Care Improvement Act, 25 U.S.C. 1601 et. seq. These activities fall under the purview of the Privacy Act of 1974.

This system of records contains records of individuals who have applied for and have been approved to receive, are receiving, and have received scholarship grant funds provided by IHS for two purposes: compensatory education (section 103) and training in health professions where there are identified health manpower shortages (section 104).

Students apply directly to IHS for section 103 and 104 scholarship grants. IHS transmits scholarship grant approval or rejection notices directly to each applicant. Students accepted for funding under either program are assigned an IHS staff person to assist the student with oversight of his/her scholarship requirements. Area/Program Office Scholarship Coordinators may provide the student technical assistance with regard to the submission of expense vouchers in the event the student is unable to contact his/her monitor. In addition, an IHS Headquarters Branch Chief, for the health care discipline the scholarship grant recipient is being trained for, will assist with placement of the student to fulfill the student's service obligation payback.

The confidentiality of all records contained in this system of records is strictly enforced. Essential safeguards to be introduced into the operation of the system of records are as follows:

IHS personnel authorized to make use of records contained in this system of records are made aware of their responsibilities under the provisions of the Privacy Act and are required to maintain Privacy Act safeguards with respect to such records. Hard copy data are maintained in locked file cabinets and in secured storage areas. Access is limited to authorized personnel (system manager, his/her staff and staff of the Grants Management Office, IHS).

Records in this system are retained by IHS for one year after the final award payment has been made by IHS and are then retired to a Federal Records Center. Records are shredded or burned by the Federal Records Center four years after they are received.

The Privacy Act of 1974 allows disclosure of information without the consent of the individual for "routine uses," that is, disclosure for purposes which are compatible with the purposes for which the data are collected. Accordingly, we are establishing four routine uses of information in this system. The relationship between each of these four routine uses to the purpose of the system follows.

The first routine use provides for disclosure: "To a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual." This routine use would not violate the privacy of the subject individual and is compatible with the purpose of the system because such disclosure would be made only pursuant to a request initiated by the subject individual.

The second routine use of this system permits disclosure: "To authorized persons employed by the grantee institution (the institution which the recipient of a scholarship grant is attending) as needed for the administration of a scholarship grant award." This routine use is compatible with the system's purpose to monitor the scholarship-related activities of candidates selected. If authorized personnel at the grantee institution determine that the student is not complying with the terms of the scholarship agreement, they will so notify authorized IHS personnel.

The third routine use of this system permits disclosure: "to other Federal agencies that also provide scholarship funding at the request of these Federal agencies in conjunction with a matching program conducted by these Federal agencies to detect or curtail fraud and abuse in Federal scholarship programs, and to collect delinquent loans or benefit payments owed to the Federal Government." One purpose of this system of records is to document, monitor and evaluate scholarship grantee performance and expenditures. Thus the disclosure of names and Social Security Numbers of persons awarded scholarship grants by IHS to these Federal agencies reduces the chances of fraud of abuse. Relevant Federal agencies include but are not limited to the Bureau of Indian Affairs, Department of Interior; components of the Department of Education; and the Department of Defense.

The fourth routine use states that portions of the records contained in this system will be published in the Federal Register. Disclosures to the public of nonsensitive information in this system identified by individual are required by the terms of the final rules and regulations implementing the IHS scholarship grant program.

For the reasons stated above, IHS believes that the routine uses of this system of records are compatible with the purpose of this system of record.

Dated: December 15, 1981.

Wilford J. Forbush,

Deputy Assistant Secretary for Health Operations and Director, Office of Management.

SYSTEM NAME:

Health Professions Preparatory Scholarship Program for Indians and Health Professions Scholarship Program Record System, HHS/HSA/IHS.

SECURITY CLASSIFICATION:

None.

SYSTEM LOCATION:

Human Resources Management Branch, Indian Health Service, 5600 Fishers Lane, Room 6A–23, Rockville, Maryland 20857; and Washington National Records Center, 4205 Suitland Road, Washington, D.C. 20409.

CATEGORIES OF INDIVIDUALS COVERED BY THE SYSTEM:

Persons who have applied for and have been approved to receive, persons who are receiving, and persons who have received scholarship grant funds since January 1978 from the Health Professions Preparatory Scholarship Program for Indians and/or Health Professions Scholarship Program. Applicants for financial support awarded under the Health Professions Preparatory Scholarship Program for Indians must be American Indians or Alaskan Natives. Even though there is no racial requirement for the Health Professions Scholarship Program, priority selection is accorded to American Indian and Alaskan Native applicants, as stated in the legislation establishing this program.

CATEGORIES OF RECORDS IN THE SYSTEM:

Records include grant applications of selected applicants only, and selection and performance records. In addition to the application forms for each of the two scholarship programs, these records also contain high school and college grade transcripts, evidence of acceptance in a school covered by the program, two faculty letters of recommendation or faculty evaluation forms, documentation of Indian eligibility (BIA Certification or State-Recognized Tribes Certification) for scholarship grant applicants who are claiming priority selection as American Indians or Alaskan Natives, verification from a school official that the course is required to meet an educational deficiency and that the program represents a full course load (for Health Professions Preparatory Scholarship Program), signed contract (for Health Professions Scholarship Program), and a brief written explanation of the applicants' reasons for requesting the scholarship. Progress reports and vouchers of expenditures are included with the records after the scholarships have been awarded.

Information requested on a scholarship grant application form includes: Full name of applicant, mailing address, telephone number, place of birth, citizenship, school in which enrolled or accepted for enrollment as a full-time student, dates of attendance, expected date of graduation, , length of program in years, tuition and fees charged, future speciality, present and previous residences (city, county, state), work experience, and career goals. In addition, the Social Security Number (SSN) is requested on the scholarship grant application (optional on the application but required prior to the award of a grant). IHS scholarship grant recipients have an active duty service obligation (25 U.S.C. 1613) and are entitled to employment in IHS during any nonacademic period of the year (25 U.S.C. 1614). In anticipation of these obligations and entitlements, the SSN is obtained from IHS scholarship grant recipients at the time of grant award for identification of "permanent" accounts for these individuals.

AUTHORITY FOR MAINTENANCE OF THE SYSTEM:

Section 103 of the Indian Health Care Improvement Act, 25 U.S.C. 1613, Health Professions Preparatory Scholarship Program for Indians.

Section 104 of the Indian Health Care Improvement Act, 42 U.S.C. 294y-1, Indian Health Scholarship Program.

Executive Order 9397, dated November 22, 1943, authorizing Federal agencies to collect SSNs from Federal employees for identification of "permanent" accounts.

PURPOSE:

The purpose of this system of records is to select candidates for the Indian Health Service scholarship program, to monitor the scholarship-related activities of candidates selected, and to evaluate the effectiveness of the program. Scholarship-related activities are defined as enrollment and attendance in IHS-funded courses, the receipt by the student of a monthly stipend and the expenditure of funds by the student for the purchase of supplies (including books), equipment, tuition, fees and other reimbursable and justified expenses authorized by IHS.

ROUTINE USES OF RECORDS MAINTAINED IN THE SYSTEM, INCLUDING CATEGORIES OF USERS AND THE PURPOSES OF SUCH USES:

1. Records may be disclosed to a congressional office in response to an inquiry from that office made at the request of the subject individual.

2. Records may be disclosed to authorized persons employed by the grantee institution (the institution which the recipient of a scholarship grant is attending) as needed for the administration of a scholarship grant award.

3. Records may be disclosed to other Federal agencies that also provide scholarship funding at the request of these Federal agencies in conjunction with a matching program conducted by these Federal agencies to detect or curtail fraud and abuse in Federal scholarship programs, and to collect delinquent loans or benefit payments owed to the Federal Government.

4. Name, tribal affiliation if applicable, and school of scholarship recipients will be published in the Federal Register as required by the terms of the legislation establishing the IHS scholarship grant program.

POLICIES AND PRACTICES FOR STORING, RETRIEVING, ACCESSING, RETAINING AND DISPOSING OF RECORDS IN THE SYSTEM:

STORAGE:

Records are maintained in folders, ledgers, and on electronic word processing diskettes.

RETRIEVABILITY:

Records which identify individual persons are indexed by name or identification number of scholarship grant applicant or recipient.

SAFEGUARDS:

1. Paper records are stored in locked file cabinets. The record storage area is secured during off-duty hours. This area is not left unattended during office hours, including lunch hours. Records are not removed from the area in which they are maintained in the absence of proper charge-out procedures.

2. All IHS personnel who make use of records contained in this system are made aware of their responsibilities under the provisions of the Privacy Act and are required to maintain Privacy Act safeguards with respect to such records.

3. When copying records for authorized purposes, care is taken to ensure that any imperfect pages are not left in the reproduction room where they can be read, but are destroyed or obliterated.

4. Access is limited only to authorized personnel in the performance of their duties. Authorized personnel includes the system manager, his/her staff and staff of the Grants Management Office, IHS.

5. Word processing diskettes are stored in areas where fire and life safety codes are strictly enforced. Twenty-four hour, seven-day security guards perform random checks on the physical security of the data. Word processing diskettes are off-loaded and stored in locked cabinets when not in use. A data set name controls the release of data to only authorized users.

These safeguards are in accordance with: (1) HHS General Administration Manual chapter 45–13 and supplemental chapter PHS.hf: 45–13, "Safeguarding Records Contained in Systems of Records," (2) PHS Grants Administration Manual chapter PHS.i.1–602, "Information on Individuals Obtained in Grant Applications," and (3) Part 6, "Systems Security" of the HHS ADP Systems Manual.

RETENTION AND DISPOSAL:

Records in this system are retained by IHS for one year after the final award payment has been made by IHS and are then retired to a Federal Records Center. Records are shredded or burned by the Federal Records Center four years after they are received.

SYSTEM MANAGER AND ADDRESS:

Chief, Human Resources Management Branch, Indian Health Service, 5600 Fishers Lane, Room 6A–23, Rockville, Maryland 20857.

NOTIFICATION PROCEDURE:

Requests by mail or in person: To substantiate the identity of subject individual seeking access to his/her scholarship grant application and/or performance record, the requester must provide his/her name, signature, and Grant Identification Number. BILLING CODE 4115-84-M

Office of the Secretary

Medicare Program; Premium Rate for the Uninsured Aged

AGENCY: Office of the Secretary (OS), HHS.

ACTION: General notice.

SUMMARY: This notice announces Medicare's monthly hospital insurance premium for the uninsured aged for the 12 months beginning July 1, 1982. Section 1818(d)(2) of the Social Security Act requires the Secretary of HHS to publish, during the last quarter of each calendar year, the amount of the monthly hospital insurance program (Part A of Medicare) premium for voluntary enrollment for the 12-month period beginning with the following July 1.

EFFECTIVE DATE: July 1, 1982.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Guy King, Acting Director, Office of Financial and Actuarial Analysis, 3-0-3 Operations Building, Baltimore, Maryland 21235, Telephone: (301) 594-2826.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Under the authority in section 1818(d)(2) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1395i-2(d)(2)), I have determined that the monthly Medicare hospital insurance premium for the uninsured aged for the 12 months beginning July 1, 1982, is $113.

Section 1818 of the Social Security Act provides for voluntary enrollment in the hospital insurance program (Part A of Medicare), subject to payment of a nonthly premium, of certain persons age 65 and older who are uninsured for social security or railroad retirement benefits and do not otherwise meet the requirements for entitlement to hospital insurance. (Persons insured under the Social Security or Railroad Retirement Acts need not pay premiums for hospital insurance.)

Section 1818(d)(2) of the Act requires the Secretary to determine and publish, during the last quarter of each calendar year, the amout of the monthly Part A premium for voluntary enrollment for the 12-month period beginning with the following July 1. The formula specified in this section also requires that, for the period beginning July 1, 1982, the 1973 base year premium ($33) be multiplied by the ratio of (1) the 1982 inpatient hospital deductible to (2) the 1973 inpatient hospital deductible, rounded to the nearer multiple of $1 or, if midway between multiples of $1, to the next higher multiple of $1.

Under section 1813(b)(2) of the Act, the 1982 inpatient hospital deductible was determined to be $260. (See 46 FR 47115, September 24, 1981.) The 1973 deductible was actuarially determined to be $76, although the 1973 deductible was actually promulgated to be only $72,to comply with a ruling of the Cost of Living Council. (See 37 FR 21452, October 11, 1972.) The monthly premium for the 12-month period beginning July 1, 1982 has been calculated using the $76 deductible for 1973, since this more closely satisfies the intent of the law. Thus the monthly hospital insurance premium is $33 x (260/76)=$112.89, which is rounded to $113.

Impact Analyses

The monthly hospital insurance premium for the uninsured aged for the 12-month period beginning July 1, 1982 will increase to $113. That amount is 27 percent higher than the $89 monthly premium amount for the previous 12-month period.

The estimated cost of this increase to the approximately 24,000 enrollees who do not meet the requirements for entitlement to hospital insurance will be about $7,000,000.

Because this notice merely announces an amount required by the formula specified in section 1818(d)(2) of the Act, and does not alter any regulation or policy, no analyses under Executive Order 12291 or the Regulatory Flexibility Act, Pub. L. 96-354, are required.

BILLING CODE 4120-03-M

Monthly Actuarial Rates and Monthly Premium Rate

AGENCY: Office of the Secretary (OS), HHS.

ACTION: General notice.

SUMMARY: This notice announces the monthly actuarial rates for aged (age 65 or over) and disabled (under age 65) enrollees in the Medicare Supplementary Medical Insurance (SMI) program for the twelve months beginning July 1982. It also announces the monthly SMI premium rate to be paid by all enrollees during the twelve months beginning July 1982.

EFFECTIVE DATE: July 1, 1982.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Joseph N. Romano, Supervisory Actuary, Division of Medicare Cost Estimates, 3-0-3 Operations Building, Baltimore, Maryland 21235, Telephone: (301) 594-1023.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Each December, the Secretary of Health and Human Services is required by law to issue two notices relating to the Medicare Supplementary Medical Insurance (SMI) program.

One notice announces two amounts that, according to actuarial estimates, will equal, respectively, one-half the expected average monthly cost of SMI per aged enrollee (age 65 or over) and one-half the expected average monthly cost of SMI per disabled enrollee (under age 65) during the 12 months beginning the following July. These amounts are called "monthly actuarial rates".

The second notice announces the monthly SMI premium rate to be paid by aged and disabled enrollees for the 12 months beginning the following July. (Although the costs to the program per disabled enrollee are higher than for the aged, the law provides that they pay the same premium amount.) The premium rate must be the lesser of the actuarial rate for aged enrollees, or the current monthly premium rate increased by the same percentage as the most recent general increase in monthly title II social security benefits (effective the preceding June). The difference between the premiums paid by all enrollees and total incurred costs is met from the general revenues of the Federal Government.

The notices of these amounts for the period July 1, 1982, through June 30, 1983, are as follows:

Notice of Monthly Actuarial Rates

As required by sections 1839(c)(1) and (4) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1395r(c)(1) and (4)), as amended, I have determined that the monthly actuarial rates applicable for the 12-month period beginning July 1, 1982, are $24.60 for enrollees age 65 and over, and $42.10 for disabled enrollees under age 65. The accompanying statement gives the actuarial assumptions and bases from which these rates are derived.

Notice of Monthly Premium Rate

As required by section 1839(c)(3) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1395r(c)(3)), as amended, I have determined that the basic premium amount will be $12.20 monthly during the period July 1, 1982 to June 30, 1983. The accompanying statement shows how this amount was derived.

Statement of Actuarial Assumptions and Bases Employed in Determining the Monthly Actuarial Rates and the Standard Monthly Premium Rate for the Supplementary Medical Insurance Program Beginning July 1982

1. Actuarial Status of the Supplementary Medical Insurance Trust Fund

The law requires that the SMI program be financed on an incurred basis. That is, program income during the 12-month period for which the actuarial rates are effective must be sufficient to pay for services furnished during that period (including associated administrative costs) even though payment for some of these services will not be made until after the close of the period. The portion of income required to cover benefits not paid until after the close of the 12-month period is added to the trust fund until needed. Thus, the assets in the trust fund at any time should be no less than benefit and administrative costs incurred but not yet paid.

Because the rates are established prospectively, they are subject to projection error. As a result, the income to the program may not equal incurred costs. Therefore, trust fund assets should be maintained at a level that is adequate to cover a moderate degree of projection error in addition to the amount of incurred but unpaid expenses. Table 1 summarizes the estimated status of the trust fund as of June 30 for each of the years 1980–82.

TABLE 1.—ACTUARIAL STATUS OF THE SMI TRUST FUND, 12-MONTH PERIODS ENDING JUNE 30 OF 1980–82

[In millions]

	Assets	Liabilities	Assets less liabilities
12-month period ending June 30—
1980	$4,658	$3,479	$1,179
1981	3,801	3,964	−163
1982	5,564	4,521	1,043

2. Monthly Actuarial Rate for Enrollees Age 65 and Older

The monthly actuarial rate is one-half the monthly projected cost of benefits and administrative expenses for each enrollee age 65 and older, adjusted to allow for interest earnings on assets in the trust fund and a contingency margin. The contingency margin is an amount appropriate to provide for a moderate degree of projection error and to amortize unfunded liabilities.

The monthly actuarial rate for enrollees age 65 and older for the 12-month period ending June 30, 1983, was determined by projecting per-enrollee cost for the 12-month period ending June 30, 1980, by type of service. The projected costs for the 12-month periods ending June 30 of 1980–1983 are shown in Table 2. The values for the 12-month period ending June 30, 1980, were established from program data. Subsequent periods were projected using a combination of program data and data from external sources. The projection factors used are shown in table 3.

[1] All values are per enrollee. Also, the values for 1981 and 1982 differ significantly from those contained in last year's notice due to an additional year's data which support the current values and due to the implementation of the provisions of the 1980 Omnibus Reconciliation Act, Pub. L. 96-499, and the 1981 Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act, Pub. L. 97-35.
[2] As recognized for payment under the program.
[3] Increase in the number of services received per enrollee and greater relative use of more expensive services.

The projected monthly rate required to pay for one-half of the total of benefits and administrative costs for enrollees age 65 and over for the 12-month period ending June 30, 1983, is $24.27. The monthly actuarial rate of $24.60 provides an adjustment for interest earnings and $.84 for a contingency margin. This margin amortizes a small unfunded liability for the aged and provides a small contingency for projection error.

3. Monthly Actuarial Rate for Disabled Enrollees

Disabled enrollees are those persons enrolled in SMI because of entitlement to disability benefits for not less than 24 months or because of entitlement to Medicare under the end-stage renal disease program. Projected monthly costs for disabled enrollees (other than those suffering from end-stage renal disease) in Table 3 are prepared in a fashion exactly parallel to projections for the aged, using appropriate actuarial assumptions. Costs for the end-stage renal disease program are projected using a different computer model because of the complex demographic problems involved. The combined results of all disabled enrollees are shown in Table 4.

The projected monthly rate required to pay for one-half of the total of benefits and administrative costs for disabled enrollees for the 12-month period ending June 30, 1983 is $45.59. The monthly actuarial rate of $42.10 provides an adjustment for interest earnings and $.01 for a contingency margin. This margin is small since there is already a more than moderate excess of assets over liabilities for the disabled.

4. Sensitivity Testing

Several factors contribute to uncertainty about future trends in medical care costs. In view of this, it seems appropriate to test the adequacy of the rates announced here using alternative assumptions. The most unpredictable factors that contribute significantly to future costs are outpatient hospital costs, physician utilization (measured indirectly and reflecting the use of more visits per enrollee, the use of more expensive services, and other factors not explained by simple price per service increases), and increases in physician fees as constrained by the program's reasonable charge screens and economic index. Two alternative sets of assumptions and the results of those assumptions are shown in Table 5. All assumptions not shown in Table 5 are the same as in Table 3.

Table 5 no longer analyzes the variability of the cost of home health agency services. Section 930 of Pub. L. 96–499 amended section 1832(a)(2)(A) of the Act to provide for unlimited home health visits under both hospital insurance and supplementary medical insurance, and amended section 1812(a)(3) to eliminate the requirement for a prior hospitalization for payment under hospital insurance. Also, section 1833(d) of the Act requires that services that could be paid under either hospital insurance or supplementary medical insurance are to be paid under hospital insurance. Therefore, virtually all home health services are now paid under the hospital insurance program. Consequently, alternative sets of assumptions are no longer provided for home health services in analyzing the adequacy of the rates announced.

Table 5 indicates that, under the assumptions used in preparing this report, the monthly actuarial rates will result in an excess of assets over liabilities of $1,553 million by the end of June 1983. This amounts to 7.3 percent of the estimated total incurred expenditures for the following year. Assumptions which are somewhat more pessimistic, and therefore which indicate the degree that assets can accommodate projection errors, produce a deficit of $867 million by the end of June 1983, which amounts to a deficit of 3.7 percent of the estimated total incurred expenditures for the following year. Under fairly optimistic assumptions, the monthly actuarial rates will result in an excess of $3,850 million, which amounts to 20.3 percent of the estimated total incurred expenditures for the following year.

[4] Ratio of assets less liabilities at the end of the year to total incurred expenditures during the following year, expressed as a percent.

5. Standard Premium Rate

The law provides that the standard monthly premium rate for both aged and disabled enrollees shall be the lesser of:

1. The monthly actuarial rate for enrollees age 65 and older; or

2. The current standard monthly premium, increased by the same percentage that the level of old-age, survivors, and disability insurance (OASDI) benefits has been increased since the May preceding the announcement (and rounded to the nearer multiple of ten cents).

The standard monthly premium rate for the 12-month period ending with June 30, 1982 is $11.00. The OASDI benefit table increased 11.2 percent in June 1981. The $11.00 rate, increased by 11.2 percent and rounded to the nearer ten cent multiple, is $12.20. Since this is less than the aged actuarial rate, the standard premium rate will be $12.20 for the 12 months ending with June 1983.

Impact Analyses

The monthly SMI premium rate of $12.20 for all enrollees during the 12-month period beginning July 1, 1982 is 11.2 percent higher than the $11.00 monthly premium amount for the previous 12-month period.

The estimated cost of this increase to the approximately 28.6 million SMI enrollees will be about $410 million for the 12-month period beginning July 1, 1982.

Because this notice of the SMI premium rate announces an amount required by the formula specified in section 1839(c)(3) of the Act, and does not alter any regulation or policy, no analyses under Executive Order 12291 or the Regulatory Flexibility Act, Pub. L. 96-354, are required.

Office of Management and Budget Approval Numbers for Certain Recordkeeping/Reporting Requirements Contained in Department of Health and Human Services Regulations

The following table displays the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) approval numbers for: (1) Recordkeeping requirements contained in regulations issued by the Department of Health and Human Services, and (2) reporting requirements in those regulations for which there are no forms displaying an OMB approval number. The Department has determined that publication of Table A assists potential respondents and carries out the intent of the public protection clause (Section 3512) of the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980 (Pub. L. 96-511) which states that "* * * no person shall be subject to any penalty for failing to maintain or provide any information * * * if the information collection request was made after December 31, 1981, and does not display a current control number assigned by the Director * * *"

Final regulations containing reporting and/or recordkeeping requirements issued by this Department in the future will normally cite the OMB number in the preamble. If the reporting and/or recordkeeping requirements have not been approved, the regulation will contain a statement that those requirements are not effective until OMB approval has been obtained.

Proposed Project Grants for Services in Refugee and Entrant High-Impact Areas and Availability of Funding for Entrant Projects; Availability of Funding AGENCY: Office of Refugee Resettlement (ORR), SSA, HHS.

ACTION: Notice of proposed availability of funding for project grants for services in high-impact areas.

SUMMARY: This notice announces the proposed availability of funds and award procedures for project grants for services to refugees and Cuban and Haitian entrants (hereafter, "entrants") under the Refugee Resettlement Program (RRP) and the Cuban/Haitian Entrant Program (CHEP) in States and localities with high concentrations of refugees or entrants where specific needs exist for supplementation of currently available resources. In FY 1982, funds are expected to be available for project grants for Cuban and Haitian entrants only.

DATE: Comments on the requirements and procedures set forth in this notice will be considered if received by February 1, 1982.

ADDRESS: Address written comments, in duplicate, to: Mark Zecca, Office of Refugee Resettlement, Room 1229, Switzer Building, 330 C Street, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20201.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mark Zecca, (202) 472–6510.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Purpose and Scope

This notice announces the proposed availability of funds for special project grants for services to refugees and/or Cuban and Haitian entrants in areas where, because of factor such as an unusually high concentration of refugees or entrants, there exists and can be demonstrated a specific need for supplementation of currently available resources for services to these populations.

The Department currently expects approximately $20,000,000 in fiscal year 1982 to be available for this purpose with respect to Cuban and Haitian entrants. No funds are currently expected to be available with respect to refugees in fiscal year 1982. However, the Department proposes to make the requirements and procedures set forth in this proposal applicable to the refugee program as well as the entrant program if funds should become available in the future.

The purpose of the proposed grants is to provide additional services to entrants or refugees in areas where resources for these purposes have been unusually strained due to factors such as especially large concentrations of entrants or refugees. Funding of these special projects is intended to promote effective resettlement and provision of needed services to refugees while at the same time helping to offset extraordinary impacts or burdens on State and local resources.

Funds awarded will be generally related to the extent of the specific needs to be addressed and the degree of concentration and number of entrants/refugees in the geographic area to be served by a proposed project, as documented in applications.

II. Authorization

Refugee projects would be funded under the authority of section 412(c) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (INA), as amended by the Refugee Act of 1980 (Pub. L. 96–212), 8 U.S.C. 1522(c). Entrant projects would be funded under this same authority as made applicable to the Cuban and Haitian entrant program by section 501(a) of the Refugee Education Assistance Act of 1980 (Pub. L. 96–422).

III. Eligible Grantees

The Department proposes to limit eligible grantees to those agencies of State governments designated as responsible for the refugee program under 45 CFR 400.5. (Subgrants and subcontracts to other agencies would be permitted if set forth in detail in the application.)

In assessing the adequacy of a State agency's demonstration of need for supplementation of existing resources, the Director of ORR will take into consideration the ratio of entrants or refugees to the total population of the State. A ratio of 1:200 or greater will be considered strong evidence of need. Where a State agency can satisfactorily demonstrate a high level of concentration in one or more local areas within the State, even though the State's total entrant/refugee population ratio does not meet the above criterion, such concentration will also be considered strong evidence of need.

Applications submitted in response to this notice are not subject to review by State and areawide clearinghouses under the procedures in Part I of Office of Management and Budget Circular No. A–95.

IV. Eligible Projects

An applying State agency would be required to set forth in detail: (1) The proposed use(s) of a project grant; (2) the local area(s) where the activities would be carried out; (3) the subgrantees or subcontractors (if any) which would carry out specific activities; and (4) the specific group(s) of entrants/refugees who would be served.

Explicit justification would be required in the application for each specific activity proposed for each specific local area to be served, together with detailed proposed budgets.

The applicant would be required to justify in the application why additional Federal funds are needed beyond those currently available for refugee/entrant social services, and how the activities proposed in the application would supplement and be coordinated with ongoing activities under the State's plan for the refugee or entrant cash and medical assistance and social service programs.

Permissible activities would include the broad range allowed under section 412(c) of the INA, subject to the demonstration of need for a particular activity, as indicated above. Permissible activities could include adult English language training, employment services, emergency food and shelter, health services, certain types of educational services, relocation services to less impacted areas, and other types of services where specific needs for supplementation of State, local, or other resources for the provision of services to refugees or entrants could be documented.

V. Criteria for Evaluating Applications

An applying State agency must demonstrate a specific need for the supplementation of currently available resources for the provision of needed services to refugees or entrants in one or more local areas within the State. A ratio of refugees or entrants to total population in a State or locality exceeding 1:200 will be considered strong evidence of such need.

The application must spell out clearly the relationship between the requested special project funds and the State's activities being carried out with other Federal refugee/entrant funds.

Highest priority would be given to those service projects which are intended to result in early self-support of refugees and entrants, to meet urgent needs of individuals and families within the refugee or entrant populations, and to avoid major impacts or burdens on State or local resources which may result in an incapacity of those States or localities to serve refugees and entrants effectively and to promote their effective resettlement in, or integration with, American communities.

Project grant applications will be evaluated on the following criteria:

1. Documentation of high concentration of entrants or refugees.
2. Demonstration of special need for supplementation of other available resources in order to serve these populations.
3. Documentation of extraordinary impact on State or local resources meriting special project grant.
4. Adequacy of justification for each specific activity proposed for each specific local area.
5. Adequacy of description of how proposed activities would supplement and be coordinated with a State's plan for refugee or entrant cash and medical assistance and social service programs.
6. Extent to which activities would be targeted to specific areas of greatest refugee/entrant concentrations and needs.
7. Experience and qualifications of proposed subgrantees/subcontractors to carry out identified activities.
8. Reasonableness of estimated costs in relation to anticipated results.

VI. HHS Regulations That Apply

The following HHS regulations apply to grants under this Notice:

42 CFR Part 441, Subparts E and F Services: Requirements and limits applicable to specific services—Abortions and Sterilizations

45 CFR Part 16, Department grant appeals process

45 CFR Part 74, Administration of grants

45 CFR Part 75, Informal grant appeals procedures

45 CFR Part 80, Nondiscrimination under programs receiving Federal assistance through the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare effectuation of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964

45 CFR Part 81, Practice and procedure for hearings under Part 80 of this title

45 CFR Part 84, Nondiscrimination on the basis of handicap in programs and activities receiving or benefiting from Federal financial assistance

VII. Reporting and Recordkeeping

Section IV of this announcement establishes reporting and recordkeeping which require OMB review and approval. Since HHS cannot be certain of the number of applicants for these funds, HHS will seek OMB approval of the application requirements established by this announcement. These application requirements will not be effective until OMB approves them. Following OMB approval, we will announce the effective date of the application requirements in the Federal Register.

The original notice contains the legal description of the 13.16 acres of public land, the justification for the modified competitive sale, and the terms and conditions to be included in the conveyance document. All interested parties have until January 4, 1982, to submit comments to the State Director, Montana State Office.

The modified competitive sale of the subject parcel of public land in Treasure County, Montana, will be held at the Montana State Office, 222 North 32nd Street, Billings, Montana, on Tuesday, January 26, 1982, at 10 a.m.

Bidding Information and Instructions:

Bidder Qualifications: The Federal Land Policy and Management Act requires that bidders be U.S. citizens or, in the case of a corporation, subject to the laws of any state or the U.S. Bids must be made by the principal (the one desiring to purchase the land) or his agent (someone representing him).

Bid Standards: No bid will be accepted for less than the appraised value of $1,000 and bids must include all the land contained in the parcel.

Method of Bidding: The land will be sold by sealed bid only. Bids delivered or sent by mail will be considered only if received by the Bureau of Land Management, 222 North 32nd Street, P.O. Box 30157, Billings, Montana 59107, prior to 10 a.m. on January 26. Each bid must be in a sealed envelope accompanied by a certified check, postal money order, bank draft, or cashier's check made payable to the Bureau of Land Management for not less than one-fifth of the amount of the bid. The sealed bid envelopes must be marked in the lower left hand corner as follows:

Public Land Sale M 51799
January 26, 1982

If two or more envelopes containing valid bids of the same amount are received, the determination of which is to be considered the highest bid shall be by drawing. The drawing, if required, shall be held immediately following the opening of the sealed bids. The highest qualifying sealed bid shall then be publicly declared.

Modified Bidding: For a period of 30 days following the date of the sale, Mr. John G. Michunovich, the owner of the private land ajoining the sale parcel, will be offered the right to meet the highest bid. If he meets the highest bid, the land will be sold to him, and the other bid will be returned. His refusal to meet the highest bid shall constitute a waiver of such bidding provisions.

Final Details: Once a high bid is accepted, the successful bidder shall submit the remainder of the full bid price within the time period designated by the authorized officer. Failure to submit the required amount within the allotted time will result in cancellation of the sale of the parcel and the deposit will be forfeited.

BILLING CODE 4310–84–M

Oregon and Washington Wilderness Planning; Commencement or Continuation of Wilderness Studies in Lakeview, Burns, Vale, Prineville, Baker, Medford, Coos Bay, and Spokane Districts

In accordance with 43 CFR 1601.3(g) notice is hereby given of resource planning activity now underway.

The proposed action is the preparation of a series of wilderness Management Framework Plan (MFP) amendments in the Lakeview, Burns, Baker, Prineville, Coos Bay and Spokane Districts.

The purpose of the plan amendments and other on-going total-plan revisions is to determine the suitability or unsuitability for wilderness designation of 89 Wilderness Study Areas (WSAs) on Bureau of Land Management (BLM) managed public lands. The plan amendment and revision processes, together with a wilderness environmental impact statement (EIS) for all WSA's in Oregon, will result in preliminary suitability recommendations for the Oregon WSA's which will be forwarded to the BLM Director in late 1984. An environmental assessment of wilderness designation alternatives will be prepared to determine whether an EIS is required for the two WSA's in Washington, The preliminary suitability recommendations for the Washington WSA's will be submitted to the Director in 1983, unless an EIS is considered necessary. The Director will submit his recommendations to the Secretary of the Interior, who will make final recommendations to the President. The President will send them to Congress. Congress will make the final decision on which study areas or portions of study areas will be designated wilderness.

Where the studies are being conducted in MFP amendments, study areas not designated as wilderness by Congress will be managed according to land use decisions already present in the appropriate MFP. Conversely, on-going total-plan revisions will develop alternatives which provide management direction if individual WSAs are not designated as wilderness by Congress.

Specific management direction, including any constraints on existing uses, will be incorporated in wilderness management plans which will be prepared for each wilderness area after designation by Congress.

The 89 wilderness study areas are located in eight BLM Districts in Oregon and Washington. Specific information and locations of the WSA's is available in the March 1980 and November 1980 (revised on March 25, 1981) final inventory reports and a June 1981 wilderness status map. Copies of the map are available from, and the reports may be reviewed in, the eight district offices listed in the title of this notice and in the BLM state office in Portland.

Plan revisions incorporating wilderness studies are now underway in the Vale and Medford Districts and in portions of the Lakeview, Burns and Prineville Districts. The start of those studies has been announced in previous Federal Register notices. The purpose of this notice is to announce the start of studies on the remaining WSA's. The plans to be amended for these new starts, the WSA's to be studied, and the Districts involved are as follows:

On-going total plan revisions (for all resources including wilderness) have previously been announced in the Federal Register and other media. Details of the plan schedules and remaining opportunities for public involvement and comment may be obtained from the respective District Offices. The plan revision names, responsible Districts, original Federal Register Notice of Intent publication date and pertinent counties are as follows:

Plan name	District	FR notice	Counties
Andrews	Burns	1/8/81	Harney and Malheur.
Drewsey (amend).	Burns	1/8/81	Harney.
John Day [amend].	Burns	1/26/81	Grant and Harney.
N. Malheur	Vale	1/8/81	Harney and Malheur.
S. Malheur	Vale	1/8/81	Harney and Malheur.
Brothers	Prineville	1/5/81	Deschutes and Crook.
Jackson/Klamath	Medford	6/7/81	Jackson and Klamath.

In addition the Steelhead Falls WSA (OR–5–14) in Jefferson and Deschutes Counties will be studied in conjunction with the Ochoco National Forest during their evaluation of the adjacent Deschutes Canyon RARE II further planning area.

The schedule for the study of all WSA's in Oregon and Washington and all other states was published in the Federal Register on November 18, 1981 (Vol. 46, No. 222, pp. 56736–56760).

A number of issues have been identified during the inventory stage of the Bureau's wilderness review. Major issues vary between wilderness study areas depending on size, physical access, current or possible future commercial uses or values and potential management constraints. The issues applicable to all WSA's are: Should all, or portions, of the WSA be recommended as suitable for designation by Congress as a wilderness area; is the WSA manageable (can BLM or some other Federal agency maintain the wilderness character of the area over the long term); what commercial uses, if any, will be foregone or foreclosed if the area or a portion of it is designated wilderness; and what wilderness values will be lost or impaired if the area or a portion of it is not designated wilderness? In addition, eleven BLM study areas are adjacent to existing Forest Service or Fish and Wildlife Service designated or proposed wilderness areas. In these cases, if the BLM lands are designated wilderness by Congress, is any special management coordination required with the other agency? Are there special values in the study areas that require protection regardless of the outcome of the wilderness review/designation process? There is also a concern that wilderness designation will eliminate or heavily restrict the use of motor vehicles for grazing management, recreational use, and mineral exploration. The potential for interference with, geothermal, oil and gas or locatable minerals exploration and production is also of economic concern.

In order to properly analyze and consider the issues, an interdisciplinary team will be used. Each District will use appropriate resource skills on the planning team including, as appropriate, wildlife biology, outdoor recreation planning, soil science, hydrology, range management, forestry, minerals and geology, lands, fire ecology, and economics.

The following planning criteria and quality standards for analysis and documentation will be used in the study process:

A. Evaluation of wilderness values;

B. Evaluation of Areas Manageability as Wilderness;

C. Energy and Critical Mineral Resource Values;

D. Impacts on Other Resources;

E. Impacts of Non-designation on Wilderness Values;

F. Public Comment;

G. Local Socio-economic Effects;

H. Consistency with Other Plans.

These criteria and standards will be used to determine the level of analysis required for each issue, and to assist in formulating alternatives, identifying the preferred alternative, and in estimating the effects of the alternatives.

During the study, various sectors of the public will be requested to provide data needed for the analysis. As the planning process proceeds, the public will be asked to become involved through open houses and public meetings. Future meeting dates, times, and locations will be announced in the Federal Register and media. The initial open house sessions to obtain public comment on the issues which should be considered in the studies being started at this time will be held at the following locations and times:

Wyoming; Final Land Use Planning Decision for Proposed Red Rim Coal Lease Tract

December 18, 1981.

AGENCY: Bureau of Land Management (BLM), Interior.

ACTION: Final land use planning decision.

SUMMARY: A final land use planning decision has been approved for the proposed Red Rim coal lease tract in Carbon County by the Bureau of Land Management.

Maxwell T. Lieurance, BLM State Director, said the planning decision was delayed a year to obtain more information from ongoing wildlife and reclamation studies on a critical antelope winter range that would be affected by the proposed coal development. If the Red Rim tract is leased, the information obtained from these continuing studies would be appropriately utilized to assure the overall and long-range environmental integrity of the area.

In making the final land use planning decision, BLM determined that stipulated methods of coal mining on the Red Rim coal tract would not have a significant long-term impact on resident wildlife species of high interest to the State of Wyoming. Federal lands within the Red Rim coal tract are, therefore, determined to be acceptable for further consideration for coal leasing with certain stipulations: (1) No surface occupancy will be allowed on certain designated lands from any points 500 feet southeast of the easternmost minable coal seam to the eastern tract boundary as follows:

T. 20 N., R. 89 W., 6th P.M., Sec. 8, 18;
T. 20 N., R. 90 W., 6th P.M., Sec. 24, 26, 34;
T. 19 N., R. 90 W., 6th P.M.,
Sec. 4, 8.

(2) The lessee shall be required to mitigate for antelope habitat loss, where applicable, and the resultant loss or displacement of antelope due to surface coal mining operations. The lessee shall also be required to develop a habitat recovery and replacement plan, in consultation with and submitted for approval to, the BLM authorized officer and the State of Wyoming.

"It is our view that the combined effects of the continuing study efforts and the conditioned planning decision will provide adequate protection for the most critical antelope winter range area, while allowing development of the coal resource," Lieurance added.

EFFECTIVE DATE: This land use planning decision is effective December 31, 1981. The matter is now under consideration at BLM's Washington Office and pending the Department of the Interior's decision on offering the Red Rim tract for lease.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION

[Ex Parte No. 387 (Sub-No. 76)]

Farmrail Corp., Exemption for Contract Tariff ICC-FMRC-8000

AGENCY: Interstate Commerce Commission.

ACTION: Notice of provisional exemption.

SUMMARY: Petitioner is granted a provisional exemption under 49 U.S.C. 10505 from the notice requirements of 49 U.S.C. 10713(e). The contract tariff to be filed may become effective on one day's notice. This exemption may be revoked if protests are filed within 15 days of publication in the Federal Register.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Donald Shaw or Jane Mackall (202) 275-7656.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Farmrail Corporation (FMRC) filed a petition on December 15, 1981, seeking an exemption under 49 U.S.C. 10505 from the statutory notice provisions of 49 U.S.C. 10713(e). It requests that we permit its contract tariff—ICC-FMRC-8000, to become effective on one day's notice. The tariff was originally issued November 5, 1981, and scheduled to become effective on December 20, 1981. However, on account of FMRC's failure to complete its filing with summaries of its contracts, it was not possible to act on the request prior to this time. It effectively renewed its request and completed its contract tariff filing on the indicated December 15 date when it filed its contract summaries with the instant petition. Its tariff ICC-FMRC-8000, had previously been received.

Under 49 U.S.C. 10713(e), contracts must be filed on not less than 30 nor more than 60 days' notice. There is no provision for waiving this requirement. Cf. former section 10762(d)(1). However, the Commission has granted relief under our section 10505 exemption authority in exceptional situations.

The petition is granted. FMRC is a new Class III switching carrier operating 35 miles of trackage between Clinton and Elk City, OK, over which route it switches traffic moving in interstate commerce. FMRC purchased this operation from the Trustee of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad Company. FMRC provides service to local industries, among others, who will guarantee a minimum annual traffic volume. It switches their traffic at a discount of 5 percent under its regular rates, as provided by Items 110 and 130 of its tariff ICC-FMRC-8000. So far, it has established contracts with 6 shippers, who expected this discounted service to begin on the explained December 20 date, which is now past. Therefore, there is an immediate need to have the tariff become effective as soon as possible. Under these circumstances, a provisional exemption is warranted.

FMRC's contract tariff may become effective on one day's notice. We will apply the following conditions which have been imposed in similar exemption proceedings:

If the Commission permits the contract to become effective on one day's notice, this fact neither shall be construed to mean that this is a Commission approved contract for purposes of 49 U.S.C. 10713(g) nor shall it serve to deprive the Commission of jurisdiction to institute a proceeding on its own initiative or on complaint, to review this contract and to disapprove it.

Subject to compliance with these conditions, under 49 U.S.C. 10505(a) we find that the 30 day notice requirement in these instances is not necessary to carry out the transportation policy of 49 U.S.C. 10101a and is not needed to protect shippers from abuse of market power. Further, we will consider revoking this exemption under 49 U.S.C. 10505(c) if protests are filed within 15 days of publication in the Federal Register.

This action will not significantly affect the quality of the human environment or the conservation of energy resources.

(49 U.S.C. 10505)

Dated: December 23, 1981.

By the Commission, Division 2, Commissioners Gresham, Gilliam, and Taylor. Commissioner Gilliam was absent and did not participate.

Secretary.

Motor Carriers; Permanent Authority Decisions; Decision-Notice

The following applications, filed on or after February 9, 1981, are governed by Special Rule of the Commission's rules of practice, see 49 CFR 1100.251. Special Rule 251 was published in the Federal Register of December 31, 1980, at 45 FR 86771. For compliance procedures, refer to the Federal Register issue of December 3, 1980, at 45 FR 80109.

Persons wishing to oppose an application must follow the rules under 49 CFR 1100.252. A copy of any application, including all supporting evidence, can be obtained from applicant's representative upon request and payment to applicant's representative of $10.00.

Amendments to the request for authority are not allowed. Some of the applications may have been modified prior to publication to conform to the Commission's policy of simplifying grants of operating authority.

Findings:

With the exception of those applications involving duly noted problems (e.g., unresolved common control, fitness, water carrier dual operations, or jurisdictional questions), we find, preliminarily, that each applicant has demonstrated a public need for the proposed operations and that it is fit, willing, and able to perform the service proposed, and to conform to the requirements of Title 49, Subtitle IV, United States Code, and the Commission's regulations. This presumption shall not be deemed to exist where the application is opposed. Except where noted, this decision is neither a major Federal action significantly affecting the quality of the human environment nor a major regulatory action under the Energy Policy and Conservation Act of 1975.

In the absence of legally sufficient opposition in the form of verified statements filed on or before 45 days from date of publication (or, if the application later becomes unopposed), appropriate authorizing documents will be issued to applicants with regulated operations (except those with duly noted problems) and will remain in full effect only as long as the applicant maintains appropriate compliance. The unopposed applications involving new entrants will be subject to the issuance of an effective notice setting forth the compliance requirements which must be satisfied before the authority will be issued. Once this compliance is met, the authority will be issued.

Within 60 days after publication an applicant may file a verified statement in rebuttal to any statement in opposition.

To the extent that any of the authority granted may duplicate an applicant's other authority, the duplication shall be construed as conferring only a single operating right.

Note.—All applications are for authority to operate as a motor common carrier in interstate or foreign commerce over irregular routes, unless noted otherwise. Applications for motor contract carrier authority are those where service is for a named shipper "under contract".

Please direct status inquiries to the Ombudsman's Office, (202) 275-7326.

Rail Carriers; Missouri Pacific Railroad Co.; Abandonment Between Hawdon and Herbert, TX; Findings

Notice is hereby given pursuant to 49 U.S.C. 10903 that the Commission, Review Board Number 3, has issued a certificate authorizing the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company to abandon its line of railroad known as the sugarland Subdivision, extending from railroad milepost 0.0 near Hawdon to railroad milepost 1.8, and from milepost 13.6 to milepost 3.3, the end of track, near Herbert, a distance of 12.1 miles, in Fort Bend County, TX, subject to certain conditions. Upon receipt the carrier of an actual offer of financial assistance, the carrier shall make available to the offeror the records, accounts, appraisals, working papers, and other documents used in preparing Exhibit I (§ 1121.45 of the regulations). Such documents shall be made available during regular business hours at a time and place mutually agreeable to the parties.

Rail Carriers; Norfolk and Western Railway Co.; Akron, Canton, and Youngstown Railroad Co.; Merger Into AC&Y Railroad, Inc.; Exemption

December 24, 1981.

On December 18, 1981, the Norfolk and Western Railway Company (NW) notified the Commission that its wholly owned subsidiary, The Akron, Canton and Youngstown Railroad Company (Akron), will merge into AC&Y Railroad, Inc. (AC&Y), a wholly owned subsidiary of NW. AC&Y will be the surviving company, and subsequently it will merge into NW, with NW the surviving company. The transactions are within a corporate family and come within the exemption described at 49 CFR 1111.5(c)(3). The mergers will not result in any change in service levels, operations, or the competitive balance with carriers outside the corporate family. The purpose of the mergers is corporate simplification.

As a condition to use of the exemption, any Akron and AC&Y employees affected by the merger shall be protected pursuant to New York Dock Ry.-Control-Brooklyn Eastern Dist., 360 I.C.C. 60 (1979). This will satisfy the statutory requirements of 49 U.S.C. 10505(g)(2).

Rail Carriers; Chicago and North Western Transportation Company Abandonment—Between Dodge Street (Omaha) and Irvington, NE; Findings

The Commission has found that the public convenience and necessity permit Chicago and North Western Transportation Company to abandon its 4.1 miles of rail line between Dodge Street (Omaha) (milepost 6.0) and Irvington (milepost 10.1) in Douglas County, NE. A certificate will be issued authorizing this abandonment unless within 15 days after this publication the Commission also finds that: (1) A financially responsible person has offered assistance (through subsidy or purchase) to enable the rail service to be continued; and (2) it is likely that the assistance would fully compensate the railroad.

Any financial assistance offer must be filed with the Commission and served concurrently on the applicant, with copies to Richard Kelly, Room 5417, Interstate Commerce Commission, Washington, DC 20423, no later than 10 days from publication of this Notice. Any offer previously made must be remade within this 10-day period.

[Docket No. 50–537 (exemption request under 10 CFR 50.12)]

Department of Energy, Project Management Corp. and Tennessee Valley Authority (Clinch River Breeder Reactor Plant); Memorandum and Order

Introduction

This Memorandum and Order establishes the Commission's procedures for considering the merits of the Department of Energy's (DOE's) request for an exemption from 10 CFR 50.10 pursuant to 10 CFR 50.12 in order to begin site preparation for the Clinch River Breeder Reactor. For the reasons discussed below, the Commission believes that an informal proceeding directed by the Commission itself is best suited for consideration of the merits of this exemption request.

Background

On November 30, 1981 DOE, for itself and on behalf of its co-applicants Project Management Corporation and the Tennessee Valley Authority, requested the Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC or Commission) to grant an exemption from 10 CFR 50.10 pursuant to 10 CFR 50.12 to conduct site preparation activities for the Clinch River Breeder Reactor (CRBR) prior to the issuance of a construction permit or limited work authorization. DOE's proposed site preparation activities include site clearing and grading; excavation and quarry operations; the construction of temporary construction related facilities, a barge facility, an access road and railroad spur; and the installation of services including power, water, sewerage and fire protection. None of the work appears to involve safety-related structures, systems, or components subject to the Commission's safety regulations in 10 CFR Part 50. Among the reasons advanced by DOE in support of its request are the claims that: (1) Congress has expressed the intention that the CRBR project be completed expeditiously; (2) procedural delays will cause undue hardship in the form of another 1–2 years of delay and $120–240 millions of increased costs; and (3) the project is in an advanced stage of development and is ready to begin site preparation activities.

Views of the Parties

DOE requested that the Commission itself rule on this exemption request because it raises substantial national policy considerations that only the Commission can address. These include cited Presidential and Congressional mandates to construct the CRBR in a timely and expeditious manner, the implications of alleged increased costs, and the alleged adverse effects of delay on DOE's responsibility for developing the technology of the liquid metal fast breeder reactor (LMFBR).

DOE also contended that a hearing is not required on its exemption request. In its view, the Commission's requirements for a hearing prior to commencement of site preparation activities are not compelled by either the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) or the Atomic Energy Act of 1954, as amended. Moreover, DOE believes an informal proceeding will prove adequate for resolving any disputed matters. DOE is opposed to a referral of its request to an Atomic Safety and Licensing Board (Board) for adjudicatory hearings since, in DOE's view, such a referral only serves to further delay the project without providing the Commission with meaningful assistance in addressing the policy and other issues raised by the exemption request.

DOE's request was opposed by the Natural Resources Defense Council, Inc. and the Sierra Club, intervenors in the now suspended adjudicatory hearing on applicant's 1976 application for a construction permit. Intervenors agree that this request raises major issues of policy and law that should be decided in the first instance by the Commission itself based on oral argument and written comments. The issues identified by NRDC and the Sierra Club are: (1) The applicability of the exemption provisions in 10 CFR 50.12 to this unique project; (2) the existence of a Congressional mandate for expedition as argued by DOE; (3) the effect of granting the exemption on one of the CRBR's alleged purposes which is to demonstrate the licensability of breeder reactors; (4) the effect of an exemption on public confidence in CRBR; (5) the predetermination of intervenors' environmental contentions in the suspended proceeding; and (6) the completeness of the environmental record. NRDC and the Sierra Club believe that these are threshold issues that must be addressed by the Commission before it reaches the other merits of the exemption request. They contended that a consideration of these threshold issues will lead to denial of the exemption request. However if, contrary to their position, Commission consideration of these issues is not dispositive, then several factual issues require resolution before the exemptions can be granted. They believe that the Commission's practice has been to refer these kinds of factual issues to a Licensing Board for a formal adjudicatory hearing. They have conceded that neither the Atomic Energy Act nor NEPA requires such a hearing. Rather, the thrust of their argument appears to be that a formal hearing is required by Commission precedent. Moreover, they argue that a formal hearing is the most effective way to elucidate the facts bearing on the exemption request. Finally, they believe that any adjudicatory hearing should be conducted by the Board for the now suspended LWA proceeding. Because that Board is familiar with the details of CRBR, NRDC and the Sierra Club believe it could provide timely review.

On December 16, 1981, we provided the parties to the suspended permit proceeding an opportunity to address the appropriate procedures for NRC consideration of the merits of applicants' exemption request. Appearances were made by representatives for the applicants and NRDC and Sierra Club.[1] Applicants presented a proposed procedure and schedule for direct Commission consideration of the exemption request. That procedure included an opportunity for comments by the public, responses to comments, and an oral presentation to the Commission on the merits of the exemption request. NRDC and the Sierra Club stated their arguments as summarized above, and urged the Commission to consider the so-called threshold issues under a procedure similar to that proposed by the applicants. They agreed that the applicants' proposed schedule not only was reasonable but could be compressed by several weeks, assuming that no formal adjudicatory hearings were to be held.

Procedures to be Followed

Following the oral presentations, the Commission met in public to decide how to proceed with consideration of the exemption request. The Commission believes, and applicants and NRDC and Sierra Club agree, that neither the Atomic Energy Act nor NEPA dictate the form of proceedings on exemption requests of the type requested here. There is also agreement on all sides that the request presents several major and novel policy and legal issues that are best resolved by the Commission itself as the highest policy-making entity within the agency. The dispute focuses on whether several of the policy and legal issues must be resolved at the outset against the grant of the exemption and, if not, whether resolution of residual factual issues should entail a formal adjudicatory hearing.

We decline to reach the merits of any of the policy or legal issues at this time, since further presentations will be required before there has been fair opportunity to present opposing views. We agree with NRDC and the Sierra Club that the exemption request may present issues of fact relating to matters such as the environmental impact of the proposed work and the cost-savings from granting of the exemption. However, we cannot agree that a formal adjudicatory hearing will prove to be the only way for adequate ventilation and resolution of these issues, or that formal adjudicatory hearings are dictated by past Commission practice.[2] It is quite common for such issues to be resolved by informal procedures falling short of formal examination and cross-examination of sworn witnesses. Even within the Commission itself, such issues are routinely and adequately dealt with in the informal Staff and ACRS review processes. There is no reason to believe that the informal procedures which follow will not prove adequate to the task. Moreover, we believe that the estimates of NRDC and the Sierra Club of the time required for the conduct of formal hearings by a Licensing Board are extremely optimistic. The one case cited by them [3] involved relatively few disputed factual issues. It is not at all clear that few factual issues will be presented here. We conclude that formal hearings will

[1] A statement in support of the exemption request was also made by a representative for the Governor of Tennessee, who is not a party to the suspended proceeding. However, a representative of the Attorney General of Tennessee, who is a party to the proceeding, stated that the Attorney General had not yet taken a position on the exemption request or on the procedures for its consideration by the Commission.

[2] Although intervenors acknowledge the Commission precedent is "split" on the issue of a need for a hearing on an exemption request, their analysis of Commission decisions on exemption requests leads them to conclude that the Commission's practice has been to consider adjudicatory hearings necessary in every contested case. We believe that this conclusion does not adequately characterize Commission practice.

Only 5 exemption requests have been considered by the Commission over the years, and in only two cases did the Commission hold a hearing. However, both cases arose under unusual circumstances. In Carolina Power and Light Company (Shearon Harris Nuclear Power Plant, Units 1, 2, 3 and 4), CLI–74–8, 7 AEC 197 (1974) (Shearon Harris I), the Deputy Director for Reactor Projects, Directorate of Licensing had granted the applicant's request for an exemption without notice to the intervenors or an opportunity for a hearing. Upon learning of the grant of the exemption, an intervenor petitioned the Commission for a stay of that exemption. The Commission referred the stay request to the Board having jurisdiction over the construction permit proceeding, and also determined that "under the circumstances of this case" the Board should conduct a hearing on the merits of the exemption request "even though the rule as written does not require adversary hearings in connection with applications for these exemptions." Id. at 198. Thus, the Commission's initiation of a discretionary hearing in Shearon Harris I must be viewed as a response to the Director's previous failure to notify interested parties of the grant of an exemption. In Kansas City Gas and Electric Company, Kansas City Power and Light Company (Wolf Creek Generating Station, Unit No. 1), CLI–76–20, 4 NRC 476 (1976) the Commission referred the applicant's request for an exemption to the Licensing Board already considering the application for a construction permit. This exemption request was filed after the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit had decided Natural Resources Defense Council v. NRDC, 547 F.2d 663 (D.C. Cir. 1976) which found inadequate the Commission's original rule on the environmental effects of the uranium fuel cycle (Table S–3). In response to that decision, the Commission decided that licensing could resume only if an examination of the revised values in Table S–3 showed that the cost-benefit balance would not tip against a proposed plant. 41 FR 49699, 49699 (November 11, 1976). Thus, the Commission's referral of the exemption request to the Licensing Board was primarily for the purpose of obtaining an assessment of fuel cycle impacts. The Licensing Board, having considered the cost benefit issue, was obviously in the best position to consider if fuel cycle impacts would change the decision.

The Commission has not initiated a hearing in the three other exemption requests it has considered. In Louisiana Power and Light Company (Waterford Steam Electric Generating Station, Unit 3), CLI–73–25, 6 AEC 619, 622 n.23 (1973) (Waterford) the Commission stated that in the "circumstances of this case" it would be inappropriate to circumvent normal adjudicatory procedures by granting the exemption. Among the circumstances referred to by the Commission was the presence of seriously contested environmental issues in ongoing adjudicatory proceedings which were actually ongoing at that time. The Commission did not specify the "construction" activities for which an exemption was sought. The Commission then denied the request without a hearing. In Gulf States Utilities Company (River Bend Station, Units 1 and 2), CLI–76–16, 4 NRC 449 (1976) (River Bend) the Commission granted an exemption request without a hearing before it or a Board. Here again, the Commission's decision was based on the particular facts of the proceeding. The exemption request was not contested, and the proposed action was considered not to have any adverse environmental impacts. Id. at 450. In Washington, Public Power Supply System (WPPSS Nuclear Project Nos. 3 and 5), CLI–77–11, 5 NRC 719 (1977) (WPPSS) the Commission denied an exemption request without a hearing. In WPPSS, the Commission stated that it would not assume the function of an existing Board and scrutinize factual issues itself absent a showing of extra-ordinary circumstances such as emergency situations in which time is of the essence and relief from the Licensing Board is impossible or highly unlikely. WPPSS at 723. Such circumstances had not been shown in that proceeding. Thus, WPPSS addresses the question of when the Commission will preempt a sitting Board and conduct a hearing on an exemption request. The decision does not address the question of how the Commission will handle an exemption request when there is no Board currently immersed in a proceeding on the very same issues raised by that request.

This review of Commission precedent shows that there has not been a uniform Commission practice to require a hearing before a Board for factual issues associated with an exemption request. Rather, the Commission has tailored its procedures to the factual circumstances of each case.

[3] Carolina Power & Light Co. (Shearon Harris Nuclear Power Plant, Units 1, 2, 3 and 4), LBP–74–16, 7 AEC 538 (1974).

likely produce little additional benefit to the process and yet will likely cost a great deal, both in elapsed time and resources of the Commission and the parties.

Accordingly, the Commission is establishing the following procedures for consideration of the merits of the exemption request:

1. The request will be considered in an informal proceeding involving written comments and oral presentations to the Commission itself. This informal proceeding will be kept separate from the suspended construction permit proceedings.

2. The participants to this proceeding will be the applicants, NRDC and the Sierra Club, and any other interested person who has filed written comments in accordance with the schedule set out below. The NRC staff will not participate as a party to this proceeding.

3. Applicants shall, within one week of the date of this Order, file[4] with the Commission currently available documentation supporting the factual representations in its exemption request. If this date cannot be met, then Applicants shall advise when the materials can be provided.

4. Applicants shall by January 18, 1982 file with the Commission answers to the questions in Attachment A to this Order.

5. Applicants, NRDC and the Sierra Club, and any other interested person may file written comments with the Commission in support of, or in opposition to, the exemption request. The comments may include answers to the questions in Attachment A. Such comments shall be filed with the Commission by January 18, 1982.

6. The Commission is requesting government agencies (including the Governor and the Attorney General of the State of Tennessee) to file with the Commission any comments they may have on the request by January 18, 1982.

The remaining steps are set forth in the attached schedule. A separate statement by Commissioner Bradford is attached. It is so ordered.[5]

For the Commission.

Dated at Washington, D.C., this 24th day of December 1981.

Samuel J. Chilk,

Secretary of the Commission.

Views of Commissioner Bradford

Past Commission practice has invariably been to permit limited comments of this sort to run as footnotes in the Commission opinion for the convenience of the reader. The Commission majority has decided, in the Clinch River case for the first time, to exclude uncongenial thought from its order. With apologies to any who must now find their mental and physical way back into that document, I have the following two comments:

(1) Page 6, Footnote 2 (to be read as a last paragraph to that footnote): "Commissioner Bradford notes that this labored history amounts to exactly the situation described in the first paragraph as an erroneous intervenor view: The NRC has never granted a contested 50.12 exemption without an adjudicatory hearing." (2) Pages 8–9, (to be read as a footnote to the sentence reading, "It is not at all clear that few factual issues will be presented here"): Commissioner Bradford notes that an increase in factual issues does not decrease the need for an adjudicatory hearing. Indeed, the discussion preceding this sentence sails breathtakingly counter to decades of administrative law, to say nothing of centuries of development of adjudicatory procedures as the best available method for resolving contested issues of material fact. He would keep open the possibility of adjudicatory hearings until the Commission has a clearer appreciation of the possible role of contested factual issues in determining the outcome of the proceeding.

Attachment A

1. Is there any indication in acts providing for CRBRP authorizations or appropriations or other applicable statutes that NRC licensing of the CRBRP could, or could not, include use of 10 CFR 50.12 as proposed by the applicants?

2. Is there any indication in the acts providing for CRBRP authorizations or appropriations, associated committee or conference reports, or legislative history that speaks to the licensing procedures to be used by the NRC?

3. Under what conditions would grant of an exemption be authorized by law? Would grant of an exemption endanger life or property or the common defense and security? Would grant of this exemption be in the public interest? If not, why not? With regard to the public interest criteria in 10 CFR 50.12(a) and (b)(4), what interpretation and weight should be given to Presidential and Congressional statements pertaining to the timing of construction of the CRBRP?

4. Is the available documentation adequate for the Commission to base its decision on the exemption request to authorize site preparation activities? The documentation includes the applicant's Preliminary Safety Analysis Report (PSAR), Environmental Report (ER), Schedule for and Description of Site Preparation Activities to be conducted pursuant to 10 CFR 50.10(e)(1) (received April 11, 1975), and Site Preparation Activities Report (SPAR) (November 30, 1981) as well as the staff's Site Suitability Report (SSR) and Final Environmental Statement (FES).[6]

5. Identify areas, if any, in various licensing documents (PSAR, ER, FES, SSR, etc.) that need to be updated, which would have a bearing on this exemption decision.

6. What, if any, further exemptions from regulatory requirements does the applicant plan to request if this 10 CFR 50.12 request is granted? If this exemption is granted, does the applicant plan also to request a Limited Work Authorization?

7. Provide the updated overall CRBRP schedule, including (a) current estimate of when applicant expects to request resumption of ASLB proceeding, (b) key milestones of constructing and licensing the plant, (showing DOE assumptions regarding dates for NRC licensing action) and (c) current expected date of operation. The schedule should indicate points at which a negative NRC action could adversely affect the overall CRBRP schedule.

8. Identify and discuss any changes in the project scope from the scope originally evaluated (staff FES Chapter 4–Environmental Impacts due to Construction) that may have contributed to the changes in proposed site preparation acitivities (page 3–1 of the Site Preparation Activities Report, November 1981), particularly the substantial increase in the amount of excavation.

9. (a) Provide the documentation which forms the basis for projected cost of delay and environmental impact estimates referred to in the Site Preparation Activities Report and Secretary Edwards' letter (b) Demonstrate the validity of the cost estimate.

10. Provide the documented basis, criteria and the project scope to support the cost estimates for redressing the site should the project be terminated.

11. At the December 16th meeting, Mr. Silverstrom stated that if the Commission does not approve the request, then the project will be dead in the water in March.

(a) Please explain, including showing what activities will be completed by

OFFICE OF MANAGEMENT AND BUDGET

Agency Forms Under Review

Background

When executive departments and agencies propose public use forms, reporting, or recordkeeping requirements, the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) reviews and acts on those requirements under the Paperwork Reduction Act (44 U.S.C., chapter 35). Departments and agencies use a number of techniques including public hearings to consult with the public on significant reporting requirements before seeking OMB approval. OMB in carrying out its responsibility under the act also considers comments on the forms and recordkeeping requirements that will affect the public.

List of Forms Under Review

Every Monday and Thursday OMB publishes a list of the agency forms received for review since the last list was published. The list has all the entries for one agency together and grouped into new forms, revisions, extensions (burden change), extensions (no change), or reinstatements. The agency clearance officer can tell you the nature of any particular revision you are interested in. Each entry contains the following information:

The name and telephone number of the agency clearance officer (from whom a copy of the form and supporting documents is available);

The office of the agency issuing this form;

The title of the form;

The agency form number, if applicable;

How often the form must be filled out;

Who will be required or asked to report;

The standard industrial classification (SIC) codes, referring to specific respondent groups that are affected;

Whether small businesses or organizations are affected;

A description of the Federal budget functional category that covers the information collection;

An estimate of the number of responses;

An estimate of the total number of hours needed to fill out the form;

An estimate of the cost to the Federal Government;

An estimate of the cost to the public;

The number of forms in the request for approval;

An indication of whether section 3504(h) of Pub. L. 96-511 applies;

The name and telephone number of the person or office responsible for OMB review; and

An abstract describing the need for and uses of the information collection.

Reporting or recordkeeping requirements that appear to raise no significant issues are approved promptly. Our usual practice is not to take any action on proposed reporting requirements until at least ten working days after notice in the Federal Register, but occasionally the public interest requires more rapid action.

Comments and Questions

Copies of the proposed forms and supporting documents may be obtained from the agency clearance officer whose name and telephone number appear under the agency name. The agency clearance officer will send you a copy of the proposed form, the request for clearance (SF83), supporting statement, instructions, transmittal letters, and other documents that are submitted to OMB for review. If you experience difficulty in obtaining the information you need in reasonable time, please advise the OMB reviewer to whom the report is assigned. Comments and questions about the items on this list should be directed to the OMB reviewer or office listed at the end of each entry.

If you anticipate commenting on a form but find that time to prepare will prevent you from submitting comments promptly, you should advise the reviewer of your intent as early as possible.

The timing and format of this notice have been changed to make the publication of the notice predictable and to give a clearer explanation of this process to the public. If you have comments and suggestions for further improvements to this notice, please send them to Jim J. Tozzi, Deputy Administrator, Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, Office of Management and Budget, 726 Jackson Place, Northwest, Washington, D.C. 20503.

Agency Forms Under Review

Background

When executive departments and agencies propose public use forms, reporting or recordkeeping requirements, the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) reviews and acts on those requirements under the Paperwork Reduction Act (44 U.S.C. Chapter 35). Departments and agencies use a number of techniques including public hearings to consult with the public on significant reporting requirements before seeking OMB approval. OMB in carrying out its responsibility under the Act also considers comments on the forms and recordkeeping requirements that will affect the public.

List of Forms under Review

Every Monday and Thursday OMB publishes a list of the agency forms received for review since the last list was published. The list has all the entries for one agency together and grouped into new forms, revisions, extensions (burden change), extensions (no change), or reinstatements. The agency clearance officer can tell you the nature of any particular revision you are interested in. Each entry contains the following information:

The name and telephone number of the agency clearance officer (from whom a copy of the form and supporting documents is available),

The office of the agency issuing this form,

The title of the form,

The agency form number, if applicable,

How often the form must be filled out,

Who will be required or asked to report,

The standard industrial classification (SIC) codes, referring to specific respondent groups that are affected,

Whether small businesses or organizations are affected,

A description of the Federal budget functional category that covers the information collection,

An estimate of the number of responses,

An estimate of the total number of hours needed to fill out the form,

An estimate of the cost to the Federal Government,

An estimate of the cost to the public,

The number of forms in the request for approval,

An indication of whether section 3504(H) of Pub. L. 96-511 applies,

The name and telephone number of the person or office responsible for OMB review, and

An abstract describing the need for and uses of the information collection.

Reporting or recordkeeping requirements that appear to raise no significant issues are approved promptly. Our usual practice is not to take any action on proposed reporting requirements until at least ten working days after notice in the Federal Register, but occasionally the public interest requires more rapid action.

Comments and Questions

Copies of the proposed forms and supporting documents may be obtained from the agency clearance officer whose name and telephone number appear under the agency name. The agency clearance officer will send you a copy of the proposed form, the request for clearance (SF83), supporting statement, instructions, transmittal letters, and other documents that are submitted to OMB for review. If you experience difficulty in obtaining the information you need in reasonable time, please advise the OMB reviewer to whom the report is assigned. Comments and questions about the items on this list should be directed to the OMB reviewer of office listed at the end of each entry.

If you anticipate commenting on a form but find that time to prepare will prevent you from submitting comments promptly, you should advise the reviewer of your intent as early as possible.

The timing and format of this notice have been changed to make the publication of the notice predictable and to give a clearer explanation of this process to the public. If you have comments and suggestions for further improvements to this notice, please send them to Jim J. Tozzi, Deputy Administrator, Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, Office of Management and Budget, 726 Jackson Place, Northwest, Washington, D.C. 20503.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

[Release No. 22336; 70-6581]

Alabama Power Co., et al.; Proposed Issuance of First Mortgage Bonds for Sinking Fund

December 24, 1981.

In the matter of Alabama Power Company, P.O. Box 2641, Birmingham, Alabama 35291; Gulf Power Company, P.O. Box 1151, Pensacola, Florida 32520; Georgia Power Company, P.O. Box 4545, Atlanta, Georgia 30302; and Mississippi Power Company, P.O. Box 4079, Gulfport, Mississippi 39501.

Alabama Power Company ("Alabama"), Georgia Power Company ("Georgia"), Gulf Power Company ("Gulf") and Mississippi Power Company ("Mississippi"), public utility subsidiaries of The Southern Company, a registered holding company, have filed an application-declaration with this Commission pursuant to Sections 6 and 7 of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("Act") and Rule 50(a)(5) promulgated thereunder.

Alabama, Georgia, Gulf and Mississippi propose to issue, by obtaining the authentication and delivery by the respective trustees, First Mortgage Bonds ("Bonds") of the series set forth below. The Bonds would be surrendered to the trustee under the companies' respective indentures to satisfy, in whole or in part, the sinking fund (improvement fund in the case of Alabama) requirements of their indentures to be satisfied on or prior to June 1, 1982.

The indentures provide for annual sinking fund (improvement fund) payments on or before June 1 of each year in an amount equal to 1% of the principal amount of bonds authenticated under the respective indenture prior to the preceding January 1 (less bonds retired directly or indirectly as a result of the release of property and less bonds authenticated to refund other bonds). Payment may be made in cash or in principal amount of bonds authenticated under the indenture, whether or not such bonds have previously been disposed of by the respective company. Any cash so deposited is to be used by the trustee under the respective indenture for the redemption or other retirement of bonds of such series as may be designated by the respective company or may be withdrawn by such company against the deposit of bonds.

The maximum amounts and the series of Bonds proposed to be issued to satisfy said obligations for 1982 are as follows:

Name of company	Amount	Series
Alabama	$23,824,000	3½% Series due 1985.
Georgia	26,729,000	3¼% Series due 1984.
Gulf	3,059,000	3½% Series due 1984.
Mississippi	2,902,000	3¾% Series due 1983.

The Bonds will be issued on the basis of the unfunded net property additions. Under the indentures the Bonds may be issued in principal amounts not exceeding 60% of the amount of unfunded net property additions. The approximate amounts of such unfunded net property additions available for the issuance of the Bonds are as follows:

Name of company	Amount	As of-
Alabama	[illegible]	Sept. 30, 1981.
Georgia	348,500,000	Oct. 31, 1981.
Gulf	41,500,000	Do.
[illegible]	70,200,000	Do.

The surrender of the Bonds in satisfaction of the respective sinking fund (improvement fund) requirements by the companies will make available for general corporate purposes cash which would otherwise have to be used to satisfy such requirements or to purchase bonds to be used for such purposes, while at the same time reducing the principal amount of bonds which they could otherwise issue under the indenture at a later time by an equal principal amount. The Bonds will not be delivered by the respective companies in such manner as to constitute them obligations for the payment of money and, therefore, they will not be included on the books or in the published statements as liabilities of the respective companies.

The companies seek exceptions from the competitive bidding requirements of Rule 50 pursuant to subsection (a)(5) thereof because the Bonds will never be delivered by the companies in such manner as to constitute obligations of such companies for the payment of money.

The application-declaration and any amendments thereto are available for public inspection through the Commission's Office of Public Reference. Interested persons wishing to comment or request a hearing should submit their views in writing by January 14, 1982, to the Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington, D.C. 20549, and serve a copy on the applicant-declarants at the addresses specified above. Proof of service (by affidavit or, in the case of an attorney at law, by certificate) should be filed with the request. Any request for a hearing shall identify specifically the issues of fact or law that are disputed. A person who so requests will be notified of any hearing, if ordered, and will receive a copy of any notice of or order issued in this matter. After said date, the application-declaration, as filed or as it may be amended, may be granted and permitted to become effective.

For the Commission, by the Division of Corporate Regulation, pursuant to delegated authority.

Secretary.

National Securities Clearing Corporation ("NSCC"); Order Approving Proposed Rule Change

December 24, 1981.

On September 21, 1981, NSCC filed with the Commission pursuant to Section 19(b)(1) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, 15 U.S.C. 78s(b)(1) (the "Act") and Rule 19b-4 thereunder, a proposed rule change which provides for the extension of time for executing buy-ins of balance orders on over-the-counter securities when securities subject to a buy-in notice are delayed in transfer.

Notice of the proposed rule change together with the terms of substance of the proposed rule change was given by publication of a Commission Release (Securities Exchange Act Release No. 18146, October 5, 1981) and by publication in the Federal Register (46 FR 50182, October 9, 1981). The Commission finds that the proposed rule change is consistent with the requirements of the Act and the rules and regulations thereunder applicable to registered clearing agencies and in particular, the requirements of Section 17A of the Act.

It is therefore ordered, pursuant to Section 19(b)(2) of the Act, that the proposed rule change be approved.

Pacific Stock Exchange, Inc.; Order Approving Proposed Rule Change

December 24, 1981.

On November 3, 1981, the Pacific Stock Exchange, Incorporated ("PSE") 618 South Spring Street, Los Angeles, California 90014, filed with the Commission, pursuant to Section 19(b)(1) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, 15 U.S.C. 78s(b)(1) (the "Act") and Rule 19b–4 thereunder, copies of a proposed rule change which revises certain of its rules governing the establishment of joint accounts and the trading activity conducted by participants in joint accounts. Among other things, the rule change permits (1) the establishment of a joint account among more than two market makers, (2) restricts market makers to participation in no more than two joint accounts concurrently, (3) forbids any participant in a joint account from trading with the joint account directly or through another member, (4) prohibits the concurrent representation of the same order for a joint account by the participants in a joint account, and (5) for purposes of determining a joint account participant's compliance with position and exercise limits, aggregates positions or exercises in the joint account with all positions and exercises covering the same underlying security which any participant or member organization associated with a participant holds or controls, or is obligated in respect of.

Notice of the proposed rule change together with the terms of substance of the proposed rule change was given by publication of a Commission Release (Securities Exchange Act Release No. 18254, November 12, 1981) and by publication in the Federal Register (46 FR 56690, November 18, 1981). [Release No. 12120; 812–5002]

Advisors Cash Reserve Fund, Inc.; Filing of Application

December 21, 1981.

In the matter of Advisors Cash Reserve Fund, Inc., 11400 Rockville Pike, Suite 300, Rockville, MD 20852 (812)–5002).

Notice is hereby given that Advisors Cash Reserve Fund, Inc. ("Applicant"), a registered open-end, diversified, management investment company, filed an application on October 23, 1981, requesting an order of the Commission, pursuant to section 6(c) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("Act") and Rules 2a-4 and 22c–1 thereunder, to the extent necessary to permit applicant to value its assets using the amortized cost method of valuation. All interested persons are referred to the application on file with the Commission for a statement of the representations contained therein, which are summarized below.

Applicant's investment objectives are to seek as high a level of current income as is considered consistent with the preservation of capital and liquidity by investing in a variety of money market instruments, including securities issued or guaranteed by the United States Government or any of its agencies or instrumentalities, time accounts, bankers' acceptances of large domestic, commercial and savings bank and savings and loan associations, short-term corporate debt including commercial paper and variable amount master demand notes, and repurchase agreements. Applicant states that its assets will be invested primarily in certificates of deposit of United States banks having total assets in excess of $500,000,000, except that it may invest in such certificates of smaller banks provided that such certificates qualify as deposits insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation or the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, and in commercial paper, including variable amount master notes, rated "A–1" or "A–2" by Standard & Poor's Corporation or "Prime 1" or "Prime 2" by Moody's Investor Service, Inc.

As here pertinent, section 2(a)(41) of the Act defines value to mean: (1) with respect to securities for which market quotations are readily available, the market value of such securities, and (2) with respect to other securities and assets, fair value as determined in good faith by an investment company's board of directors. Rule 22c–1 provides, in part, that no registered investment company or principal underwriter therefor issuing any redeemable security shall sell, redeem or repurchase any such security except at a price based on the current net asset value of such security which is next computed after receipt of a tender of such security for redemption or of an order to purchase or to sell such security. Rule 2a–4 provides, as here relevant, that the current net asset value of a redeemable security issued by a registered investment company used in computing its price for the purpose of distribution, redemption and repurchase shall be an amount which reflects calculations made substantially in accordance with the provisions of that rule, with estimates used where necessary or appropriate. Rule 2a–4 further states that portfolio securities with respect to which market quotations are readily available shall be valued at current market value, and other securities and assets shall be valued at fair value as determined in good faith by an investment company's board of directors. Prior to the filing of the application, the Commission expressed its view that, among other things, Rule 2a–4 under the Act requires that portfolio instruments of "money market" funds be valued with reference to market factors, and it would be inconsistent generally with the provisions of Rule 2a–4 for a "money market" fund to value its portfolio instruments on an amortized cost basis (Investment Company Act Release No. 9786, May 31, 1977).

Section 6(c) of the Act provides, in part, that upon application the Commission may conditionally or unconditionally exempt any person, security, or transaction, or any classes of persons, securities, or transactions, from any provision or provisions of the Act or of any rule or regulation thereunder, if and to the extent that such exemption is necessary or appropriate in the public interest and consistent with the protection of investors and the purposes fairly intended by the policy and provisions of the Act.

Applicant requests an order of the Commission pursuant to section 6(c) of the Act, exempting it from the provisions of section 2(a)(41) and Rules 2a–4 and 22c–1 to the extent necessary to permit it to use the amortized cost method of valuation for all its portfolio securities. In support of its request, Applicant submits that many of its potential investors require an investment vehicle that offers a constant net asset value per share and a relatively smooth stream of investment income. Applicant states that use of the amortized cost method of valuation will permit it to provide investment vehicles with those features. In addition, Applicant represents that its board of directors has determined that, absent unusual circumstances, amortized cost will represent the fair value of its portfolio securities. Applicant maintains that the exemptions they request satisfy the exemptive standard set forth in section 6(c) of the Act. In addition, Applicant consents to the imposition of the following conditions to any order granting it the requested relief:

1. In supervising Applicant's operations and delegating special responsibilities involving portfolio management to Applicant's investment adviser; the board of directors of Applicant undertakes—as a particular responsibility within the overall duty of care owed to its shareholders—to establish procedures reasonably designed, taking into account current market conditions and Applicant's investment objectives, to stabilize Applicant's net asset value per share, as computed for the purpose of distribution, redemption and repurchase, at $1.00 per share.

2. Included within the procedures to be adopted by the board of directors of Applicant shall be the following:

(a) Review by the board of directors, as it deems appropriate and at such intervals as are reasonable in light of current market conditions, to determine the extent of deviation, if any, of the net asset per share as determined by using available market quotations from the $1.00 amortized cost price per share, and the maintenance of records of such review.[1]

(b) In the event such deviation from the $1.00 amortized cost price per share exceeds ½ of 1 percent, a requirement that the board of directors will promptly consider what action, if any, should be initiated by it.

(c) Where the board of directors believes the extent of any deviation from the $1.00 amortized cost price per share may result in material dilution or other unfair results to investors or existing shareholders, it shall take such action as it deems appropriate to eliminate or to reduce to the extent reasonably practicable such dilution or unfair results, which may include: redeeming shares in kind; selling portfolio instruments prior to maturity to realize capital gains or losses, or to shorten the average maturity of portfolio instruments; withholding dividends; or utilizing a net asset value per share as determined by using available market quotations.

3. Applicant will maintain a dollar-weighted average portfolio maturity appropriate to its objective of maintaining a stable net asset value per share; provided, however, that Applicant will not (a) purchase any instrument with a remaining maturity of greater than one year, or (b) maintain a dollar-weighted average portfolio maturity which exceeds 120 days.[2]

4. Applicant will record, maintain, and preserve permanently in an easily accessible place a written copy of the procedures (and any modifications thereto) described in paragraph 1 above, and will record, maintain and preserve for a period of not less than six years (the first two years in an easily accessible place) a written record of the board of directors' considerations and actions taken in connection with the discharge of their responsibilities, as set forth above, to be included in the minutes of the board of directors' meetings. The documents preserved pursuant to this condition shall be subject to inspection by the Commission in accordance with Section 31(b) of the Act, as if such documents were records required to be maintained pursuant to rules adopted under Section 31(a) of the Act.

5. Applicant will limit its portfolio investments, including repurchase agreements, to those United States dollar-denominated instruments which its board of directors determines present minimal credit risks, and which are of "high quality" as determined by any major rating service or, in the case of any instrument that is not rated, of comparable quality as determined by its board of directors.

6. Applicant will include in each quarterly report, as an attachment to Form N–1Q, a statement as to whether any action pursuant to paragraph 2(c) above was taken during the preceding fiscal quarter and, if any such action was taken, will describe the nature and circumstances of such action.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than January 15, 1982, at 5:30 p.m., submit to the Commission in writing a request for a hearing on the application accompanied by a statement as to the nature of his interest, the reason for such request, and the issues, if any, of fact or law proposed to be controverted, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission shall order a hearing thereon. Any such communication should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington, D.C. 20549. A copy of such request shall be served personally or by mail upon Applicant at the address stated above. Proof of such service (by affidavit or, in the case of an attorney-at-law, by certificate) shall be filed contemporaneously with the request. As provided by Rule 0–5 of the Rules and Regulations promulgated under the Act, an order disposing of the application will be issued as of course following said date unless the Commission thereafter orders a hearing upon request or upon the Commission's own motion. Persons who request a hearing, or advice as to whether a hearing is ordered, will receive any notices and orders issued in this matter, including the date of the hearing (if ordered) and any postponements thereof.

For the Commission, by the Division of Investment Management, pursuant to delegated authority.

George A. Fitzsimmons,

Secretary.

[1] To fulfill this condition, Applicant intends to use actual quotations or estimates of market value reflecting current market conditions chosen by the board of directors in the exercise of its discretion to be appropriate indicators of value which may include, inter alia, (1) quotations or estimates of market value for individual portfolio instruments, or (2) values obtained from yield data relating to classes of money market instruments published by reputable sources.

[2] In fulfilling this condition, if the disposition of a portfolio security results in a dollar-weighted average portfolio maturity in excess of 120 days, Applicant will invest available cash in such a manner as to reduce the dollar-weighted average portfolio maturity to 120 days or less as soon as reasonably practicable.

American Stock Exchange, Inc. and Chicago Board Options Exchange, Inc.; Amendments to Proposed Rule Changes and Order Approving Proposed Rule Changes, December 23, 1981

I. Introduction

Pursuant to section 19(b)(1) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, 15 U.S.C. 78s(b)(1) (the "Act"), and Rule 19b–4 thereunder, the American Stock Exchange, Inc. ("Amex"), 86 Trinity Place, New York, New York 10006, and the Chicago Board Options Exchange, Incorporated ("CBOE"), LaSalle at Jackson, Chicago, Illinois 60604, have filed with the Commission proposed rule changes to modify their rules to accommodate the listing and trading of standardized put and call options contracts on securities issued by the United States Department of the Treasury ("Treasury options").[1] The exchanges also have designated the specific Treasury bond, note and bill options contracts in which they propose to commence options trading.[2]

Because of the significance of the proposals and the possible impact of Treasury options trading on related markets, public comment has been solicited extensively. To supplement the initial publication of notice of the filing of the individual proposals, the Commission on May 11, 1981, issued a release discussing various aspects of the proposals and inviting commentators to address a number of specific issues.[3] In addition, letters were sent to the Commodity Futures Trading Commission ("CFTC"), the Federal Reserve Bank of New York ("FRB–NY"), the Federal Reserve Board ("FRB"), and the U.S. Department of the Treasury ("Treasury") specifically inviting the views of those agencies.[4] In response, the Commission received 14 comment letters on the proposals, including letters from the foregoing governmental agencies,[5] as well as from Amex, CBOE and the New York Stock Exchange, Inc. ("NYSE").[6] Specific comments are discussed as appropriate in this order.[7]

II. Economic Basis

In their submissions, the exchanges have asserted that standardized, exchange-traded put and call options on Treasury securities would serve an important economic function. In particular, the exchanges believe that such options could be used by a wide range of individuals and businesses engaged in enterprises that are sensitive to changes in interest rates. Through the use of various options purchasing and writing strategies, such persons can hedge against the risks associated with adverse interest rate movements, and at the same time retain the opportunity to profit from favorable movements.

Treasury options also can be attractive for speculators. For example, options purchasers can profit from favorable movements in interest rates on a leveraged basis, while at the same time limiting their risk exposure to the amount of the premium paid. Of course, since options are wasting assets of limited duration the investor stands potentially to lose his entire investment in a short period of time. Accordingly, notwithstanding the limited risk features of options, the exchanges acknowledge that it is important that the risks of options trading are adequately disclosed to investors and that the sale of options to public customers be rigorously supervised. In this regard, as discussed in part IV, infra, the exchanges have proposed rules to govern the marketing of Treasury options by member organizations, including rules relating to the supervision of sales personnel, risk disclosure and suitability, which are designed to ensure that such trading occurs in a well-ordered regulatory environment.

The exchanges also contend that trading standardized options in an exchange context offers other benefits. They assert that the intermediation of the Options Clearing Corporation ("OCC") virtually eliminates any credit risk which might otherwise be associated with over-the-counter trading in Treasury options. In addition, they indicate that standardization and centralization of trading would contribute to market liquidity and pricing efficiency.[8]

The FRB–NY and the FRB stated that properly regulated Treasury options markets could be expected to improve the efficiency and liquidity of the cash market for Treasury instruments, as well as serve as a useful adjunct to the trading activities of dealers in

[1] Amex's Treasury options proposal initially was filed on March 4, 1981 and amended on July 13, 1981, November 12, 1981 and December 9, 1981. Notice of the initial filing and all but the latter set of amendments thereto was given by Securities Exchange Act Release Nos. 17832 (March 16, 1981), 17944 (July 16, 1981) and 18266 (November 17, 1981), and by publication in the Federal Register (46 FR 17936 (March 20, 1981), 46 FR 37582 (July 21, 1981) and 46 FR 57795 (November 25, 1981)). See File No. SR–Amex–81–1. The latter set of amendments relate to such matters as member firm supervision of accounts, position and exercise limits and reporting requirements. Since public comment on these matters already has been solicited extensively, the Commission believes there is good cause for approval prior to the thirtieth day after publication of notice thereof. See pp. 17–18, infra. CBOE's initial proposal to trade options on Treasury notes and bonds was filed April 17, 1980 and amended on August 8, 1980 and August 12, 1981. Notice of the foregoing amendments to the proposed rule change was given by Securities Exchange Act Release Nos. 17325 (November 21, 1980) and 18039 (August 17, 1981), and by publication in the Federal Register (45 FR 79612 (December 1, 1980) and 46 FR 42390 (August 20, 1981)). See File No. SR–CBOE–80–8. The proposal was expanded to include market basket Treasury bond options contracts by a filing submitted on August 21, 1981, on which notice was given by Securities Exchange Act Release No. 18090 (September 10, 1981) and by publication in the Federal Register (46 FR 47335 (September 25, 1981)). See File No. SR–CBOE–81–18. The proposal was expanded to include Treasury bill options contracts by a filing submitted on November 20, 1981, on which notice was given by Securities Exchange Act Release No. 18293 (November 30, 1981) and by publication in the Federal Register (46 FR 59682 (December 7, 1981)). See File No. SR–CBOE–81–25. The foregoing filings were consolidated in the subject proposed rule change submitted on December 8, 1981, which also includes certain amendments similar to the Amex most recent amendments. See File No. SR–CBOE–81–27. On this basis, the foregoing filings have been withdrawn. Since the latter filing merely consolidates prior filings that were published for public comment, and contains amendments with respect to matters already published for coment, the Commission believes there is good cause for approval prior to the thirtieth day after publication of noticer thereof. See pp. 17–18, infra.

[2] The Commission also has addressed the Treasury options proposals in a related context. See Securities Exchange Act Release No. 18297 (December 2, 1981), 46 FR 60376 (December 9, 1981), where the Commission announced that it did not intend to limit trading of particular nonequity options to a single market.

[7] The Commission has received five comment letters that raised questions relating to the applicability of the Commodity Exchange Act ("CEA") to the trading of the instruments contemplated by these proposals and to the Commission's jurisdiction over and authority to regulate that trading. See letter to Douglas Scarff, Director, Division of Market Regulation, from James A. Culver, Director, Division of Economics and Education, CFTC (August 24, 1981); and letters to George A Fitzsimmons, Secretary, SEC, from Robert K. Wilmouth, President, Chicago Board of Trade ("CBOT") (June 30 1981), Mahlon M. Frankhouser, Kirkland and Ellis, counsel for CBOT (September 1, 1981 and October 16, 1981), and Clayton Yeutter, President, Chicago Mercantile Exchange (October 16, 1981). As set forth in its brief in Board of Trade of the City of Chicago v. Securities and Exchange Commission, No. 81–1660 (7th Cir. 1981), the Commission believes that it has authority to approve proposed rule changes by national securities exchanges providing for the trading of options on government securities and to regulate that trading, and that nothing in the CEA restricts that authority. Moreover, Commission approval of rule changes providing for the trading on national securities exchanges of options on Treasury securities is contemplated by the resolution of jurisdictional issues reached by the Commission and the CFTC, and announced in their joint press release on December 7, 1981.

government securities.[9] The Treasury indicated that it did not believe that options trading on Treasury securities would have an adverse effect on its auction activities.[10]

III. Contract Design

To accommodate the trading of options on Treasury securities each exchange has submitted general enabling rules which authorize the listing of options on specific Treasury bonds, notes, and bills. In addition, the CBOE has proposed rules which would authorize it to list options on a "market basket" of Treasury bonds. Both Amex and CBOE have indicated, however, that they do not intend, at least initially, to commence options trading on the full range of Treasury instruments.[11] Accordingly, both exchanges have set forth in their filings the terms of the specific options contracts in which they will begin trading.[12]

In designing the proposed options contracts the exchanges have sought to be responsive to the economic needs of the marketplace. For example, to accommodate the interests of both large-scale and smaller investors, the exchanges have proposed two sizes for Treasury options contracts: "standard-sized" contracts representing a principal amount of $100,000 for Treasury bonds and notes and $1 million for Treasury bills, and "mini-contracts" on each instrument with principal amounts that are one-fifth the standard size. The exchanges have proposed to introduce options series at three-month intervals with maturities ranging from one to fifteen months. Options series would expire on various quarterly cycles selected by the exchanges based on a correspondence to the Treasury auction cycle for the particular underlying instrument or the perceived interests of market participants. Initial options series in each expiration month would be introduced at or near the price of the underlying security; contracts with new exercise prices would be added generally in response to substantial price changes.[13]

With respect to matters of contract design and delivery specifications, so long as the Commission has no regulatory concerns it is not inclined to substitute its judgment for the business judgment of the self-regulatory organizations. Rather, in matters such as these, the marketplace generally should be permitted to determine whether a particular contract meets the needs of market participants.[14]

With regard to contract design, several commentators also indicated their belief that a market basket contract would be preferable to specific issues contracts from a regulatory standpoint. These same commentators acknowledged, however, that specific issue contracts in the long run would be more economically viable. See comment letter of the FRB, at 1–2, and comment letter of Merrill Lynch, at 1–2. The Commission believes that so long as specific issue contracts are designed in a manner which mitigates the potential for regulatory problems, the choice between listing a market basket contract and specific issue contracts largely is a matter of business judgement.

The Commission, however, does maintain a regulatory interest in certain other terms of the proposed Treasury options contracts. These include the qualification of underlying Treasury securities for options trading and the establishment of position and exercise limits. Each exchange proposes that in order to qualify for options listing an underlying issue of Treasury bonds or notes must have an initial public issuance of at least $1 billion.[15] Because of the nature of the proposed 13-week and 26-week Treasury bill contracts, the deliverable supply of the underlying instrument depends on the size of the Treasury auctions that correspond to the date of exercise and, therefore, may vary from week to week.[16] In the Commission's view, the proposed listing standards appear reasonably designed to ensure the existence of a deliverable supply which is sufficient to avert the possibility of market congestion.[17]

[9] With respect to proper regulation of the Treasury options markets, the FRB–NY indicated that one objective of such regulation should be to discourage excessive speculation and other disruptive activities. Toward this end, the FRB–NY emphasized the need for adequate margin requirements, reasonable market-wide position and exercise limits, marketwide surveillance and monitoring of developments by knowledgeable parties. Comment letter of the FRB–NY, at 4. These matters are addressed in parts III and VI, infra.

[10] Comment letter of the Treasury, at 3.

[11] Amex initially has proposed to trade standard-sized and mini-contracts on 13-week Treasury bills and on 26-week Treasury bills. See Letter to Gene E. Carasick, Assistant Director, from Nathan Most, Vice President, New Products Development, Amex (December 11, 1981). CBOE initially proposes a standard-sized contract and a mini-contract on Treasury bonds. At the present time, CBOE does not contemplate trading a market basket Treasury bond contract. See Letter to Gene E. Carasick, Assistant Director, from Arne R. Rode, General Counsel, CBOE (November 4, 1981).

[12] The listing of any additional Treasury options classes, or any material change in the contract terms of an existing class, will constitute a proposed rule change under section 19(b)(1) of the Act and must be filed with the Commission for approval. Such rule changes must set forth the material terms of the proposed contract, including identification of the specific Treasury security or securities underlying the contract, the contract size and the expiration cycle.

[13] For options on Treasury bonds and notes, options series would be introduced on a selected underlying instrument immediately after it is auctioned by the Treasury. Approval of the instrument for options listing generally would not extend beyond 18 months; options series expiring thereafter would relate to a more recently issued Treasury security. For options on Treasury bonds and notes, both Amex and CBOE propose a March/June/September/December cycle. In contrast, the proposed Treasury bill options contract would not be based upon a particular underlying security. Rather, upon exercise of a Treasury bill options contract, delivery could be made with bills having a term to maturity specified by the contract, generally either 13 or 26 weeks. Each exchange has selected a March/June/September/December expiration cycle. See Amex Rules 901, 903, 916, and 917; CBOE Rules 21.6, 21.7, 21.8, 21.9.

[14] Accord, Securities Exchange Act Release No. 17577 (February 26, 1981), at 6–7 46 FR 15242, (March 4, 1981) (approving the CBOE GNMA options proposal). Several commentators expressed concern that excessively narrow exercise price intervals could lead to an undesirable proliferation of illiquid options series particularly during a period of significant interest rate volatility. See letter to George A. Fitzsimmons, Secretary, SEC, from William A. Schreyer, Chairman, Merrill Lynch, at 5 (July 1, 1981), ("comment letter of Merrill Lynch") and letter to George A. Fitzsimmons, Secretary, SEC, from George M. Bollenbacher, Vice President, Paine Webber, at 4 (June 9, 1918), ("comment letter of Paine Webber"). The Commission believes, however, that the competitive interests of the exchanges in channeling participation into a limited number of liquid options series are sufficient to substantially ameliorate any potential regulatory concerns.

[15] Amex Rule 917; CBOE Rule 21.7, Interpretation .01. The amount of the initial public issuance is to be determined not by the principal amount of the issue actually sold, but by the portion of the issue sold other than to U.S. Government accounts and Federal Reserve Banks. The amount of the initial public issuance will be determined from information made publicly available by the U.S. Treasury. Continued approval for options trading would be revoked if an exchange determined that the principal amount of the underlying securities publicly outstanding had declined to less than $750 million. Upon such a determination, additional expiration months could not be opened with respect to the underlying security. Amex Rule 716, Commentary .03; CBOE Rule 21.7, Interpretation .02.

[16] According to the terms of the 13-week Treasury bill contract proposed by Amex, delivery could be made with 13-week bills issued pursuant to the Treasury auction corresponding to the week of exercise, or with 26-week or 52-week Treasury bills with 13 weeks remaining to maturity. Similarly, the 26-week Treasury bill contract would permit delivery of newly-issued 26-week bills or previously issued 52-week bills with 26 weeks remaining to maturity. The 13- and 26-week Treasury bill contracts proposed by CBOE would supplement the deliverable supply by also permitting delivery of bills with a maturity of less than the nominal maturity, but would not recognize the higher market value of the shorter maturity instruments. Over the past year, the competitive bids accepted for the combined weekly 13- and 26-week bills auctions has ranged generally between $6 and $8 billion. The deliverable supply made available by the weekly 13- and 26-week bill auctions would be supplemented every fourth week with bills issued pursuant to the 52-week bill auction which over the past year has averaged approximately $4 billion. See Treasury Bulletin, Tables PDO–2 and PDO–3 (October 1981).

[17] Should congestion nevertheless occur, it should be noted that the Options Clearing Corporation ("OCC") will have authority to take remedial action. In this regard, the OCC is expected in the near future to submit a proposed rule change relating to the issuance of Treasury options contracts, the clearance and settlement of Treasury options transactions and the processing and settlement of Treasury options exercises. This proposed rule

With respect to position and exercise limits, each of the exchanges has proposed rules that will prohibit any market participant from acquiring a position in Treasury bond or note options, or from acquiring securities through exercise of options over a period of five consecutive business days, in excess of 10 percent of the initial public issuance of the underlying security.[18] For 13- and 26-week Treasury bill options each exchange has proposed position and exercise limits which, based on the average amount of the total competitive bids accepted by the Treasury at the weekly bill auctions over the past year, generally would range from 3 to 6 percent of the public issuance.[19] In applying the position and exercise limit rules, all options relating to an underlying security must be taken into consideration irrespective of the exchange on which the position is acquired. Accordingly, options contracts traded on different exchanges with identical or substantially overlapping deliverable supplies must be aggregated.[20] On the basis of the foregoing, the Commission believes that the proposed position and exercise limits generally would be sufficient to protect the options and related markets from disruptions caused either by congestion or manipulation.[21]

IV. Sales Practice Regulation

After conducting an extensive review of stock options sales practices during the Options Study,[22] the Commission approved in early 1980 a package of rule changes submitted by several securities exchanges and the National Association of Securities Dealers in response to Options Study recommendations designed to enhance the quality of regulation governing securities firms doing a public options business.[23] To govern the sales practices of member firms doing a public Treasury options business, Amex and CBOE each have proposed a regulatory structure that generally parallel that adopted for equity options.

In accordance with these rules, each member organization as a pre-condition to engaging in a Treasury options business would be required to develop and implement a written program for the review of customer accounts and orders under the supervision of a Senior Registered Options Principal ("SROP") who is a partner or officer of the member organization.[24] Each organization also would be required to have a Compliance Registered Options Principal ("CROP") who would be responsible for ensuring compliance with the securities laws and applicable exchanges rules.[25] Direct supervision of registered representatives would be the responsibility of Registered Options Principals ("ROPs") whose functions would include approval of customer accounts for Treasury options trading and the approval and initialing of all orders for discretionary accounts.[26] The principal supervisor of any member organization branch office with more than three registered representatives engaged in Treasury options trading would have to be qualified as a ROP.[27]

The proposed rules governing supervision of Treasury options trading will enable member organizations presently engaged in an equity options business to utilize the same supervisory structure for Treasury options, provided that such personnel are Treasury-options qualified. Member organizations that choose to conduct their Treasury options business other than in conjunction with their equity options business would be required to implement a parallel supervisory structure. In order to allow such firms sufficient time to comply with this requirement, the effective date of the supervisory rules is being delayed until six months after the commencement on any exchange of trading in a debt options product other than GNMA options. In the interim, exchange rules will require adherence to the supervisory structure adopted by the CBOE and approved by the Commission with respect to GNMA options trading.[28] In all other respects, the rules governing the marketing of Treasury options to public customers will be effective immediately.

To ensure that member firm personnel are properly qualified, each registered representative engaged in the sale of Treasury options and all supervisory personnel responsible for overseeing the firm's Treasury options activities would be required to complete successfully the Interest Rate Options Qualification Examination which tests a candidate's knowledge of both the debt options markets and the market for the underlying securities.[29] change must be approved by the Commission prior to the commencement of Treasury options trading on any exchange.

Under its existing rules, the OCC has authority to impose restrictions on exercises and, if necessary, to prescribe cash settlement in lieu of the underlying security. See Article VI, section 7 of the OCC rules. It is anticipated that these restrictions also will be made applicable to Treasury options.

In its comment letter, at 3, the FRB–NY expressed concern regarding the possibility of congestion caused by a coincidence of the proposed expiration dates for the 13-week Treasury bill options contracts with the termination date for the 13-week Treasury bill futures contract traded on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange ("CME"), which would result in identical delivery dates. To avoid coinciding settlement dates, the Commission understands that the OCC intends to seek authorization to select dates for the expiration of options contracts that occur other than in the week that the CME's futures contract is scheduled to terminate.

[18] To accommodate mini-contracts the position and exercise limits for options on Treasury securities are denominated in terms of the corresponding principal amount of the underlying security. For Treasury bond and note options contracts, the exchanges propose a two-step formula for position and exercise limits: if the initial public issuance of the underlying security does not exceed $2 billion, position and exercise limits would be established at a principal amount of $100 million. If the initial public issuance was $2 billion or more the limits would be established at $200 million. Amex Rule 904 and 905; CBOE Rules 21.3 and 21.4.

[19] Amex Rules 904 and 905; CBOE Rule 21.31(f).

[20] On this basis, although the Amex and CBOE Treasury bill contracts differ in minor respects, all positions in either the 13- or 26-week contract acquired on either exchange would have to be aggregated with positions in the same type of contract acquired on the other exchange.

[21] The position and exercise limit levels finally proposed by the exchanges are lower than those originally under consideration and respond to the concerns of several commentators that the initial proposals, particularly as they related to exercise limits, were excessive. See comment letter of the FRB–NY, at 2; and comment letter of Merrill Lynch, at 3–4. In this regard, these commentators indicated that the regulatory concerns associated with large options positions might be solved, and the hedging needs of large institutions acommodated, by permitting the establishment of position limit levels that are higher than the limits imposed on exercises or by exempting covered positions from the position limit ceiling. The exchanges have not elected to pursue either of these courses at this time.

[28] Pursuant to the interim rules, supervision of non-member customer accounts and communications relating to GNMA or Treasury options would be the responsibility of one or more designated options principals who are either partners or officers of the member organization. The specific duties of designated options principals would include approval of customer accounts for GNMA and Treasury options trading, review of discretionary options accounts, and general supervision of member organization personnel engaged in GNMA options trading. Branch offices would not have to be staffed with a Treasury-options qualified principal. See footnote to Amex Rule 920; CBOE Rule 21.19A.

To provide customers with a description of Treasury options and an explanation of the special risks associated with Treasury options trading, exchange rules would require that prospective Treasury options customers be supplied with a copy of the Treasury options supplement to the OCC prospectus at or before the time their accounts are approved for Treasury options trading.[30] This prospectus also would provide information concerning the rules applicable to Treasury options trading, including the margining of Treasury options positions, and the federal tax implications of Treasury options trading. The rules of the exchanges also would require that, before a member organization can accept a customer order to purchase or write a Treasury options contract, the customer's account must be specifically approved in writing for Treasury options trading by a ROP qualified to supervise the sale of Treasury options.[31] In making recommendations to customers concerning the purchase or sale of Treasury options sales personnel would be subject to the same suitability rule applicable to equity options trading.[32]

V. Floor Procedures

CBOE intends to trade Treasury options in the context of its competing market maker system. Treasury options would be traded in the same manner and under the same rules as the exchange's equity options, except that certain modifications previously adopted to accommodate GNMA options also would be extended to govern options on Treasury securities.[33]

In contrast, Amex contemplates trading options on Treasury securities in the context of a specialist system that utilizes supplemental market makers. This involves merely extending, with minor modifications, its current rules governing equity options.[34] Each Treasury options contract would be assigned to a particular specialist whose responsibilities would be generally the same as those applicable to equity options specialists, including responsibility for administering a limit order book. The rules governing supplemental market makers, referred to as Registered Options Traders ("ROTs"), generally mirror the current Amex rules governing the equity options trading of ROTs.

The Commission has examined carefully the proposed rules governing trading activities in Treasury options on the floors of the respective exchanges, and has concluded that the proposed rules are consistent with the requirements of the Act and the rules thereunder, and, in particular, are in accordance with the maintenance of a fair and orderly market.

VI. Surveillance

Section 6(b)(5) of the Act requires an exchange to have rules designed to prevent fraudulent and manipulative acts and practices and to promote just and equitable principles of trade. Section 6(b)(1) of the Act requires that an exchange be organized and have the capacity to comply, and to enforce compliance by its members and associated persons, with the provisions of the Act, the rules thereunder, and the rules of the exchange. Accordingly, an exchange has an obligation to develop and administer a comprehensive surveillance program designed to detect manipulation and other improper trading activities.

With respect to intra-market surveillance, the exchanges' techniques for monitoring trading in Treasury options generally will be similar to the procedures currently utilized for options on equity securities. Due to the limited availability of timely and independently varifiable transaction, quotation and position information with regard to activities in related markets, however, the exchanges have indicated that inter-market surveillance techniques for options on Treasury securities will differ somewhat from those currently employed for equity options.

A principal purpose of inter-market surveillance is to protect the integrity of the options markets by maintaining a capacity to detect and deter the manipulation of options prices resulting from trading in a related market. In addition, as the FRB and FRB–NY emphasized in their comments, there is also a need for rigorous surveillance as a deterrent to the possible disruptive effect of Treasury options on the underlying cash market.[35] To address have imposed reporting and recordkeeping requirements which will enable the exchanges to identify situations potentially susceptible to manipulation,[36] as well as rules enabling the exchanges in the course of an investigation to obtain access to the books and records maintained by corporate affiliates of Treasury options market makers relating to transactions in Government securities, Government securities options, futures on Government securities and options on such futures.[37] The Commission believes that the data made available by these rules, if effectively utilized by the exchanges, will minimize the potential for manipulation.

In anticipation of GNMA options trading, the CBOE has made the necessary revisions to its surveillance modules to monitor options trading on debt securities and has submitted its updated surveillance manual for Commission review. Prior to the commencement of its Treasury options program, the Commission expects to review the manual developed by Amex outlining its surveillance procedures for Treasury options.

VII. Findings and Conclusion

Under section 19(b)(2) of the Act, the Commission must approve the foregoing rule changes if it determines that the proposed rule changes are consistent with the requirements of the Act and the rules thereunder applicable to national securities exchanges. The Commission has reviewed carefully the rules proposed by both Amex and CBOE to accommodate the listing and trading of options on U.S. Treasury securities and has concluded, for the reasons set forth above, that the rules provide for adequate and proper regulation of the proposed markets. Accordingly, the Commission finds that the proposed rule

[32] Amex Rule 923 and CBOE Rule 9.9.

[33] See generally, CBOE Rules 21.10 through 21.19. The principal modification is the CBOE's decision not to maintain a public limit order book for Treasury options. Pending actual trading experience, the Commission is not prepared to conclude that the absence of a public limit order book for Treasury options is inappropriate.

[36] Each member organization will be required to file with the exchange reports of any member firm account or any customer account with an aggregate options position on the same side of the market with respect to any underlying Treasury security which is equal to or in excess of 20 percent of the applicable position limit. Amex Rule 906; CBOE Rules 21.5 and 21.31(f). In addition, market makers on the CBOE, and specialists and supplemental market makers on Amex will be required to report to the exchange all accounts maintained for, and all transactions effected in such accounts with respect to options on Treasury securities, Treasury securities underlying such options, futures contracts which permit delivery of the underlying security, and any options on such futures contracts. These rules also would require registered Treasury options specialists and market makers to keep records, which would subject to exchanges review, of other trading activity with respect to Treasury securities Amex Rules 950(k) and 957; CBOE Rule 21.30 supplementing CBOE Rule 8.9.

changes are consistent with the requirements of the Act and the rules and regulations thereunder and, in particular, the requirements of Section 6 and the rules and regulations thereunder. Prior to the commencement of trading, however, the exchanges must secure Commission approval of their proposed margin rules.[38] In addition, the OCC must submit for review the Treasury options prospectus and submit for approval proposed rule changes to accommodate Treasury options. The Commission finds good cause to approve the most recent amendments submitted by the Amex prior to the thirtieth day after publication of notice since the amendments relate to matters with respect to which public comments already have been solicited extensively. In addition, the Commission finds good cause to approve the CBOE rule change prior to the thirtieth day after publication since it is primarily a consolidation of proposed rule changes previously published for comment and contains amendments relating to matters on which public comments already have been solicited extensively.[39]

It is therefore ordered, pursuant to section 19(b)(2) of the Act, that the above-mentioned proposed rule changes, as amended, with the exception of those portions of the proposed rule changes concerning margin be, and hereby are, approved.

By the Commission.

Secretary.

[38] The proposed margin rules of Amex and CBOE are contained in their current Treasury options filings. See footnote 1, supra. The Commission has not fully completed its review of the margin proposals and accordingly, is not approving that aspect of the Amex's and CBOE's Treasury options filings at this time.

[39] The Commission also currently has pending a proposal by the NYSE to trade options on Treasury securities which is virtually identical in substance to the Amex and CBOE proposals. The NYSE's proposal was filed on February 5, 1981 and amended on September 22, 1981. Notice of the proposal and the amendments was given by Securities Exchange Act Release Nos. 17631 (March 16, 1981), 46 FR 17939, and 18222 (October 29, 1981), 46 FR 55465. Additional comments was solicited by Securities Exchange Act Release No. 17795 (May 11, 1981), 46 FR 27430. The NYSE Board of Directors, however, has not yet approved a final set of amendments to the proposal which would be similar in nature to the final amendments filed by Amex and CBOE. The Commission understands that Board approval is anticipated in January 1982. The Commission expects to be able to approve the NYSE proposal shortly thereafter.

[Release No. 12119; 812-4951]

Crestline Investment Co., Inc. and Hickory Hill Furniture Co., Inc.; Filing of Application

December 21, 1981.

In the matter of Crestline Investment Company, Inc., Post Office Box 69, 215 Main Street, East, Valdese, N.C. 28690 and Hickory Hill Furniture Company, Inc., Post Office Box 1389, Hickory, N.C. 28601 (812-4951). Notice is hereby given that Crestline Investment Company, Inc. ("Crestline"), a registered, diversified, closed-end, management investment company, and Hickory Hill Furniture Company, Inc. ("Hickory Hill," together with Crestline, "Applicants"), filed an application on August 19, 1981, for an order of the Commission pursuant to section 17(b) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("Act"), granting an exemption from Section 17(a) of the Act to permit Hickory Hill to purchase a warrant and debenture from Crestline. All interested persons are referred to the application on file with the Commission for a statement of the representations contained therein, which are summarized below.

Applicants state that Crestline is a North Carolina corporation that invests primarily in long-term securities issued by state and municipal governments and also holds a small amount of short-term securities and a debenture and a warrant issued by Hickory Hill. According to the application, Crestline had operated as a furniture manufacturer under the corporate name of Crestline Furniture Company, Inc., until March 1978, when Hickory Hill purchased all of its operating assets. According to the application, the purchase price included (a) $4,400,000 in cash, (b) the assumption by Hickory Hill of all of the liabilities of Crestline Furniture Company, Inc., and (c) a subordinated debenture (The "Debenture") issued by Hickory Hill in the principal amount of $750,000, due March 10, 1988, with interest payable at the rate of 10 percent per annum, with a detachable warrant (the "Warrant") for the purchase of securities of Hickory Hill.

According to the application, the Warrant entitled Crestline to acquire, upon the exercise of the Warrant, shares of Hickory Hill constituting a 22.5 percent ownership interest in Hickory Hill. The Warrant, when issued, entitled Crestline to acquire 5,885 shares of Hickory Hill's Class A common stock for $123.42 per share and 192 shares of Hickory Hill's Class B common stock, also for $123.42 per share. In order to ensure that Crestline would be entitled to no less than a 22.5 percent ownership interest in Hickory Hill upon exercise of the Warrant, the Warrant also provided that a subsequent issuance of shares of Hickory Hill would give Crestline the right to acquire additional shares pursuant to the Warrant at an exercise price reflecting the terms on which such newly-issued shares were issued. Applicants state that Hickory Hill did issue additional shares of Class B common stock (which were later redeemed) and issued shares of a new class of preferred stock having a $100, per share liquidation preference and a six dollars per share non-cumulative annual dividend preference (which preferred shares were also later redeemed). As a result of the issuance of these shares, Crestline became entitled, pursuant to the Warrant, to purchase 5,885 shares of Hickory Hill's Class A common stock at $123.42 per share, 320 shares of Class B common stock at $82.472 per share and 1,234 shares of preferred stock at $100 per share. The Warrant was exercisable by Crestline within a 90 day period, ending no later than March 10, 1988, to be designated by Hickory Hill and it provided that the exercise price was payable either by certified check or by surrender of the debenture, which would be valued for that purpose at its face amount.

Applicant states that as of January 31, 1981, the Debenture was valued by Crestline on its financial statements at $579,975. On February 27, 1981, Wachovia Bank Trust Company, N.A. ("Wachovia"), Crestline's investment manager, in its analysis of the Hickory Hill offer for Crestline's board of directors, valued the Debenture at $537,466. Although Crestline did not assign any value to the Warrant in its financial statements of January 31, 1981, Wachovia valued the Warrant at $253,617 as of February 27, 1981.

According to the application, in late January, 1981, Hickory Hill designated the 90 day exercise period as March 1, 1981 through May 30, 1981, and at the same time offered to repurchase the Warrant for $250,000 and contingent on Crestline's acceptance of the offer to repurchase the Warrant, Hickory Hill also offered to purchase the Debenture for $650,000.

Applicants state that Crestline's board of directors reviewed the various alternatives available to Crestline, which included (1) selling the Warrant and the Debenture of $900,000, (2) exercising the right to purchase all the securities available under the Warrant, or (3) purchasing only a portion of the securities available under the Warrant. According to the application, the board of directors voted to recommend to shareholdes that they approve the exercise of the Warrant to purchase 5,885 Class A securities and 320 Class B securities and to pay the exercise price of $752,718 by surrendering the Debenture and paying an additional $2,718 in cash. The board of directors also determined that if the shareholders rejected the board's proposal, Crestline would accept Hickory Hill's offer to repurchase both the Warrant and the Debenture for $900,000. At a special meeting held May 29, 1981, the shareholders rejected the board of director's recommendation, in effect voting to accept Hickory Hill's offer to purchase the Warrant and the Debenture.

Section 17(a) of the Act, in pertinent part, prohibits an affiliated person of a registered investment company, or any affiliated person of such person, acting as principal, from selling to or purchasing from such registered company any security or other property. Section 17(b) of the Act provides, in part, that the Commission, upon application, may exempt a transaction from the provisions of section 17(a) of the Act if evidence establishes that the terms of the proposed transaction, including the consideration to be paid, are reasonable and fair and do not involve overreaching on the part of any person concerned, and that the proposed transaction is consistent with the policy of the registered investment company concerned and with the general purposes of the Act.

Applicants represent that Lee Corson is a director of and owns more than 5 percent of the outstanding shares of Crestline and that he is president and chairman of the board of directors of Hickory Hill. He also indirectly controls a majority of the issued and outstanding securities of Corson Furniture Industries, Inc., which in turn owns 97 percent of the issued and outstanding securities of Hickory Hill. Because Hickory Hill is an affiliated person of Lee Corson, who is in turn an affiliated person of Crestline, section 17(a) of the Act would prohibit the proposed purchase of the Warrant and the Debenture from Crestline by Hickory Hill. In addition, the proposed purchase would also be prohibited by section 17(a) of the Act if Hickory Hill were deemed to be an affilitate of Crestline by reason of Crestline's ownership of the Warrant which entitles it to purchase in excess of 5 percent of the voting stock of Hickory Hill.

Applicants contend that either of the two courses of action considered by the shareholders would have been consistent with Crestline's policies, as stated in its registration statement. According to the application, the Debenture and Warrant were accepted by the Crestline shareholders as part purchase price paid for the assets of Crestline Furniture Company, Inc., in 1978, and the possibility of eventually exercising the Warrant was contemplated when Crestline filed its registration statement. On the other hand, Applicants assert that the sale of the Warrant and Debenture for cash arguably would be more consistent with Crestline's general policy to date of investing in assets such as tax-exempt bonds than would the acquisition of a more risky investment such as the stock of Hickory Hill. Applicants further state that the terms of the proposed transaction itself, as well as its approval by a vote of the Crestline shareholders, show that the proposed transaction is fair and does not involve overreaching by any party.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than January 15, 1982, at 5:30 p.m., submit to the Commission in writing a request for a hearing on an application accompanied by a statement as to the nature of his interest, the reason for such request, and the issues, if any, of fact or law proposed to be controverted, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission shall order a hearing thereon. Any such communication should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington, D.C. 20549. A copy of such request shall be served personally or by mail upon Applicants at the addresses stated above. Proof of such service (by affidavit or, in the case of an attorney-at-law, by certificate) shall be filed contemporaneously with the request. As provided by Rule 0–5 of the Rules and Regulations promulgated under the Act, an order disposing of the application will be issued as of course following said date unless the Commission thereafter order a hearing upon request or upon the Commission's own motion. Persons who request a hearing, or advice as to whether a hearing is ordered, will receive any notices and orders issued in this matter, including the date of the hearing (if ordered) and any postponements thereof.

Hartford Variable Annuity Life Insurance Co.; Filing of Application

December 21, 1981.

Notice is hereby given that Hartford Variable Annuity Life Insurance Company ("HVA"), Hartford Variable Annuity Life Insurance Company NQ Variable Account ("HVA–NQ–VA"), Hartford Variable Annuity Life Insurance Company QP Variable Account ("HVA–QP–VA"), Hartford Variable Annuity Life Insurance Company DC Variable Account–I ("DC–I"), Hartford Variable Annuity Life Insurance Company DC Variable Account–II ("DC–II"), Hartford Fund, Incorporated ("Hartford Fund") and Hartford Variable Annuity Life Insurance Company Separate Account ("HVA Separate Account") (hereafter collectively "Applicants") (Hartford Plaza, Hartford, Connecticut 06115) filed an application on March 5, 1981, and amendments thereto on September 2, 1981 and December 21, 1981, pursuant to Section 17(b) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("Act") for an order exempting Applicants from the provisions of Section 17(a) of the Act to the extent necessary to permit certain purchases and sales of assets and securities among the Applicants. All interested persons are referred to the application on file with the Commission for a statement of the representations made therein which are summarized below.

HVA is a stock life insurance company organized under the laws of the State of Connecticut. HVA is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Hartford Life Insurance Company. Hartford Life Insurance Company is ultimately owned by Hartford Fire Insurance Company which, in turn, is a subsidiary of International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation. HVA Separate Account was organized on December 4, 1967, by duly adopted Resolution of the Board of Directors of HVA. HVA Separate Account is registered as an open-end diversified management investment company under the Act. While new contracts are no longer being offered and sold with respect to HVA Separate Account, contract owners of outstanding group contracts continue to make contributions under their contracts for both existing and new contract participants. In addition, there are individual contracts that have been issued and are outstanding under which additional contributions are being made.

Over the past several years, HVA has created a number of new separate accounts. These separate accounts have been organized as unit investment trust type investment companies. Money received as purchase payments under the variable annuity contracts issued with respect to these separate accounts is invested at the direction of the contract owner in the shares of Hartford Fund. Hartford Fund is an open-end, diversified management investment company which presently offers three classes or series of shares: a Bond Series, a Stock Series and a Money Market Series. Contract owners may designate which of these Series that he wishes his purchase payments invested in.

As noted, no new contracts are now being issued with respect to HVA Separate Account. Further, as a result of an optional offer of exchange between HVA Separate Account and HVA–QP–VA, DC–I and DC–II—three other HVA separate accounts—a significant number of HVA Separate Account contract owners have already exchanged their contracts for HVA–QP–VA, DC–I and DC–II contracts. HVA–QP–VA is a separate account with respect to which contracts are issued in conjunction with tax-qualified pension and profit-sharing plans, tax-deferred annuity plans, deferred compensation plans for tax-exempt employer and state and local governments, HR–10 plans, and Individual Retirement Accounts. DC–I and DC–II are separate accounts with respect to which contracts are issued in conjunction with deferred compensation plans for tax-exempt employers, including state and other governmental employers. HVA–NQ–VA contracts will be issued in connection with non-tax qualified plans. Because of such exchanges and because of contract surrenders and for other reasons, the amount of HVA Separate Account net assets has decreased. Applicants expect the decrease to continue because sales of contracts have ceased and because of the exchanges referred to above.

Because of the ever diminishing size of HVA Separate Account which results in increased expenses and increased difficulties in managing a shrinking portfolio, the HVA Separate Account Committee and HVA's Board of Directors determined to terminate HVA Separate Account. In connection with their determination to terminate HVA Separate Account, the Separate Account Committee also considered the availability of an alternative and similar investment media in which the HVA Separate Account contract owners might continue to invest so that their respective investment programs would not be interrupted. The Committee determined that the Stock Series of Hartford Fund was an investment medium very similar in character to HVA Separate Account. The investment objective of the Stock Series is investment in equity-type securities with emphasis on obtaining long-term capital growth primarily through capital appreciation with income a secondary consideration. The investment objective of HVA Separate Account is that investments will be selected primarily for long-term accumulation of capital through appreciation and investment of income. Applicants assert that the investment policies and restrictions of the Hartford Fund Stock Series and HVA Separate Account while not identical are substantially the same.

The shares of Hartford Fund Stock Series now serve or will serve as one of the underlying investment media of HVA–QP–VA, DC–I, DC II, and HVA–NQ–VA. It is proposed that the HVA Separate Account reserves relating to the tax qualified contracts will be transferred to HVA–QP–VA; reserves relating to tax-exempt employer Deferred Compensation Plans will be transferred to DC–I and DC–II and reserves relating to the non-tax qualified contracts will be transferred to HVA–NQ–VA, (a newly created separate account) as hereinafter described. The transfer will be accomplished on or before December 31, 1982. The actual date will depend on the availability of administrative capabilities to handle the transfer. Applicants submit that: (1) This restructuring will simplify the administration of the contracts by grouping reserves relating to similar types of contracts in the appropriate separate accounts; and (2) this restructuring proposal will be submitted to the HVA Separate Account contract owners for approval.

If the contract owners approve the proposal, HVA Separate Account assets will be exchanged for shares of Hartford Fund Stock Series. Such Hartford Fund Stock Series shares will then be transferred to the respective unit investment trust separate accounts—HVA–QP–VA, DC–I, DC II, and HVA–NQ–VA, as appropriate, in exchange for units of interest in such separate accounts. Applicants assert that the first such exchange will be on the basis of the market value of the HVA Separate Account portfolio assets (as adjusted by the liabilities relating to portfolio securities transactions existing at the time of the exchange) and the per share net asset value of the Stock Series shares and the second such exchange will be on the basis of the net asset value of the Stock Series shares and the Stock Series unit of interest values of HVA–QP–VA, DC–I, DC II, and HVA–NQ–VA (hereafter sometimes collectively referred to as the "Hartford Unit Trusts"). Applicants state that the costs of the merger will be borne by HVA.

Although owners of new contracts issued by HVA with respect to HVA–QP–VA, DC–I, DC II, and HVA–NQ–VA have the right to direct that their purchase payments may be invested in any of the Series shares of Hartford Fund or to exchange their investment in shares of one or more Series for shares of one or more other Series of Hartford Fund, HVA Separate Account contract owners will retain their existing contracts and will only be permitted to invest in shares of the Hartford Fund Stock Series as a consequence of this exchange.

HVA Separate Account contract owners will retain their existing contracts. Purchase payments under flexible payment Group and Individual Variable Annuity Contracts will continue to be subject to the same deductions and charges as those now being made under those contracts. The asset charge now being deducted for the provision of mortality and expense guarantees by HVA will be the same as is now being deducted.

Owners of HVA Separate Account contracts are now entitled to vote on changes in the Separate Account's investment objective and its fundamental policies and restrictions, approval of the investment advisory agreement, election of members of the Separate Account Committee and ratification of the selection of the Separate Account's independent public accountant. Because the contract reserves, as represented by shares of Hartford Fund Stock Series, will be held in HVA–QP–VA, DC–I, DC II, or HVA–NQ–VA, as appropriate, a contract owner will be entitled to vote as to the matters described above as they relate to Hartford Fund Stock Series by instructing the entity performing the custodial functions on behalf of HVA–QP–VA, DC–I, DC II, and HVA–NQ–VA, as appropriate, as to the manner in which the Hartford Fund Stock Series shares relating to the contract owner's account are to be voted. Notice of shareholders' meetings, proxy materials and a form of instruction by means of which the contract owner can give such instructions with respect to the voting of Hartford Fund shares held for the contract owner's account will be provided to the contract owner.

Hartford Fund is a series fund and owners of contracts whose investments will be represented by shares of Hartford Fund Stock Series shall be entitled to give voting instructions to HVA upon changes in investment policies and restrictions and upon approval of an investment advisory agreement only with respect to the Stock Series and not with respect to any of the other Hartford Fund Series. With respect to all other matters relating to Hartford Fund, the contract owner shall be entitled to instruct HVA with respect to the voting of the shares attributable to his account as to matters submitted to the Hartford Fund shareholders, generally. Every participant under an HVA Separate Account contract who has a 100% vested interest under a Group Contract will receive proxy materials and a form of instruction by means of which the participant may instruct the contract owner with respect to the number of votes attributable to his individual participation under a contract.

HVA Separate Account contract owners will continue to have the right to invest a portion of their contract payments to purchase fixed dollar annuity benefits in accordance and subject to the terms and conditions of their contracts relating to the acquisition of fixed benefits.

Applicants submit that, as part of the proposed changes, immediately upon transfer of the reserves and liabilities of HVA Separate Account to HVA–QP–VA, DC–I, DC II, or HVA–NQ–VA, as appropriate, an application will be filed for an order of the Commission terminating the registration of HVA Separate Account as a registered investment company. In addition, Applicants state that appropriate steps will be taken under the insurance laws of the State of Connecticut to terminate the existence of HVA Separate Account.

Section 17(a) of the Act provides, in pertinent part, that it is unlawful for any affiliated person of a registered investment company, or any affiliated person of such an affiliated person, acting as principal, knowingly to sell to or purchase from such investment company any security or other property. Applicants state that HVA Separate Account and Hartford Fund may each be deemed an affiliated person of the other (registered investment company) because the members of the HVA Separate Account Committee and the Hartford Fund Board of Directors are identical and because HVA provides administrative services to each. These factors may be said to render the two investment companies under common control. Applicants also state that the HVA Separate Account and the Hartford Unit Trusts might be deemed to be under common control and therefore affiliated persons of each other because HVA provides administrative services to HVA Separate Account as well being the depositor of the Hartford Unit Trusts. Applicants deny that any such common control exists.

As previously noted, the number of shares of Hartford Fund Stock Series to be issued to HVA Separate Account in exchange for the latter's assets will be determined by dividing the differnce between (i) the value of all of the HVA Separate Account portfolio assets transferred to Hartford Fund (such value to be determined as of the close of business of the New York Stock Exchange on the date that the Plan of Reorganization under this Agreement is implemented and (ii) the amount of those liabilities relating to HVA Separate Account portfolio transactions assumed by the Fund, by (iii) the net asset value of a share of Hartford Stock Series determined as of the close of business on the date on which the proposed merger is consummated. Applicants contend that no sales of any securities received from HVA Separate Account by Hartford Fund Stock Series are contemplated.

Applicants assert that shortly prior to the effective date of the merger, the Hartford Fund Stock Series will declare and pay a dividend consisting of substantially all of such investment company's then undistributed net income and will also distribute such investment company's then realized but undistributed net capital gains. Such dividends and distributions will be automatically reinvested in additional Hartford Fund Stock Series shares. Applicants state that on December 15, 1981, Hartford Fund Stock Series had total assets of $38,387,889 and net unrealized capital gains of $3,206,555. According to the application, the transfer of the HVA Separate Account assets to Hartford Fund Stock Series will be handled as a taxable transaction so that the existing unrealized capital gains will be realized and, therefore, no unrealized capital gains will exist with respect to the HVA Separate Account assets.

Applicants allege that the terms of the proposed merger including the consideration to be paid and received are reasonable and fair and do not involve overreaching on the part of any concerned person; the proposed transaction is consistent with the policy of each registered investment company as recited in its registration statement and reports filed under the Act and the merger proposal is consistent with the general purposes of the Act. Applicants, accordingly, request that the Commission enter an order pursuant to Section 17(b) exempting the proposed merger from the provisions of Section 17(a) to the extent that such an order is deemed necessary.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than January 15, 1982, at 5:30 p.m., submit to the Commission in writing a request for a hearing on the matter accompanied by a statement as to the nature of his interest, the reason for such request, and the issues, if any, of fact or law proposed to be controverted, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission shall order a hearing thereon. Any such communication should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington, D.C. 20549. A copy of such request shall be served personally or by mail upon Applicants at the address stated above. Proof of such service (by affidavit or, in the case of an attorney-at-law, by certificate) shall be filed contemporaneously with the request. As provided by Rule 0–5 of the Rules and Regulations promulgated under the Act, an order disposing of the application will be issued, as of course, following said date unless the Commission thereafter orders a hearing upon request or upon the Commission's own motion. Persons who request a hearing, or advice as to whether a hearing is ordered, will receive any notices and orders issued in this matter, including the date of the hearing (if ordered) and any postponements thereof.

For the Commission, by the Division of Investment Management, pursuant to delegated authority.

International Harvester Co.; Application and Opportunity for Hearing

December 23, 1981.

Notice is hereby given that International Harvester Company (the "Company") has filed an application under clause (ii) of section 310(b)(1) of the Trust Indenture Act of 1939 (the "Act") for a finding by the Securities and Exchange Commission that the successor trusteeship of Commerce Union Bank, One Commerce Place, Nashville, Tennessee 37219, under two existing indentures of the Company which are qualified under the Act is not so likely to involve a material conflict of interest as to make it necessary in the public interest or for the protection of investors to disqualify Commerce Union Bank from acting as trustee under either of such indentures.

I

The Company alleges that the Company has outstanding on the date hereof the following described securities issued under the following indenture between the Company and Harris Trust and Savings Bank ("Harris Trust"), which was qualified under the Act in connection with the registration under the Securities Act of 1933 of the securities issued thereunder, the file number of such Registration Statement being set forth in parentheses below:

$150,000,000 9% Sinking Fund Debentures Due 2004, under Indenture dated as of June 15, 1974 between the Company and Harris Trust, Trustee (File No. 2–51111).

II

The Company also has issued the following described securities issued under the following indenture between the Company and Morgan Guaranty Trust Company of New York ("Morgan Guaranty"), which was qualified under the Trust Indenture Act of 1939 in connection with the registration under the Securities Act of 1933 of the securities issued thereunder, the file number of the Registration Statement being set forth in parentheses below:

$100,000,000 8⅝% Sinking Fund Debentures Due 1995, under Indenture dated as of September 1, 1970 between the Company and Morgan Guaranty, Trustee (File No. 2–38164 (of which approximately $90,617,000 is outstanding as of November 18, 1981).

On May 1, 1981, the Company appointed Commerce Union Bank as successor trustee under the above-described indenture following Morgan Guaranty's resignation as trustee. Commerce Union Bank now serves as Successor trustee under the above-described indenture.

III

1. As has been publicly reported, the Company and its subsidiary, International Harvester Credit Corporation ("IHCC"), are each negotiating for a new loan agreement to replace current short-term borrowings of the Company and IHCC. The indebtedness of the Company under its new loan agreement and certain other obligations of the Company will be secured. As a result of its anticipated role in the restructuring of the indebtedness of the Company or for other reasons, Harris Trust has notified the Company of its resignation as trustee under the indenture listed in Part I under which it serves as trustee, such resignation to become effective upon acceptance by the successor trustee of appointment under such indenture. The Company therefore intends to appoint Commerce Union Bank as successor trustee under such indenture.

2. Each of the indentures referred to in Parts I and II above contains the provisions required by section 310(b) of the Trust Indenture Act of 1939.

3. The securities issued under each of the indentures listed in Parts I and II above are wholly unsecured. All of such securities constitute senior indebtedness of the Company; the securities issued under each such indenture rank equally with the securities issued under each other such indenture.

4. Each of the indentures referred to in Parts I and II above provides that, with certain exceptions, the Company will not, and will not permit any Restricted Subsidiary[1] to create or assume any mortgage, security interest, pledge or lien of or upon any Principal Property,[2]

[1] Section 1.01 of each of the indentures listed in Parts I and II defines the term "Restricted Subsidiary" to mean "any Subsidiary (a) substantially all the business of which is carried on, within the United States of America, excluding its territories and possessions, and (b) which owns or leases a Principal Property."

[2] Section 1.01 of each of the indentures listed in Parts I and II defines the term "Principal Property" to mean "any plant used primarily for manufacturing purposes located within the United States of America, excluding its territories and or shares of capital stock or indebtedness for borrowed money issued by any Restricted Subsidiary and owned by the Company or any Restricted Subsidiary, whether owned at the date of the indenture of thereafter acquired, without making effective provision, and the Company is such case will make or cause to be made effective provision, whereby the securities issued under the indenture shall be secured by such mortgage, security interest, pledge or lien equally and ratably with any and all other indebtedness or obligations thereby secured, so long as such indebtedness or obligations shall be so secured. Because the indebtedness of the Company under its loan agreement referred to in paragraph 1 above and certain other obligations of the Company will be secured, the securities outstanding under each of the indentures referred to in Parts I and II will, when the Company enters into the new loan agreement, become equally and ratably secured by any Collateral consisting of any Principal Property, or shares of capital stock of indebtedness for borrowed money issued by any Restricted Subsidiary and owned by the Company or any Restricted Subsidiary, and will remain so secured so long as any indebtedness of the Company under its new loan agreement or any such other obligation of the Company is secured such collateral; thereafter such securities will again become wholly unsecured.

5. At such time as the indebtedness of the Company under its new loan agreement and certain other obligations of the Company become secured by any collateral consisting of any Principal Property, or shares of capital stock or indebtedness for borrowed money issued by any Restricted Subsidiary and owned by the Company or any Restricted Subsidiary, the issue of securities outstanding under each of the indentures referred to in Parts I and II above will become and be secured by the same such collateral, equally and ratably with such indebtedness and such other obligations, as well as with all other indebtedness of the Company to be secured by such collateral.

6. In order to secure the indebtedness and other obligations referred to in paragraph 5 above (the "Secured Obligations"), the Company expects to enter into an agreement (the "Trust Agreement") with Fidelity Union Bank to be appointed trustee with respect to the collateral (the "Trustee"). Under the terms of the Trust Agreement, if circumstances occur under which the Trustee takes action to realize on any collateral consisting of any Principal Property, or shares of capital stock or indebtedness for borrowed money issued by any Restricted Subsidiary and owned by the Company or any Restricted Subsidiary, all sums so realized will be held in trust by the Trustee and distributed, equally and ratably, to all holders of Secured Obligations (including for the purposes of any such distribution the trustee under each indenture of the Company under which Secured Obligations are outstanding). If the indebtedness outstanding under either of the indentures referred to in Parts I and II above is not paid when due, or if such indebtedness has been declared payable prior to its stated maturity pursuant to the terms of any such indenture, the trustee under either such indenture will be entitled to give notice to the Trustee requiring the Trustee to take action to realize on the collateral.

7. The effect of the Trust Agreement will be to insure that if any holder or group of holders of Secured Obligations becomes entitled to cause the Trustee to realize on any collateral consisting of any Principal Property, or shares of capital stock or indebtedness for borrowed money issued by any Restricted Subsidiary and owned by the Company or any Restricted Subsidiary, all holders of Secured Obligations, including the indebtedness outstanding under each of the indentures listed in Parts I and II above, will benefit ratably.

8. For the foregoing reasons, the Company believes that serving as trustee under either of the indentures listed in Parts I and II above, and continuing such trusteeship during such time as the indebtedness outstanding under each such indenture is secured and thereafter, when such indebtedness again becomes wholly unsecured, should in no way inhibit, discourage or otherwise influence Commerce Union Bank's actions as trustee under the other such indenture. Consequently, its trusteeship under both such indentures is not so likely to involve a material conflict of interest as to make it necessary in the public interest or for the protection of investors to disqualify Commerce Union Bank from acting as trustee under either of such indentures.

The Company waives notice of hearing and waives hearing and waives any and all rights to specify procedures under Rule 8(b) of the Commission's Rules of Practice with respect to the application.

For a more detailed account of the matters of fact and law asserted, all persons are referred to the application, which is a public document on file in the Office of the Commission at the Public Reference Room, 1100 L Street, N.W., Washington, D.C.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than January 17, 1982, request in writing that a hearing on such matter be held stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request, and the issues of law or fact raised by such application which he desires to controvert, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington, D.C. 20549. At any time after said date, the Commission may issue an order granting the application, upon such terms and conditions as the Commission may deem necessary or appropriate in the public interest and the interest of investors, unless a hearing is ordered by the Commission.

For the Commission, by the Division of Corporation Finance, pursuant to delegated authority.

George A. Fitzsimmons,

Secretary.

National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc.; Filing of Proposed Rule Change and Order Approving Proposed Rule Change

December 22, 1981.

The National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc. ("NASD") 1735 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006, submitted on December 11, 1981, copies of a proposed rule change pursuant to section 19(b)(1) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (the "Act") and Rule 19b-4 thereunder, to delete the monthly reporting requirement of certain uncovered short options positions by members.

Interested persons are invited to submit written data, views and arguments concerning the proposed rule change on or before January 20, 1982. Persons desiring to make written comments should file six copies thereof with the Secretary of the Commission, Securities and Exchange Commission, 500 North Capitol Street, Washington, D.C. 20549. Reference should be made to File No. SR-NASD-81-22.

possessing, of the Company or any Restricted Subsidiary except any such plant which the Board of Directors of the Company by resolution declares is not of material importance to the total business conducted by the Company and its Restricted Subsidiaries as an entity."

Copies of the submission, all subsequent amendments, all written statements with respect to the proposed rule change which are filed with the Commission and all written communications relating to the proposed rule change between the Commission and any person, other than those which may be withheld from the public in accordance with the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552, will be available for inspection and copying at the Commission's Public Reference Room 1100 L Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. Copies of the filing and of any subsequent amendments also will be available at the principal office of the above-mentioned self-regulatory organization.

The Commission finds that the proposed rule change is consistent with the requirements of the Act and the rules and regulations thereunder applicable to national securities associations and in particular, the requirements of section 15A of the Act and the rules and regulations thereunder.

The Commission finds good cause for approving the proposed rule change prior to the thirtieth day after the date of publication of notice of filing thereof, in that substantially similar rule changes[1] submitted by the American Stock Exchange, Inc.,[2] the Chicago Board Options Exchange, Inc.,[3] the Pacific Stock Exchange, Inc.[4] and the Philadelphia Stock Exchange, Inc.[5] have been published for comment and approved by the Commission.[6] The Commission did not receive any public comments relating to those substantially similar rule changes.

It is therefore ordered, pursuant to section 19(b)(2) of the Act, that the proposed rule change referenced above be, and hereby is, approved.

[1] The NASD's proposal differs from those of the above-referenced exchanges principally in that it deletes from the NASD Rules of Fair Practice and specific reference to the filing of the required report. The exchange proposals replaced the requirement that a member file reports monthly with a requirement that such reports be submitted upon an exchange's request. The NASD has represented that such a requirement is not needed because Article IV, Section 5 of its Rules of Fair Practice, and a Resolution of its Board of Governors issued thereunder, gives the NASD the authority to require a member, upon request, to furnish it with any information it deems necessary. In view of this, the Commission concludes that the NASD's rule change is not substantively different from the exchange rule changes previously approved.

[Release No. 18357; (SR–NYSE–81–27)]

New York Stock Exchange, Inc.; Filing of Proposed Rule Change and Order Approving Proposed Rule Change

December 21, 1981.

Pursuant to section 19(b)(1) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, 15 U.S.C. 78s(b)(1), notice is hereby given that on December 16, 1981, the New York Stock Exchange, Inc. ("NYSE"), 11 Wall Street, New York, New York 10005, filed with the Commission copies of a proposed rule change which would amend paragraph .40 of the NYSE's Rule 103A, the "sunset" provision, to extend the rule's effectiveness from January 15, 1982 to January 15, 1983.[1] Rule 103A provides for the evaluation of specialist performance and establishes a non-disciplinary procedure for the reallocation of stocks due to substandard specialist performance.

Interested persons are invited to submit written data, views and arguments concerning the proposed rule change on or before January 20, 1982. Persons desiring to make written comments should file six copies thereof with the Secretary of the Commission, Securities and Exchange Commission, 500 North Capitol Street, Washington, D.C. 20549. Reference should be made to File No. SR–NYSE–81–27.

Copies of the submission, all subsequent amendments, all written statements with respect to the proposed rule change which are filed with the Commission and all written communications relating to the proposed rule change between the Commission and any person, other than those which may be withheld from the public in accordance with the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552, will be available for inspection and copying at the Commission's Public Reference Room, 1100 L Street, N.W., Washington, D.C.

The Commission finds that the proposed rule change is consistent with the requirements of the Act and the rules and regulations thereunder applicable to national securities exchanges and in particular, the requirements of section 6 and the rules and regulations thereunder.

The Commission finds good cause for approving the proposed rule change prior to the thirtieth day after the date of publication of notice of filing thereof, in that the two-year pilot program under Rule 103A expires on January 15, 1982, unless extended. The Commission believes that it is appropriate to continue the program on a pilot basis.

It is therefore ordered, pursuant to section 19(b)(2) of the Act, that the proposed rule change referenced above be, and hereby is, approved.

For the Commission, by the Division of Market Regulation pursuant to delegated authority.

Philadelphia Stock Exchange, Inc.; Filing of Proposed Rule Change and Order Approving Proposed Rule Change

December 21, 1981.

Pursuant to section 19(b)(1) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (the "Act"), 15 U.S.C. 78s(b)(1), notice is hereby given that on December 18, 1981, the Philadelphia Stock Exchange, Inc. ("Phlx"), 1900 Market Street, Philadelphia, PA 19103, filed with the Commission a proposed rule change to adopt, on a temporary basis, Phlx Rule 933 concerning the sale and subordination of a membership subject to a lease agreement. Such a membership is considered under the lease agreement to be an asset of the member for purposes of Article XV of the Phlx by-laws. The proposed rule would provide the exchange with the right to sell the membership upon transfer or to resort to other forms of security for purposes of Article XV.

Interested persons are invited to submit written data, views and arguments concerning the submission on or before January 20, 1982. Persons desiring to make written comments should file six copies thereof with the Secretary of the Commission, Securities and Exchange Commission, 500 North Capitol Street, Washington, DC 20549. Reference should be made to File No. SR–Phlx–81–21.

Copies of the submission, all subsequent amendments, all written statements with respect to the proposed rule change which are filed with the Commission, and of all written communications relating to the proposed rule change between the Commission and any person, other than those which may be withheld from the public in accordance with the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552, will be available for inspection and copying at the Commission's Public Reference Room, 1100 L Street, N.W., Washington, D.C.

The Commission finds that the proposed rule change is consistent with the requirements of the Act and the rules and regulations thereunder applicable to national securities exchanges and in particular, the requirements of section 6 and the rules and regulations thereunder.

The Commission finds good cause for approving the proposed rule change prior to the thirtieth day after the date of publication of notice of filing thereof, in that the proposed rule would put into place a necessary means to assure the financial responsibility of members with leased seats and to enforce a Phlx by-law relating to a contractual right to which members with leased seats have agreed. Accelerated approval also would avoid any delay in implementing this safeguard with respect to new members who utilize leased seats.

It is therefore ordered, pursuant to section 19(b)(2) of the Act, that the proposed rule change referenced above be, and it hereby is, approved.

For the Commission, by the Division of Market Regulation, pursuant to delegated authority.

George A. Fitzsimmons,

Secretary.

BILLING CODE 8010-01-M

[Release No. 12126; 812-4973]

Scudder Government Money Fund; Filing of Application

December 22, 1981.

In the matter of Scudder Government Money Fund (formerly Scudder Cash Investment Trust II), 175 Federal Street, Boston, Massachusetts 02110 (812-4973).

Notice is hereby given that Scudder Government Money Fund ("Applicant"), a no-load, open-end, diversified, management investment company registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("Act"), filed an application on September 17, 1981, and an amendment thereto on November 23, 1981, requesting an order of the Commission, pursuant to section 6(c) of the Act, exempting Applicant from the provisions of section 2(a)(41) of the Act and Rules 2a-4 and 22c-1 thereunder to the extent necessary to permit Applicant to value its portfolio securities according to the amortized cost valuation method, and from the provisions of section 10(b)(2) of the Act. All interested persons are referred to the application on file with the Commission for a statement of the representations contained therein, which are summarized below.

Applicant states that it is a Massachusetts business trust organized on April 4, 1980. It is asserted that Applicant, originally named Scudder Cash Investment Trust II, was created as a "clone" of Scudder Cash Investment Trust ("SCIT"). The application states that, on August 4, 1980, all of the outstanding shares of Applicant, except those shares representing a portion of the initial capital supplied by Scudder, Stevens & Clark, Incorporated, an affiliate of Applicant's investment adviser, Scudder, Stevens & Clark ("SS & C"), were exchanged for shares of SCIT. Also on August 4, 1980, SCIT redeemed all of the shares of Applicant it then held, receiving therefore all of Applicant's assets except unamortized organization expenses.

The application states that on September 14, 1981, Applicant's Trustees and then sole shareholder approved various amendments to its Declaration of Trust, investment objectives and policies, and fundamental policies. Applicant asserts that its investment objectives are to provide safety and liquidity and stability of capital and consistent therewith to provide current income. Applicant represents that it will limit its investments to securities issued or guaranteed by the U.S. Government and repurchase agreements with respect to such obligations. It is further asserted that all of the Fund's "Government Securities" (meaning, for the purposes of this application, securities issued or guaranteed as to principal or interest by the U.S. Government, its agencies or instrumentalities, and repurchase agreements with respect to such securities) will have a stated maturity date of not more than one year from the date of purchase, and that the average dollar-weighted maturity of the Fund's portfolio will vary up to a maximum of 120 days according to management's appraisal of money market conditions. Applicant asserts that it intends to commence operations prior to the issuance of the requested order of exemption. Until such time as the order of exemption is granted, Applicant maintains that it will purchase only instruments having a maturity of sixty days or less, in order that it may use the amoritzed cost method of valuing its investments prior to such issuance.

The application states that Government Securities are generally offered on the basis of a quoted yield to maturity and the market price reflects an adjustment of the obligation's face value so that it will return the quoted rate to the purchaser. Applicant represents that it intends to declare its net income as a dividend to its shareholders on a daily basis and pay it monthly ("net income" for this purpose consisting of all interest income accrued on the portfolio assets of Applicant, less all expenses of Applicant). Applicant further assets that if it values its securities on an amortized cost basis there will be no calculation of unrealized capital gains or losses and because it will declare a daily dividend equal to the daily net income, Applicant's per share net asset value will normally remain at a constant $1.00 amount.

As here pertinent, section 2(a)(41) of the Act defines value to mean (1) with respect to securities for which market quotations are readily available, the market value of such securities, (2) with respect to other securities and assets, fair value as determined in good faith by the board of directors. Rule 22c-1 adopted under the Act provides, in part, that no registered investment company or principal underwriter therefore issuing any redeemable security shall sell, redeem or repurchase any such security except at a price based on the current net asset value of such security which is next computed after receipt of a tender of such security for redemption or of an order to purchase or to sell such security. Rule 2a-4 adopted under the Act provides, as here relevant, that the "current net asset value" of a redeemable security issued by a registered investment company used in computing its price for the purposes of distribution and redemption shall be an amount which reflects calculations made substantially in accordance with the provisions of that rule, with estimates used where necessary or appropriate. Rule 2a-4 further states that portfolio securities with respect to which market quotations are readily available shall be valued at fair value as determined in good faith by the board of directors of the registered company. Prior to the filing of the application, the Commission expressed its view that, among other things: (1) Rule 2a-4 under the Act requires that portfolio instruments of "money market" fund to value its portfolio instruments on an amortized cost basis (Investment Company Act Release No. 9786, May 31, 1977). In view of the foregoing, Applicant requests an exemption from section 2(a)(41) of the Act and Rules 2a–4 and 22c–1 thereunder to the extent necessary to permit Applicant to value its portfolio securities at cost, adjusted for amortization of premium or accretion of discount, subject to the conditions enumerated below.

Applicant represents that it has been management's experience, in connection with other investment companies which it manages, that a significant portion of the investors who are likely to invest in a short-term governmental obligation investment company require a stable net asset value (preferably at $1.00 per share sale, repurchase and redemption price, while at the same time providing shareholders with a steady flow of investment income through daily dividends which reflect Applicant's net income as earned.

The application states that the management of Applicant believes that with respect to Government Securities maturing in 120 days or less there is normally a modest discrepancy between market value and the amortized cost of such securities. Applicant asserts that it therefore believes that the valuation of its portfolio securities on the amortized cost basis will enable it to more effectively maintain its $1.00 price per share while providing shareholders with the opportunity to receive a flow of investment income less subject to fluctuation than under procedures where its daily dividend would be adjusted by all realized and unrealized gains and losses. Finally, Applicant asserts that its Trustees have determined in good faith that, in light of the characteristics of Applicant and, subject to compliance with certain conditions, as stated below, absent unusual or extraordinary circumstances, the amortized cost method of valuing portfolio securities is appropriate and preferable for Applicant and reflects the fair value of such securities.

Applicant represents that if the requested exemptions are granted by the Commission, it agrees to adhere to the following conditions:

1. In supervising Applicant's operations and delegating special responsibilities involving portfolio management to Applicant's investment adviser, Applicant's Trustees undertake—as a particular responsibility within the overall duty of care owed to its shareholders—to establish procedures reasonably designed, taking into account current market conditions and Applicant's investment objectives, to stabilize Applicant's net asset value per share, as computed for the purposes of distribution, redemption and repurchase, at $1.00 per share.

2. Included within the procedures to be adopted by the Trustees shall be the following:

(a) Review by the Trustees, as they deem appropriate and at such intervals as are reasonable in light of current market conditions, to determine the extent of deviation, if any, of the net asset value per share as determined by using available market quotations from Applicant's $1.00 amortized cost price per share, and maintenance of records of such review.[1]

(b) In the event such deviation from the Applicant's $1.00 amortized cost price per share exceeds ½ of 1 percent, a requirement that the Trustees will promptly consider what action, if any, should be initiated by them.

(c) Where the Trustees believe that the extent of any deviation from the Applicant's $1.00 amortized cost price per share may result in material dilution or other unfair results to investors or existing shareholders, they shall take such action as they deem appropriate to eliminate or to reduce to the extent reasonably practicable such dilution or unfair results, which action may include: redemption or shares in kind; the sale of portfolio securities prior to maturity to realize capital gains or losses or to shorten Applicant's average portfolio maturity; withholding dividends; or utilizing a net asset value per share as determined by using available market quotations.

3. Applicant will maintain a dollar-weighted average portfolio maturity appropriate to its objective of maintaining a stable net asset value per share; provided, however, that Applicant will not (a) purchase any instrument with a remaining maturity of greater than one year, or (b) maintain a dollar-weighted average portfolio maturity in excess of 120 days.[2]

4. Applicant will record, maintain, and preserve permanently in an easily accessible place a written copy of the procedures (and any modifications thereto) described in condition 1 above, and Applicant will include in the minutes of Trustees' meetings and will record, maintain and preserve for a period of not less than six years (the first two years in an easily accessible place) a written record of the Trustees' considerations as set forth above. The documents preserved pursuant to this condition shall be set forth above. The documents preserved pursuant to this condition shall be subject to inspection by the Commission in accordance with section 31(b) of the Act as though such documents were records required to be maintained pursuant to rules adopted under section 31(a) of the Act.

5. The Applicant will limit its portfolio investments, including repurchase agreements, to those United States dollar-denominated instruments which the Trustees determine present minimal credit risks, and which are of "high-quality" as determined by any major rating service or, in the case of any instrument that is not rated, of comparable quality as determined by the Trustees.

6. The Applicant will include in each quarterly report, as an attachment to Form N–1Q, a statement as to whether any action pursuant to condition 2(c) above was taken during the preceding fiscal quarter and, if any such action was taken, will describe the nature and the circumstances of such action.

The application states that Applicant has entered into a contract with Scudder Fund Distributors, Inc. ("Distributors"), a wholly-owned subsidiary of SS & C and a registered broker-dealer under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, subject to and in compliance with the applicable provisions of sections 15(b) and (c) of the Act, whereby Distributors will act as the principal underwriter of Applicant in the public offering of its shares of beneficial interest. Such underwriting contract provides, in substance, that no sales load (as defined in section 2(a)(35) of the Act) shall be charged to investors in connection with such distribution.

Applicant seeks an exemption pursuant to section 6(c) of the Act from section 10(b)(2) of the Act which provides in part that no registered investment company shall use as a principal underwriter of securities issued by it any director, officer, or employee of such registered company or any person of which any such director, officer, or employee is an interested person, unless a majority of the board of directors of such registered company shall be persons who are not such principal underwriters or interested persons of any such principal underwriters.

[1] Applicant represents that to fulfill this condition, it intends to use actual quotations or estimates of market value reflecting current market conditions chosen by its Trustees in the exercise of their discretion and believed by them to be appropriate indicators of value. In addition, Applicant states that the quotations or estimates utilized may include, inter alia, (1) quotations or estimates of market value for individual portfolio instruments, or (2) values obtained from yield data relating to classes of government securities published by reputable sources.

[2] In fulfilling this condition, if the disposition of a portfolio instrument results in a dollar-weighted average portfolio maturity in excess of 120 days, Applicant will invest its available cash in such a manner as to reduce the dollar-weighted average portfolio maturity to 120 days or less as soon as reasonably practicable.

Applicant represents that presently forty percent of its Trustees are interested persons of SS & C. It is asserted, nonetheless, that it is intended that Applicant and SS & C shall comply with all provisions of clauses (1) to (8), inclusive, of section 10(d) of the Act, insofar as those provisions are applicable to a registered investment company and to its investment adviser. The application states that Applicant desires that it be permitted to have up to all but one of its Trustees interested persons of its principal underwriter. To that end, Applicant desires an appropriate exemption from section 10(b)(2).

Applicant asserts that it desires to establish a method for wide distribution of its shares and believes that this can best be accomplished through a principal underwriter. Applicant states that it does not want to charge a sales load. It is asserted that Applicant wishes to have the option to be a section 10(d) company and as such would be strictly limited as to sales expenses by section 10(d)(5) of the Act. Applicant represents that under these circumstances only SS & C or a company wholly-owned by SS & C or its partners could afford to undertake the expense of acting as principal underwriter. It is asserted that if the underwriting agreement were made directly between Applicant and SS & C, it is Applicant's understanding that under section 10(d) of the Act no change in the composition of its Trustees would be required notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (a) and subsection (b)(2) of section 10. Applicant maintains that SS & C, for reasons incident to the conduct of its own business, of which its relationship with Applicant is only a part, does not wish to become a principal underwriter.

Applicant anticipates that all of its Trustees who are interested persons of SS & C will also be interested persons of the underwriter, Distributors. Notwithstanding the provisions of section 10(d), it may be that the provisions of section 10(b)(2) would prevent Distributors from acting as principal underwriter of Applicant if less than a majority of the Trustees were interested persons of Distributors and of SS & C, and this application is filed in order that this obstacle may be removed by an exemption under section 6(c) of the Act. Applicant submits that the reasons for permitting an investment company which meets the requirements of section 10(d) to have only one director (trustee) completely independent of the investment adviser are equally persuasive for allowing it to have only one director (trustee) who is not an interested person of a principal underwriter which is wholly-owned by the investment adviser or its partners.

Section 6(c) of the Act provides, in part, that the Commission may upon application, conditionally or unconditionally exempt any person, security or transaction, or any class or classes of persons, securities or transactions, from any of the provisions of the Act or any rule or regulation thereunder, if and to the extent that such exemption is necessary or appropriate in the public interest and consistent with the protection of investors and the purposes fairly intended by the policy and provisions of the Act.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than January 15, 1982, at 5:30 p.m., submit to the Commission in writing a request for a hearing on an application accompanied by a statement as to the nature of his interest, the reason for such request, and the issues, if any, of fact or law proposed to be controverted, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission shall order a hearing thereon. Any such communication should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington, D.C. 20549. A copy of such request shall be served personally or by mail upon Applicant at the address stated above. Proof of such service (by affidavit or, in the case of an attorney-at-law, by certificate) shall be filed contemporaneously with the request. As provided by Rule 0–5 of the Rules and Regulations promulgated under the Act, an order disposing of the application will be issued as of course following said date unless the Commission thereafter order a hearing upon request or upon the Commission's own motion. Persons who request a hearing, or advice as to whether a hearing is ordered, will receive any notices and orders issued in this matter, including the date of the hearing (if ordered) and any postponements thereof.

For the Commission, by the Division of Investment Management, pursuant to delegated authority.

Secretary.

Form S–8—Requirements for Signatures and Accountants' Consents

AGENCY: Securities and Exchange Commission.

ACTION: Discussion of Requirements For Signatures and Accountants' Consents With Regard to Form S–8.

SUMMARY: The Securities and Exchange Commission today issued a release reminding issuers utilizing Form S–8 of the requirements of that form concerning: (1) The filing of written consents by experts (particularly accountants whose opinions are incorporated from Form 10–K); (2) the signatures of certain specified individuals; and (3) certain representations concerning the eligibility of the registrant to use Form S–8.

DATE: December 23, 1981.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Registrants should contact the Branch directly responsible for reviewing the documents they file with the Commission, Division of Corporation Finance, Securities and Exchange Commission, 500 North Capitol Street, Washington, D.C. 20549.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: In an effort to reduce reporting burdens on registrants without reducing the quality of disclosure made to investors, and to reduce staff workload, the Commission in 1980 adopted two series of amendments to Form S–8 (17 CFR 239.16b), the form for registration under the Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. 77a et seq.] of securities to be offered to employees pursuant to certain plans. The first of these series of amendments was adopted on February 22, 1980 [1] and provided a means whereby all filings on Form S–8 would become effective automatically without affirmative action on the part of the Commission or its staff. While this release did not alter the existing signature requirements of Form S–8,[2] it did add the requirement for a certification by all signatories concerning the issuer's eligibility to use the form. On April 2, 1980, the Commission adopted the second series

[1] Release No. 33–6190 (February 22, 1980) [45 FR 13438] (hereinafter the "February 1980 Release").

[2] The instruction presently provides, as it did prior to February 22, 1980, that the registration statement shall be signed by the issuer (and where interests in the plan are being registered, by the plan), their respective principal executive officers, principal financial officers, controllers or principal accounting officers, and by at least the majority of the respective boards of directors or persons performing similar functions.

of amendments to Form S–8[3] which made the disclosure and updating features of Form S–16 (17 CFR 239.27) available to many issuers using Form S–8. More specifically, the amendments allowed updating of the Form S–8 to be accomplished by means of periodic reports, such as Forms 10–K, 11–K, 8–K and 10–Q filed under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act") [15 U.S.C. 78a et seq.], thereby eliminating, in many instances, the necessity of filing a post-effective amendment. A critical element to a registrant's ability to use Exchange Act reports is contained in Item 12 of Form S–8 (Incorporation of Certain Documents by Reference). If any accountant, engineer or other "expert" is named as having prepared or certified any part of the material incorporated by reference, Item 12 requires the written consent of such person to be included in the registration statement (or amendment thereto) unless an express consent to the incorporation by reference is contained in the material incorporated by reference.

In the February 1980 Release, the Commission announced that, while regular staff review of Form S–8's is being eliminated, there will be monitoring of compliance with disclosure requirements, on an audit basis, both prior to and after such filings become effective

The staff of the Division of Corporation Finance has recently completed its first such monitoring effort. The results of such review show a failure of a significant number of registrants filing Form S–8's to comply with the requirements of the form in three distinct areas: (1) Failure to supply the requisite signatures, such as those of officers and a majority of the board of directors; (2) failure to include, as part of the signature sections, the required certifications that the issuer meets all of the requirements for filing on Form S–8; and (3) failure, in subsequent years, to include the requisite written accountants' consent in either an amendment to the registration statement or in the filing being incorporated by reference, such as in the Form 10–K. The Commission considers these to be serious deficiencies and reminds registrants of their statutory obligation to fully comply with the requirements of any form they utilize, whether or not staff review is accorded such forms. Moreover, the Commission notes that the viability of many of its new programs designed to reduce the burdens on registrants depends upon the careful and complete preparation of filed documents by such registrants and their counsel.

By the Commission.

Secretary.

Self-Regulatory Organizations; Proposed Rule Change by Municipal Securities Rulemaking Board Relating to Uniform Practice

Pursuant to section 19(b)(1) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, 15 U.S.C. 78s(b)(1), notice is hereby given that on December 17, 1981, the Municipal Securities Rulemaking Board filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission the proposed rule change as described in Items I, II, and III below, which Items have been prepared by the self-regulatory organization. The Commission is publishing this notice to solicit comments on the proposed rule change from interested persons.

I. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Terms of Substance of the Proposed Rule Change

(a) The Municipal Securities Rulemaking Board ("Board") is filing herewith an amendment (the "proposed amendment") to the proposed rule change to rule G–12 relating to uniform practice contained in File No. SR–MSRB–81–18 (the "proposed rule change"). The proposed rule change, as modified by the proposed amendment, is as follows:

Rule G–12.[1] Uniform Practice

(a) through (d) No change.

(e) Delivery of securities. The following provisions shall, unless otherwise agreed by the parties, govern the delivery of securities:

(i) No change.

(ii) Securities Delivered. All securities delivered on a transaction shall be identical as to the information set forth in subparagraph (E) of paragraph (c)(v) and, to the extent applicable, the information set forth in subparagraphs (A) and (C) of pragraph (c)(vi). All securities delivered shall also be identical as to the ["in whole"] call provisions of such securities.

(iii) through (xvi) No change.

(f) through (l) No change.

[1][Brackets] indicate deletions.

II. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

A. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change.

(a) On November 4, 1981, the Board filed the proposed rule change, which incorporated into the "good delivery" section of the rule certain requirements governing the fungibility for delivery purposes of different issues of municipal securities. The proposed rule change specified that all securities delivered on a transaction had to be identical with respect to certain aspects of the securities description, including the "in whole" call provisions. The purpose of the proposed amendment is to expand this provision to require that the securities delivered must be identical with respect to any applicable call provision, including "in part" calls such as "sinking fund" provisions or extraordinary redemption features.

(b) The proposed amendment and the proposed rule change are adopted pursuant to section 15B(b)(2)(C) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, which requires and empowers the Board to adopt rules > designed * * * to promote just and equitable principles of trade, to foster cooperation and coordination with persons engaged in * * * clearing, settling, processing information with respect to, and facilitating transactions in municipal securities, to remove impediments to and perfect the mechanism of a free and open market in municipal securities, and, in general, to protect investors and the public interest * * *.

The Board believes that the proposed rule change will facilitate clearance and settlement of transactions and help to protect investors by clarifying the standards of good delivery to be used by the municipal securities industry and ensuring that the securities delivered are those contracted for. The Board also believes that the proposed rule change will further the development of automated and book-entry clearance systems for municipal securities transactions, consistent with the objectives of Section 17A of the Act.

B. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Burden on Competition.

The Board believes that the proposed rule change will not impose any burden on competition, inasmuch as it explicitly provides in the rule for standards which are applicable to all inter-dealer deliveries of municipal securities, and which affect all municipal securities dealers equally. To the extent that the proposed rule change fosters the development of more efficient mechanisms for the processing and clearance of municipal securities transactions, the Board is of the view that it will enhance competition between municipal securities brokers and dealers.

C. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of Comments on the Proposed Rule Change Received from Members, Participants, or Others.

The Board neither solicited nor received comments on the proposed rule change from members, participants or others.

III. Date of Effectiveness of the Proposed Rule Change and Timing for Commission Action

Within 35 days of the date of publication of this notice in the Federal Register or within such longer period (i) as the Commission may designate up to 90 days of such date if it finds such longer period to be appropriate and publishes its reasons for so finding or (ii) as to which the self-regulatory organization consents, the Commission will:

(A) By order approve such proposed rule change, or

(B) Institute proceedings to determine whether the proposed rule change should be disapproved.

IV. Solicitation of Comments

Interested persons are invited to submit written data, views and arguments concerning the foregoing. Persons making written submissions should file six copies thereof with the Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 500 North Capitol Street, Washington, D.C. 20549. Copies of the submission, all subsequent amendments, all written statements with respect to the proposed rule change that are filed with the Commission, and all written communications relating to the proposed rule change between the Commission and any person, other than those that may be withheld from the public in accordance with the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552, will be available for inspection and copying in the Commission's Public Reference Section, 1100 L Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. Copies of such filing also will be available for inspection and copying at the principal office of the above-mentioned self-regulatory organization. All submissions should refer to the file number in the caption above and should be submitted by January 20, 1982.

For the Commission by the Division of Market Regulation, pursuant to delegated authority.

Dated: December 23, 1981.

Secretary.

Depository Trust Co.; Self-Regulatory Organizations; Proposed Rule Change

Relating to the inclusion of Trans Canada Options as a Pledgee in The Depository Trust Company. Comments requested on or before January 25, 1982.

Pursuant to Section 19(b)(1) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, 15 U.S.C. 78s(b)(1), notice is hereby given that on December 15, 1981, The Depository Trust Company filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission the proposed rule change as described in Items I, II, and III below, which Items have been prepared by the self-regulatory organization. The Commission is publishing this notice to solicit comments on the proposed rule change from interested persons.

I. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Terms of Substance of the Proposed Rule Change

The proposed rule change authorizes Trans Canada Options Inc. ("TCO") to become a Pledgee in The Depository Trust Company ("DTC"). The proposed rule change would enable a DTC Participant to satisfy its obligations to a TCO Clearing Member by effecting a book-entry movement of securities on deposit with DTC from the Participant's

General or Interim account to the TCO Pledgee account.

II. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

In its filing with the Commission, the self-regulatory organization included statements concerning the purpose of and basis for the proposed rule change and discussed any comments it received on the proposed rule change. The text of these statements may be examined at the places specified in Item IV below. The self-regulatory organization has prepared summaries, set forth in Sections (A), (B), and (C) below, of the most significant aspects of such statements.

(A) Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

The proposed rule change modifies the administration of DTC's options service to enable segregation of securities by book-entry with TCO, which is to become a Pledgee in the DTC system, to satisfy TCO requirements. Participant Operating Procedures are attached as Exhibit 2 to DTC's filing on form 19b–4A, File No. SR–DTC–81–6.

The proposed change carries out the purposes of Section 17A of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 by enabling securities to be segregated by book-entry in connection with TCO requirements without physical movement of securities.

(B) Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Burden on Competition

DTC perceives no impact on competition by reason of the proposed rule change.

(C) Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Comments on the Proposed Rule Change Received from Members, Participants or Others

Comments were not and are not to be solicited from Participants. All Participants have been notified of the proposed rule change by DTC Important Notice, a copy of which is attached (Exhibit 3).

III. Date of Effectiveness of the Proposed Rule Change and Timing for Commission Action

The foregoing rule change has become effective pursuant to Section 19(b)(3) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and subparagraph (e) of Securities Exchange Act Rule 19b–4. At any time within sixty days of the filing of such proposed rule change, the Commission may summarily abrogate such rule change if it appears to the Commission that such action is necessary or appropriate in the public interest, for the protection of investors, or otherwise in furtherance of the purposes of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934.

IV. Solicitation of Comments

Interested persons are invited to submit written data, views and arguments concerning the foregoing. Persons making written submissions should file six copies thereof with the Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 500 North Capitol Street, Washington, D.C. 20549. [Release No. 34-18375; File No. SR-SCCP 81-7]

Stock Clearing Corporation of Philadelphia; Self-Regulatory Organizations; Proposed Rule Change

Relating to Buy-In Rule With Extension Provisions of up to 14 days. Comments requested on or before January 21, 1982.

Pursuant to Section 19(b)(1) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, 15 U.S.C. 78s(b)(1), notice is hereby given that on December 2, 1981, Stock Clearing Corporation of Philadelphia filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission the proposed rule change as described in items I, II, and III below, which Items have been prepared by the self-regulatory organization. The Commission is publishing this notice to solicit comments on the proposed rule change from interested persons.

I. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Terms of Substance of the Proposed Rule Change

Stock Clearing Corporation of Philadelphia (SCCP) proposes to amend its Rule 14, Buy In, as follows (new material italicized, deleted material in brackets):

Rule 14. Stock Clearing Corporation of Philadelphia (SCCP) or a participant of SCCP may demand delivery from [any clearing member] each other of any security which [such clearing member is failing to deliver to Stock Clearing Corportion] is not delivered on or after settlement date, and if such demand to deliver is not complied with, Stock Clearing Corporation or the participant shall have the right to buy in said security. [for the account of the clearing member.]

In the event Stock Clearing Corporation receives a notice of Intention to Buy-In in the form prescribed in the SCCP Procedures, SCCP will have the right to take a seven (7) calendar day extension due to transit or transfer. Upon request, SCCP will furnish certificate numbers to the originator of the buy-in. If the securities are in transfer and due from the transfer agent, and transfer is delayed, SCCP may take an additional seven (7) calendar days.

Should the buy-in received by SCCP be retransmitted to a member who is short the stock to SCCP, SCCP may grant an extension to the member. The member will be required to deliver the physical shares to SCCP in sufficient time prior to execution of the buy-in to permit SCCP to re-deliver the securities to the originator of the buy-in by the final execution date.

The remainder of Rule 14 (Sell Out) is unchanged.

II. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

In its filing with the Commission, the self-regulatory organization included statements concerning the purpose of and basis for the proposed rule change and discussed any comments it received on the proposed rule change. The text of these statements may be examined at the places specified in Item IV below. The self-regulatory organization has prepared summaries, set forth in sections (A), (B), and (C) below, of the most significant aspects of such statements.

A. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

SCCP's existing buy-in rule is limited to the execution of buy-ins against its participants which fail to deliver securities to SCCP. It does not address the situation of SCCP owing securities to its participants or to other clearing corporations through an interface. Since the continuous-net-settlement and depository book entry systems, along with stock loan, have virtually eliminated buy-ins for listed securities, the problems generally occur with Over-the-Counter (OTC) issues in which physical availability is sometimes limited.

Buy-in notices are often received by SCCP against positions that are still outstanding with selling brokers. Under the existing arrangement, SCCP has 24 hours to retransmit the buy-in to the failing participant, obtain the security, and transport it to the originator (most often a clearing corporation with which SCCP maintains an interface). If the security cannot be delivered in the allotted time, and an extension is not granted by the originator, then the selling participant and/or SCCP may suffer a financial loss.

The proposed Buy-In rule provides for an extension of the buy-in execution date for up to a maximum of 14 days. The extension of time would give SCCP and its participants the necessary time to make delivery of securities against buy-ins without incurring a loss.

The proposed rule change is consistent with the requirements of Section 17A(b)(3)(F) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (the Act) in promoting the prompt and accurate clearance and settlement of securities transactions for which SCCP is responsible, and in fostering cooperation and coordination with persons engaged in the clearance and settlement of securities transactions.

B. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Burden on Competition

SCCP does not perceive any impact on competition, negative or positive, resulting from the proposed rule change.

C. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Comments on the Proposed Rule Change

Comments on the proposed rule change have been neither solicited nor received.

III. Date of Effectiveness of the Proposed Rule Change and Timing for Commission Action

On or before February 4, 1982, or within such longer period (i) as the Commission may designate up to 90 days of such date if it finds such longer period to be appropriate and publishes its reasons for so finding or (ii) as to which the self-regulatory organization consents, the Commission will:

(A) by order approve such proposed rule change, or

(B) institute proceedings to determine whether the proposed rule change should be disapproved.

IV. Solicitation of Comments

Interested persons are invited to submit written data, views and arguments concerning the foregoing. Persons making written submission should file six copies thereof with the Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 500 North Capitol Street, Washington, D.C. 20549. Copies of the submission, all subsequent amendments, all written statements with respect to the proposed rule change that are filed with the Commission, and all written communications relating to the proposed rule change between the Commission and any person, other than those that may be withheld from the public in accordance with the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552, will be available for inspection and copying in the Commission's Public Reference Room, 1100 L Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. Copies of such filing will also be available for inspection and copying at the principal office of the above-mentioned self-regulatory organization. All submissions should refer to the file number in the caption above and should be submitted on or before January 21, 1982.

For the Commission by the Division of Market Regulation, pursuant to delegated authority.

Dated: December 24, 1981.

Advisory Circular

FAR Guidance Material

Subject: Airplane System Design Analysis

1. Purpose. This advisory circular provides guidance material for acceptable means, but not the only means, of demonstrating compliance with the requirements of Part 25 of the Federal Aviation Regulations which includes probabilistic terms, as introduced by Amendment 25–23, for airplane equipment, systems, and installations.

2. Reference Regulation. Section 25.1309 of the Federal Aviation Regulations, as amended through Amendment 25–41.

3. Background. a. For a number of years, aircraft systems were evaluated by the Federal Aviation Administration to the "single fault" criteria contained in § 4b.606 of the Civil Air Regulations, recodified and later amended as § 25.1309 of the Federal Aviation Regulations. The term "single fault" was a misnomer because additional cases of the hidden fault and the consequential fault also had to be considered (§ 4b.606–1 of the Civil Aeronautics Manual). With the development of more complex systems and the increasing criticality of those systems, the Federal Aviation Administration revised the rules in 1970 to require consideration of single and multiple faults in the system under study. The consequences of faults in separate systems which perform different functions are also to be considered if the simultaneous loss of functions performed by these systems creates a hazard to the airplane. Because of the growth in airplane system complexity, it is difficult in certain cases to make a responsible engineering judgment regarding the effects of certain system failures based on conventional analysis, tests, and historical data. However, the need for making a valid judgment has increased with the increasing criticality of certain systems.

b. To better understand the effects of complex airplane system failures, it may be desirable to use analytical techniques which can assist in identifying failure conditions and their potential consequences. This advisory circular outlines various methods of analysis, both qualitative and quantitative, which may be used to assist airplane manufacturers and FAA personnel in determining compliance with the referenced regulation and provide guidance for determining when, or if, a particular analysis should be conducted. Numerical values are assigned to the probabilistic terms included in the referenced regulation for use in those cases where the effects of system faults are examined by quantitative methods of analysis.

A finding of compliance with the requirements of FAR 25.1309 is based on the technical judgment of FAA pilots and engineers. The structured methods of analysis described by this advisory circular are intended to assist FAA personnel in finding compliance with the requirements in those cases where a design review cannot readily determine the impact of failures on the safety of the airplane. These analytical tools are intended to supplement, but not replace, the judgment of the FAA certification personnel.

4. Discussion. a. Section 25.1309 of Part 25 of the Federal Aviation Regulations, subsequent to Amendment 25–23, requires substantiation by analysis, and where necessary, by appropriate ground, flight, or simulator tests, that the probability of a failure condition is expected to remain within limits which are related to the consequence of the failure. The requirements in the referenced regulation are intended to assure an orderly and thorough evaluation of single and multiple failures involving one or more systems.

b. Systems should be considered separately and in relation to other systems, and be designed so that the probability of the occurrence of a hazardous failure condition is low. Those failure conditions, including combinations of failures which would prevent the continued safe flight and landing of the airplane, must be shown to be extremely improbable. The occurrence of any failure condition or combination of failure conditions which would reduce the capability of the crew to cope with adverse operating conditions must be shown to be improbable.

c. The probability of the occurrence of a failure condition may be considered within three subdivisions; probable, improbable, and extremely improbable. These subdivisions are considered to overlap due to the inexact nature of probabilities. These three subdivisions may be related to the loss of airplane functions which have increasingly more severe impact on the continued safe flight and landing of the airplane.

Airplane functions may be divided in the following manner:

1. Non-Essential—Functions which could not significantly degrade the capability of the airplane or the ability of the flight crew to cope with adverse operating conditions if accomplished improperly or lost. Failure conditions which result in improper accomplishment or loss of non-essential functions may be probable.

2. Essential. Functions which would reduce the capability of the airplane or the ability of the flight crew to cope with adverse operating conditions if accomplished improperly or lost. Failure conditions which result in improper accomplishment or loss of essential functions must be improbable.

3. Critical. Functions which would prevent the continued safe flight and landing of the airplane if not properly accomplished. Failure conditions which result in improper accomplishment or loss of critical functions must be extremely improbable.

d. In order to show compliance with FAR 25.1309(b), FAR 25.1309(d) requires an analysis which should consider:

1. Possible modes of failure, including malfunctions and damage from external sources.

2. The probability of multiple failures and undetected faults.

3. The resulting effects on the airplane and occupants, considering the stage of flight and operating conditions, and

4. The crew warning cues, corrective action required, and the capability of detecting faults.

An analysis may be qualitative or quantitative and may range from a simple report which interprets test results or presents a comparison between two similar systems to a fault/failure analysis which may (or may not) include numerical probability data. An analysis may make use of previous service experience from comparable installations in other airplanes.

The depth of this analysis will vary, depending on the design complexity and type of functions performed by the system being analyzed. Section 6 of this advisory circular provides an outline of various analytical techniques and guidelines for determining when each must be used.

5. Terms. For the purpose of conducting or evaluating an analysis, the following terms and numerical values should apply:

a. Component. The term "component" is used in this advisory circular to denote any level of hardware assembly; i.e., system, subsystem, unit or part.

b. Continued Safe Flight and Landing. This phase is used in the regulation to require that an airplane be capable of continued controlled flight, possibly using emergency procedures and without exceptional pilot skill or strength, after any failure condition which has not been shown to be extremely improbable. There may be failure conditions which are not extremely improbable for which it is necessary to assure that continued safe flight and landing is possible. For these failure conditions a flight demonstration by the applicant in an airplane or satisfactory flight simulator of the worst case failure conditions identified by the analysis may be necessary. After the demonstration of controlled flight for an indefinite period which is long enough to insure that all of the consequences of the failure condition have been experienced, the capability of accomplishing a safe landing on an airport must be demonstrated.

c. Deductive. The term used to describe those analytical approaches involving the reasoning from a defined unwanted event or premise to the causative factors of that event or premise by means of a logical methodology (the "top-down" or "how could it happen" approach). A deductive approach will assume the system has failed in a certain way and attempt to determine what failure modes of components will contribute to this failure.

d. Error. A mistake, which when present in a system design, causes the system to function in a manner different from what the user reasonably expects it to do.

e. Event. An occurrence which causes a change of state.

f. Exposure Time. The period (in clock time or cycles) during which a system, subsystem, unit or part is exposed to failure, measured from when it was last verified functioning to when it is verified again.

g. Failure. The inability of a system, subsystem, unit or part to perform within previously specified limits. Note that some failures may have no effect on the capability of the airplane and therefore are not failure conditions.

h. Failure Analysis. The logical, systematic examination of a system, subsystem, unit or part, to identify and analyze the probability, causes, and consequences of potential and real failures.

i. Failure Condition. Any combination of events, faults, errors, or expected environmental conditions that result in a reduction in the capability of the airplane, a reduction in the ability of the crew to cope with adverse operating conditions, or which would prevent continued safe flight and landing.

j. Failure Effect(s). The consequence(s) of a failure mode on the system, subsystem, unit or part's operation, function, or status.

k. Failure Mode. The manner in which a system, subsystem, unit, part or function can fail.

l. Fault. An undesired anomaly in the functional operation of a system, subsystem, unit or part.

m. Fault Tree. A fault tree is a graphic representation of the various parallel and series combinations of subsystem and component failures which can result in a specified system fault. The fault tree, when fully developed, may be mathematically evaluated to establish the probability of the ultimate undesired event occurring as a function of the estimated probabilities of identifiable contributory events.

n. Flight Time. The time from the moment the aircraft first moves under its own power for the purpose of flight until the moment it comes to rest at the next point of landing.

o. Frequency of Occurrence. The probability expressed as a fraction from zero (event never occurs) to one (event always occurs), that a particular event will occur within a specified period. Three probability classifications are given below and are defined in quantitative as well as qualitative terms for use with the various types of analytical techniques listed in Section 6 of this advisory circular:

1. Probable. A frequency of occurrence in an order of 1.0×10^{-5} or greater per hour of flight time. Probable events may be expected during the operational life of each airplane.

2. Improbable. A frequency of occurrence in the range from approximately 1.0×10^{-5} to 1.0×10^{-9} per hour of flight time. Improbable events are not expected to occur during the total operational life of a single airplane of a particular type, but are expected to occur during the total operational life of all airplanes of a particular type.

3. Extremely Improbable. A frequency of occurrence on the order of 1.0×10^{-9} or less per hour of flight time. Extremely improbable events are so unlikely that for the purpose of analysis they need not be considered, unless engineering judgment would require their consideration.

Notes.—(a) If appropriate, the calculation of probabilities of failure conditions for systems which are used only at specific times during flight such as takeoff or landing should be done on an event basis; i.e., per takeoff or per landing. However, the quantitative analysis of equipment which is required for a particular type of flight condition for which the airplane is approved may not take credit for the fact that the flight condition does not always exist. For example, the analysis of airplanes approved for flight at night may not take credit for the fact that hours of darkness are only experienced 50 percent of the time. The probability of the existence of the particular flight condition for which the airplane is approved should be assumed to be one for purposes of quantitative analysis. (b) The three probability terms defined in paragraph 5o above are intended to relate to the effects on the airplane resulting from the loss of a function or functions. These terms do not define the reliability of specific components or systems. (c) The range of numerical values assigned to each of the terms is intended to minimize differences in the interpretation of what these terms mean when used in § 25.1309 of the Federal Aviation Regulations. It is important to realize that these terms and others such as "reliable," "unlikely," and "remote" are used throughout the Federal Aviation Regulations. In many cases, these other terms were used prior to Amendment 25–23. Careful judgment is necessary when interpreting the intent of any regulation using such terms. In all cases, the effect of the given failure conditions should be considered.

p. Function. Each special purpose performed by a system, subsystem, unit or part.

q. Inductive. The term used to describe those analytical approaches involving the systematic evaluation of the defined parts or elements of a given system or subsystem to determine specific characteristics of interest (the "bottom-up," or "what happens if" approach). An inductive approach will assume a component condition or initiating event and attempt to determine the corresponding effect on the overall system.

r. Latent Failure. A failure that is not inherently revealed at the time it occurs.

s. Qualitative. The term used to describe those analytical approaches which are oriented toward relative, nonmeasurable and subjective values.

t. Quantitative. The term used to describe those analytical approaches which are oriented toward the use of numbers or symbols used to express a measurable quantity.

u. Redundancy. The existence of more than one means of accomplishing a given function where all means must fail before there is an overall failure of the function.

v. Reliability. The probability that a system, subsystem, unit or part will perform its intended function for a specified interval under stated operational and environmental conditions.

6. Analytical Techniques. a. The first step in determining compliance with FAR 25.1309(b) should be to determine the criticality of the system or installation to be certificated. This analysis may be conducted using service experience, engineering, or operational judgment, or by using a top-down deductive qualitative analysis which examines each function performed by the system. The analysis should determine the criticality of each system function, i.e., either non-essential, essential, or critical. Each system function should be analyzed with respect to functions performed by other aircraft systems. This is necessary because the loss of different but related functions provided by separate systems may affect the criticality category assigned to a particular system.

This type of analysis, variously referred to as a preliminary hazard analysis, criticality categorization, or criticality assessment may contain a high level of detail in some cases, such as for an integrated electronic flight instrument system. However, many installations may only need an informal review of the system design by the applicant for the benefit of the FAA certification personnel to determine the criticality of the functions performed by the system. For example, passenger entertainment systems usually will be categorized as performing non-essential functions with little or no formal evaluation of the system design.

The purpose of the preliminary hazard analysis is to identify the critical and essential functions and the systems which must operate properly to accomplish these functions. Once the criticality of a system has been established, the additional analytical techniques which might be useful in determining compliance with FAR 25.1309(b) are more easily identified.

b. Analysis of systems which perform non-essential functions. Although a preliminary hazard analysis has been accomplished, and it has been determined that a particular system performs only non-essential functions, this is not sufficient for demonstrating compliance with the requirements of FAR 25.1309(b). It is also necessary to determine if failures of the system could adversely affect the accomplishment of any essential or critical function.

In general, the installation of a non-essential system should be accomplished in a manner which insures its independence and siolation from other systems in the airplane which perform critical or essential functions. If a review of the design based on good engineering judgment determines that system faults cannot affect essential or critical functions, then no further analysis is necessary. If the installation does not have satisfactory isolation from systems which perform essential or critical functions, or if the system complexity is such that a design review alone cannot adequately establish that such isolation has been achieved, then the system may have to be analyzed using more rigorous methods, some of which are described in paragraphs 6c and 6d, below.

Special care must be taken with systems that perform non-essential functions which provide information for use by the flight crew, such as engine performance data systems. Systems of this type, which are not required by regulation and also are non-essential, may have hazardous failure modes which provide misleading information to the flight crew without warning. These systems may have to be analyzed as a system which performs an essential function.

Typically, systems such as galleys, position lights, public address systems, and interior cabin lights, to name a few, should be certificated based on a design review alone without the need of a formal failure analysis. Note that some systems required by regulation may be found to perform non-essential functions using the criteria of this advisory circular.

c. Analysis of systems which perform essential functions. The analysis necessary for systems which perform essential functions, as determined from the preliminary hazard analysis, is a variable controlled by the dependence of other systems on the system under analysis. If there is little or no interdependence, it is only necessary to show that the failure of the system to satisfactorily perform its function is improbable. Satisfactory service history of the equipment under analysis or similar units will be acceptable for showing compliance. Compliance may also be shown by a quantitative reliability analysis using MIL–STD–217C or component failure rate data gathered by the equipment manufacturer. For quantitative analysis, improbable is taken to be in range from 1.0×10^{-5} to 1.0×10^{-9} occurrences per hour of flight time. An acceptable frequency of occurrence should be agreed upon with the FAA for a particular system.

Many units which perform essential functions have dual or greater redundancy. It is essential that redundant systems meet the required frequency of occurrence criteria. For example, if the criteria for a dual redundant system is a frequency of occurrence of 1×10^{-6} per hour of flight, then the acceptable frequency of occurrence for each system should be 1×10^{-3} or less. If redundancy exists and there is some evidence to indicate satisfactory reliability of the components of the system, no further analysis is necessary. An example of an essential system which would not require additional analysis is a dual compass system whose components have demonstrated acceptable reliability. For complex systems, a failure modes and effects analysis may be necessary to verify that the redundancy actually exists, and to show that the failure modes of the system do not have an adverse effect on other essential or critical functions. A complete quantitative safety analysis will not usually be necessary.

If failure modes are found to exist which can adversely affect essential or critical functions, these failure modes should be shown to be improbable or extremely improbable, as appropriate, using the safety analysis technique described by paragraph 6d below. However, single failure modes will not usually be accepted as being extremely improbable.

d. Analysis for systems which perform critical functions. A quantitative safety analysis will generally be necessary for each critical function identified by the preliminary hazard analysis. Inability to satisfactorily perform critical functions should be extremely improbable. For purposes of quantitative analysis, extremely improbable is taken to mean frequencies of occurrence on the order of 1.0×10^{-9} per hour of flight and less. This safety analysis may consist of the following:

1. Fault Tree. A top down deductive analysis identifying the conditions necessary to cause the loss of the critical function.

2. Failure Modes and Effects Analysis. An inductive bottom up analysis which determines what happens to the system upon single failures of its individual components. These failure modes are used as the bottom level events of the fault tree.

3. Reliability Study. Determines the probability of the single faults used as bottom level events of the fault tree from component failure rate data and exposure times to both active and latent failures. The probability of all event conditions in the fault tree will then be calculated from this data. The fact that maintenance of flight crew checks will be performed throughout the life of the system is relevant to quantitative analysis. When exposure times relevant to failure probability calculations are affected by flight crew checks or inspection intervals, these time intervals should be clearly specified in appropriate documents.

The U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission published NUREG–0492 in January 1981 titled "Fault Tree Handbook." This document describes in detail the procedures necessary to construct a fault tree and analyze the reliability of a complex system in a quantitative manner. The format of quantitative analyses which use NUREG–0492 as a guide will be acceptable to the FAA. Copies of this document can be obtained from the National Technical Information Service, or from:

GPO Sales, Division of Technical Information and Document Control, U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission, Washington, D.C. 20555.

The most often encountered difficulty with quantitative analyses presented to the FAA has been the improper treatment of events which are not mutually independent. The probability of occurrence of two events which are mutually independent may be multiplied to obtain the probability that both events occur using the formula:

$$P(A \text{ and } B) = P(A)P(B).$$

This multiplication will produce an incorrect solution if A and B are not mutually independent. Often a quantitative analysis will be defective because a single failure will be included as a primary event at more than one location and then improperly combined with itself in computing the probability of the top event of a fault tree. This problem and others which are typically encountered in a quantitative analysis based on a fault tree are clearly explained in NUREG–0492.

For very simple installations, it may be possible to successfully analyze a critical function without using the detailed formal procedures outlined above. In general, the simultaneous failure of two reliable independent systems, each of which has dual redundancy, is expected to be extremely improbable. However, the difficulty is to establish that the two systems are actually independent. Systems may have common failure modes such as loss of electrical power or cooling air which would cause their simultaneous failure.

Some systems which perform critical functions that have been identified on various transport category airplanes are listed below. This list is only to provide a guide as to the types of functions which may be critical. Each airplane model must be examined to determine what functions are critical.

Examples of systems which perform critical functions:

1. The primary flight control system.

2. Hydraulic power for airplanes with powered flight control systems and no manual revision.

3. Secondary flight control systems if failure of these systems can result in uncontrolled flight.

4. Engine control system elements that affect all engines simultaneously.

5. Critical digital systems which are used separately, but which have identical firmware/software, where a common design error could lead to simultaneous failure conditions.

6. For airplanes certificated for flight in IFR conditions, the total systems and displays which provide the flight crew with any of the following:

(a) Attitude Information

(b) Altitude Information

(c) Airspeed Information

7. Automatic landing system for use in low visibility landings.

e. The analytical techniques outlined in this section have been used successfully in determining compliance with the requirements of FAR 25.1309(b). Other comparable techniques exist and may be proposed by an applicant for use in any certification program. However, these methods should be proposed to the FAA certificating office early in the program. Early agreement between the applicant and the Federal Aviation Administration should be reached on the methods of analysis to be used, identification of critical functions, and assumptions to be used in the acceptance of the proposed analysis.

f. The analysis should be clearly documented. All assumptions, sources of reliability data, failure rates, system functional type (critical, non-essential, essential), etc. should be concisely documented for ease of review. To the extent feasible, the analysis should be self-contained.

7. Recommendation. The purpose and intent of this advisory circular is to provide guidance. Terms and methods of analysis which may be utilized in demonstrating compliance with FAR § 25.1309 are included. If additional explanation or discussion is desired, contact the Office of Airworthiness, Aircraft Engineering Division, Systems Branch, AWS–130, 800 Independence Avenue SW., Washington, D.C. 20591, or phone 202–426–8395.

Approval of Incorporations by Reference

AGENCY: Office of the Federal Register.

ACTION: Approval of incorporations by reference and corrections.

SUMMARY: The Office of the Federal Register publishes a document listing materials that have been approved by the Director for incorporation by reference. The document also corrects a previously published listing.These references appear in Titles 7 through 16 and 46 of the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR). This document is published to inform the public of materials that have the Director's approval and have the same legal status as if they were published in full text in the Federal Register.

EFFECTIVE DATE: The Director approves the following incorporations by reference for one year effective January 1, 1982, unless otherwise noted.

ADDRESSES: For specific addresses where materials are available, see table. Materials are also on file at the Office of the Federal Register, 1100 L Street, NW, Washington, DC.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Joan F. Montgomery, (202) 523–4534.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background. Each agency that wishes material incorporated by reference to remain effective must annually submit to the Director a list of that material and the date of its last revision (1 CFR 51.13). The materials included on the table below are incorporated by reference under 5 U.S.C. 552(a) and 1 CFR Part 51. These procedures provide that material approved for incorporation by reference by the Director of the Federal Register has the same legal status as if it were published in full text in the Federal Register.

Availability. Before an agency may incorporate by reference any material, it must make the material reasonably available to the class of persons affected by it. Agencies have listed addresses where you can obtain each item included in the table. The materials approved for incorporation by reference are also available for inspection and copying at the Office of the Federal Register, Room 8401, 1100 L St., NW, Washington, DC, phone (202) 523–5240.

Amendments. If the agency wishes to amend material before the annual approval expires, the agency shall publish a notice which announces the amendment and states where the material may be obtained. The agency shall also assure that the material and its amendments are available to the public and on file at the Office of the Federal Register. Unless the agency follows these procedures, the amendments are not approved.

Quarterly Publication. The titles of the CFR are generally revised according to the following schedule:

Title 1 through Title 16—as of January 1.

Title 17 through Title 27—as of April 1.

Title 28 through Title 41—as of July 1.

Title 42 through Title 50—as of October 1.

Every quarter, the Office of the Federal Register publishes a document on incorporation by reference. This quarterly document contains the following information on incorporation by reference. First, it contains a table of materials in the applicable titles that have been reapproved for incorporation by reference under 1 CFR 51.13. Second, the document contains a listing of any materials which were granted extensions under 1 CFR 51.13 review in the last quarter and have since received final approval by the Director of the Federal Register. And third, the document may contain corrections to previously published incorporation by reference approval documents.

Material which is approved in a timely fashion during the quarterly review process is also listed in the appropriate Code of Federal Regulations volume(s).

How the Table is Arranged. The table is arranged first by headings indicating the CFR title and chapter and the name of the agency incorporating the material. Under each of these headings are listed the name of the standards producing organization, a description of the material being incorporated and where it is available, and the CFR part or section where the material is referenced.

Problems. If you have any problems obtaining the material, notify the agency. If you find the material is not available, notify the Director of the Federal Register (NARS), Washington, DC 20408 or call (202) 523–4534.

John E. Byrne,

Director of the Federal Register.

Privacy Act of 1974; Amendment to Appendices; Annual Publication

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

Office of the Secretary

15 CFR Part 4b

Amendments to Appendices of Privacy Act Rules

AGENCY: Office of the Secretary, Commerce.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Department of Commerce revised Appendices A and B to its Privacy Act Rules (15 CFR 4b.14) which lists Department officials to whom individuals should address requests and appeals.

EFFECTIVE DATE: December 31, 1981.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Marilyn S. McLennan, U.S. Department of Commerce, Office of Organization and Management Systems, Washington, D.C. 20230, telephone 202–377–4217.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Appendix A is revised to reflect organizational changes such as the position title of a Departmental official, and the transfer of the Maritime Administration from the Department of Commerce to the Department of Transportation pursuant to the Maritime Act of 1981 (Pub. L. 97–31). The only revision to Appendix B is the elimination of reference to the Maritime Administration. Appendix A entitled "Officials to Receive Inquiries, Requests for Access and Requests for Correction or Amendment,":

i. Changes the title of the Privacy Officer for the Bureau of Economic Analysis from "Chief, Planning and Evaluation Officer" to "Chief, Management and Organization Branch."

ii. Changes the title of the Privacy Officer for National Bureau of Standards from "Deputy Director for Information Services" to "Deputy Director of Administration."

iii. Changes the designated Privacy Officer of the Patent and Trademark Office from "Assistant Commissioner for Administration" to "Solicitor."

The Maritime Administration, formerly a component of the Department of Commerce, is now part of the Department of Transportation, and its Privacy Act records are controlled by the Department of Transportation. Accordingly, the reference to the Maritime Administration Privacy Officer is deleted in Appendix A. In Appendix B, "Officials to Receive Appeals from Adverse Determination on Correction or Amendment," the reference to the Maritime Administration Privacy Appeals Officer is deleted for the reasons given above.

There are no other changes to Appendix B.

PART 4b—PRIVACY ACT

The provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U.S.C. 553) requiring notice of proposed rulemaking, opportunity for public participation, and delay in effective date do not apply since these revisions of Appendices A and B pertain solely to internal agency management. This regulation is not significant under Executive Order 12291, "Federal Regulations." Accordingly, Appendices A and B to Part 4b of Title 15 of the Code of Federal Regulations are revised to read as follows:

Appendix I—Proposed Changes to Commerce Department Systems of Records for Which Public Comment Is Invited

Simultaneous with the republication of Commerce Department systems of records, the Department submitted to the Federal Register, a proposed new system of records, and a proposed revision of three existing systems of records. These proposed revisions are listed below to help the reader in identifying the material on which public comment is invited. These revisions have been incorporated in the text of the republished systems.

1. Add a system of records entitled COMMERCE/DEPT—11, Candidates for Membership, Members and Former Members of Department of Commerce Advisory Committees.

The proposed new system describes records maintained on persons recommended for membership, members, and former members of the Department's advisory committees. The purpose of the system is to enable the Department to more effectively select qualified candidates for membership on these advisory committees and fill vacant memberships in a timely manner. Advisory committees are established to obtain advice or recommendations for the Department from members of the public who have expertise in certain topics or represent various points of view on matters of policy.

As required by the Privacy Act, the Department of Commerce has simultaneously submitted a New System Report to the Congress and the Office of Management and Budget. This system of records will become effective 60 days from the date of the New Systems Report unless the Department notices to the contrary.

The proposed new system is as follows:

COMMERCE/DEPT—11

System Name:

Candidates for Membership, Members, and Former Members of Department of Commerce Advisory Committees.

System Location:

Office of the Secretary, Room 5716, U.S. Department of Commerce, Washington, D.C. 20230.

Categories of Individuals Covered by the System:

Individuals recommended for membership on advisory committees, current members and former members of advisory committees.

Categories of records in the system:

Résumé information: name, home address, business address, educational and employment histories, awards and honors received, age, date of birth, and other biographical information; records of appointment, expiration of the appointment, and correspondence including letters of recommendation.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Paper hard copy, diskettes for use on word processing equipment.

Retrievability:

Data is filed by committee. An alphabetical card file index of candidates, members, and former members' names is used to retrieve data. This index is also on diskette to retrieve information on word processing equipment.

Safeguards:

Records are located in a locked office. Paper records and diskettes are in locked file cabinets. Access to data on the word processor is by password.

Retention and disposal:

Records will be maintained indefinitely.

System manager(s) and address:

Confidential Assistant, Office of the Secretary, Room 5716, U.S. Department of Commerce, Washington, D.C. 20230.

Notification Procedure:

Information may be obtained from: Director, Office of Organization and Management Systems, O/S, U.S. Department of Commerce, Washington, D.C. 20230. Requestor should provide name and address, pursuant to the Department's rules which appear in 15 CFR Part 4b.

Record access procedures:

Requests from individuals should be addressed to: the address listed in the notification section above.

Contesting records procedures:

The Department's rules for access, for contesting contents, and appealing initial determinations by the individual appear in 15 CFR Part 4b. Use the address given in the notification section above.

Record source categories:

Individual candidate or member, persons recommending candidates and those authorized by the individual to provide information.

2. Revise COMMERCE/DEPT–1, Attendance, Leave, and Payroll Records of Employees and Certain Other Persons, to include:

(a) Type of account information (checking or savings) that employees are required to supply when requesting direct deposits of pay to financial institutions. This change is to comply with a Treasury Department memorandum of July 29, 1979, concerning electronic fund transfers. The additional information is needed to assure that pay is deposited to the appropriate account.

(b) Revision is also made to the routine uses paragraph of the system to allow allotment of pay for the purposes of making alimony and child support payments. This change is required by 5 CFR 550.371.

A minor revision is also made to the reference to the Prefatory Statement of General Routine Uses; the reference to routine use concerning disclosure of medical records to an employee's physician is deleted since the files do not contain medical information. The new text is shown is solid capitals.

(a) Categories of records in the system: Name, date of birth, social security number and employee number, service computation date, grade, step, and salary, organization (code) retirement or FICA data as applicable; Federal, state and local tax deductions, as appropriate; IRS tax lien data; savings bond and charity deductions; regular and optional Government life insurance deduction(s), health insurance deduction and plan or code; cash award data; jury duty data; military leave data; pay differentials; union dues deductions; allotments, by type and amount; financial institution code and employee account number; TYPE OF ACCOUNT; leave status and leave data of all types (including annual, compensatory, jury duty, maternity, military, retirement disability, sick, transferred, absence without leave, and without pay); time and attendance records, including number of regular, overtime, holiday, Sunday, and other hours worked; pay period number and ending date; cost of living allowances; mailing address; co-owner and/or beneficiary of bonds, marital status and number of dependents; and "Notification of Personnel Action". The individual records listed herein are included only as pertinent or applicable to the individual employee.

(b) Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purpose of such uses: Transmittal of data to U.S. Treasury and employee-designated financial institutions to effect issuance of paycheck to employees and distribution of pay according to employee directions for savings bonds, allotments, ALIMONY, CHILD SUPPORT, and other authorized purposes.

3. Revise the categories of records and routine use sections of the COMMERCE/DEPT–18 system, Employees Personnel Files Not Covered by Notices of Other Agencies.

In the categories of records paragraph the changes are to show Department of State and the Department of Labor as agencies which influence personnel management in the Department. The Department of State is added as a result of the Foreign Service Act of 1980 which makes the Commerce Department an agency with responsibilities for Foreign Service Personnel. The Department of Labor is added because its systems do not cover the preliminary files on work-related injuries and illness claims prepared and maintained by the Commerce Department before submission to the Department of Labor. The proposed change to the routine use paragraph provides for submission of information to the Department of State as a result of the Foreign Service Act of 1980 and Department of Commerce compliance with State Department regulations concerning Foreign Service Personnel and submission of work-related injury or illness claims to the Department of Labor. A reference to retirement records is added for the purpose of clarity.

The categories of records section would read (new text in solid capitals):

Categories of records in the system: All personnel records in the Department which are subject to the Privacy Act but are not covered in the notices of systems of records published by OTHER AGENCIES WITH INFLUENCE UPON PERSONNEL MANAGEMENT IN THE DEPARTMENT, SUCH AS THE OFFICE OF PERSONNEL MANAGEMENT, MERIT SYSTEMS PROTECTION BOARD, EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY COMMISSION, DEPARTMENT OF STATE OR DEPARTMENT OF LABOR. The records of this system may include, but are not limited to: Employee Development; Incentive Awards; Employee Relations; Grievance Records; Medical; WORK-RELATED INJURY OR ILLNESS

CLAIMS; grievance records; medical; Career Management Program; Ship Personnel; Employee Overseas Assignments; Minority Group Statistics Program; Work Performance and Appraisal Records; including supervisory records which have been disclosed; Re-Employment and Priority Placement Programs; Executive Assignments and Merit Pay Actions; Merit Assignment Programs; RETIREMENTS; Within-Grade Denials (Reconsideration File); and, Automated Employee Information System.

The routine use section would read (new text in solid capitals): Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: "* * *"

c. To disclose information to officials of the Office of Personnel Management, Merit Systems Protection Board, including the Office of the Special Counsel, the Federal Labor Relations Authority and its General Counsel, or the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, AND THE DEPARTMENT OF STATE OR THE DEPARTMENT OF LABOR, when requested in performance of their authorized duties.

4. Revise the COMMERCE/NTIS–1 system, Individuals Interested in NTIS Publications, Shipped Order Addresses, Customer Account Records, and Subscriber Files. The proposed amendment reflects a change in the computer system used to maintain automated records in this system.

The change reflects the use of in-house computer terminals to access information existing in automated files. This information has been available previously only in computer printout reports to the staff of NTIS. Terminals enable the staff to maintain information on new orders, status of deposit accounts, and other order information on a more timely and accurate basis. The use of the terminals is restricted to employees who have need to access the information for the performance of their duties, and does not give access to information to any other agency or component of the Department. There is no change in the nature of personal data maintained in the system nor any increase in the routine uses of the records. The number of routine uses has been reduced as part of an effort to limit routine uses to those which are most relevant to the information being maintained.

The new safeguards section will read as follows (new text in solid capitals):

Safeguards: Records are located in lockable metal file cabinets or in metal tape vaults in secured rooms or premises with access limited to those whose official duties require access. THE DATA CAN ALSO BE OBTAINED AT IN-HOUSE COMPUTER TERMINALS USED BY THOSE WHOSE OFFICIAL NTIS DUTIES REQUIRE ACCESS. Also see general routine uses #4, #5, and #9 AND #13 of the Prefatory Statement.

Although this change may not technically warrant a new systems report as defined by the Office of Management and Budget Circular No. A–108, it was felt that because the change reflects an increased access to the records a report should be submitted simultaneously with the republication of Commerce Department systems of records. The revised system of records will become effective 60 days from the date of the new system report unless the Department advises to the contrary.

Minor changes are also made to the categories of individuals section to improve clarity, to the routine use section to delete inappropriate routine uses, and to the systems location and system manager's sections to reflect a reorganization.

Appendix II—Changes to Department of Commerce Systems of Records Not Requiring Public Comment.

(1) The Maritime Administration, pursuant to the Maritime Act of 1981 (Pub. L. 97–31), has been transferred to the Department of Transportation. Control of the Privacy Act records of the Maritime Administration which were referenced in the December 12, 1980 republication are no longer Department of Commerce systems of records.

(2) Changes have been made to the routine use sections of most systems of records. References to the Prefatory Statement of General Routine Uses are now made to the specific numbered paragraphs of the Prefatory Statement which relate to the types of information in the system. In no instance has the application of the General Routine Uses been expanded. The changes are made only to clarify which uses are applicable to the records in the system.

(3) Minor changes are made throughout the document to reflect changes in position titles, addresses, and to update or correct executive order and statutory authority citations.

(4) To clarify responsibility for systems management, the Office of Information Management (OIM) has been deleted as a systems location for

COMMERCE/DEPT–1, Attendance, Leave and Payroll Records of Employees and Certain Other Persons
COMMERCE/DEPT–2, Accounts Receivable
COMMERCE/DEPT–9, Travel Records (Domestic and Foreign) of Employees and Certain Other Persons
COMMERCE/DEPT–17, Records of Cash Receipts

This office is a service organization which maintains automated records. It acts on the instructions of the system manager in performing records maintenance functions. Its deletion as a systems location does not affect the ability of the public to have access to the records as OIM has not been referenced as a system manager nor as a place for the public to obtain notification information. Its location is the same as the location for manual records—the Main Commerce Building, 14th and Constitution Avenue, Washington, D.C. 20230.

(5) COMMERCE/DEPT–5 system, Freedom of Information and Privacy Act Request Records have been revised by expanding coverage to the Economic Development Administration. Request records in this Department component are now retrievable by name.

(6) The COMMERCE/DEPT–11 system, Work Schedule Study Interview Records, is deleted as all individually identifiable records have been destroyed. Raw data which does not contain any individual identifiers has been donated by the study contractor to the Henry A. Murray Research Center of Radcliffe College in Cambridge, Massachusetts. The number, COMMERCE/DEPT–11, is reassigned to a proposed new system, Candidates for Membership, Members, and Former Members of Department of Commerce Advisory Committees.

(7) COMMERCE/DEPT–13 system, Investigative and Security Records, revision has been made to the categories of individuals sections of the system to indicate that only records prior to May 9, 1980 are maintained for principal officers and some employees of organizations, firms, or institutitons which received or applied for grants, loans, or loan guarantees from the Department. Prior to that date the Office of Investigations and Security had performed name checks on these individuals. This function was transferred to the Office of the Inspector General as part of that office's responsibility under the Inspector General Act of 1978, for promoting economy and efficiency in the Department's programs and preventing and detecting fraud and abuse. The existing system COMMERCE/DEPT–12, Investigative and Inspection Records contains language which covers this category of individuals.

(8) The storage section of COMMERCE/DEPT–16 system, Property Accountability Files, has been revised to add reference to machine-readable records which was omitted in last year's republication. The change was noticed in 44 FR 76665, and a New System Report was submitted to Congress and the Office of Management and Budget.

(9) The categories of individuals section of COMMERCE/CENSUS–3 system, Individual and Household Statistical Surveys and Special Studies Records is revised for clarification.

(10) COMMERCE/ITA–5 system, Executive Reserve Personnel Folders, is revised to show the use of word processing equipment to store and retrieve information.

(11) Revisions are made to the system, COMMERCE/ITA–6, Foreign Service Officers Evaluations, to clarify the categories of individuals, routine uses, and retention and disposal sections of this system, and to reflect increased Department responsibilities concerning Foreign Service personnel as a result of the Foreign Service Act of 1980.

(12) The storage section of the COMMERCE/NBS–4 system, Employees External Radiation Exposure Records, is revised. The Health Physics Branch of the Occupational Health and Safety Division of the National Bureau of Standards is planning to use the existing minicomputer capabilities in the Branch to maintain current records of employees who may be exposed to radiation on the job. This plan concerns only the Health Physics Branch Records. The minicomputer does not have a telecommunications capability which could increase the risk of unauthorized access. The minicomputer is not connected to terminals in other components of NBS, the Department, or other agencies. Access to the computer is by password and is restricted to the personnel of the Health Physics Branch. This change to automated storage does not meet the criteria for submission of a New Systems Report.

(13) COMMERCE/NOAA–11, NOAA Mailing Lists, has been revised by adding the National Earth Satellite Service as a systems location.

(14) COMMERCE/NOAA–12, Marine Mammals, Endangered and Threatened Species, Permits and Exemptions Applicants, has been revised to indicate that permit or exemption numbers are used to retrieve information.

(15) The storage section of COMMERCE/NTIA–1 system, Radio Spectrum Management Career Development Program, is revised to delete a reference to machine-readable magnetic discs.

(16) In the COMMERCE/NTIS–2 system, Employee Daily Time and Productivity Records, revision is made deleting routine uses. Use of the records is limited to internal financial accounting purposes.

(17) Revision is made to COMMERCE/PAT–TM–7 system, Patent Application Files to clarify the routine use section: no changes of substance are made.

(18) COMMERCE/PAT–TM–9 system, Patent Assignment Records has been revised to show patent number as an item used to retrieve a record.

Appendix III—Changes to Systems of Records Noticed in the Federal Register Since December 12, 1980 and Prior to the Date of This Notice and Federal Register Citation of Previously Issued Rules and Systems

Such disclosure shall not be used to make determinations about individuals.

National Defense and Foreign Policy Exemption

Some systems of records under the Act which are maintained by the Department contain, from time-to-time, material subject to the specific exemption authorized by 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(1), relating to national defense and foreign policy materials. The systems of records noticed below, and also listed in 15 CFR 4b.14(a) of the regulations published in the Federal Register, which are subject to this determination of specific exemption under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(1) are:

The reason therefore is to protect the material required by Executive Order to be kept secret in the interest of the national defense and foreign policy.

SYSTEMS EXEMPTED FROM CERTAIN PROVISIONS OF THE ACT:

Under 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2), the head of any agency may exempt any system of records within the agency from certain provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974, if the agency or component that maintains the system performs as its principal function any activities pertaining to the enforcement of criminal laws. The Inspector General Act of 1978, Public Law 95–462, mandates the Inspector General to recommend policies for, and to conduct, supervise and coordinate activities in the Department and between the Department and other Federal, State and local governmental agencies with respect to all matters relating to the prevention and detection of fraud in programs and operations administered or financed by the Department, and to the identification and prosecution of participants in such fraud. Under the Act, whenever the Inspector General has reasonable grounds to believe there has been a violation of Federal criminal law the Inspector General must report the matter expeditiously to the Attorney General. In addition to these principal functions pertaining to the enforcement of criminal laws, the Inspector General may receive and investigate complaints on information from various sources concerning the possible existence of activities constituting violations of law, rules or regulations, or mismanagement, gross waste of funds, abuses of authority or substantial and specific danger to the public health and safety.

The provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974 from which exemptions are claimed under 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) are as follows;

5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(3) and (4)
5 U.S.C. 552a(d)
5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(1)(2) and (3)
5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(4)(G), (H), and (I)
5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(5) and (8)
5 U.S.C. 552a(f)
5 U.S.C. 552a(g)

To the extent that the exemption under 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) is held to be invalid, then the exemptions under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(1), (k)(2), and (k)(5) are claimed for all material which meets the criteria of these three subsections.

Provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974 from which exemptions are claimed under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(1), (k)(2) and (k)(5) are as follows:

5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(3)
5 U.S.C. 552a(d)
5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(1)
5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(4)(G), (H), and (I)
5 U.S.C. 552a(f)

Reasons for exemptions: In general, the exemption of this information and material is necessary in order to accomplish the law enforcement function of the Office of Inspector General, to prevent disclosure of classified information as required by Executive Order 12065, to prevent subjects of investigation from frustrating the investigatory process, to prevent the disclosure of investigative techniques, to fulfill commitments made to protect the confidentiality of sources, to maintain access to sources of information, and to avoid endangering these sources and law enforcement personnel. Detailed reasons follow:

Reasons for exemptions under 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) and (k)(2):

1) 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(3) requires that upon request, an agency must give an individual named in a record an accounting which reflects the disclosure of the record to other persons or agencies. This accounting must state the date, nature and purpose of each disclosure of the record and the name and address of the recipient. The application of this provision would alert subjects of an investigation to the existence of the investigation and that such persons are subjects of that investigation. Since release of such information to subjects of an investigation would provide the subjects with significant information concerning the nature of the investigation, it could result in the alerting or destruction of documentary evidence, improper influencing of witnesses, and other activities that could impede or compromise the investigation.

2) 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(4), (d), (e)(4)(G) and (H), (f) and (g) relate to an individual's right to be notified of the existence of records pertaining to such individual; requirements for identifying an individual who requests access to records; the agency procedures relating to access to records and the contest of information contained in such records; and the civil remedies available to the individual in the event of adverse determinations by an agency concerning access to or amendment of information contained in record systems. This system is exempt from the foregoing provisions for the following reasons: To notify an individual at the individual's request of the existence of records in an investigative file pertaining to such individual or to grant access to an investigative file could interfere with investigative and enforcement proceedings, deprive co-defendants of a right to a fair trial or other impartial adjudication, constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy of others, disclose the identity of confidential sources and reveal confidential information supplied by these sources and disclose investigative techniques and procedures.

3) 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(4)(I) requires the publication of the categories of sources of records in each system of records. The application of this provision could disclose investigative techniques and procedures and cause sources to refrain from giving such information because of fear of reprisal, or fear of breach of promises of anonymity and confidentiality. This would compromise the ability to conduct investigations, and to identify, detect, and apprehend violators.

4) 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(1) requires each agency to maintain in its records only such information about an individual that is relevant and necessary to accomplish a purpose of the agency required by statute or Executive Order. An exemption from the foregoing is needed:

a. Because it is not possible to detect relevance or necessity of specific information in the early stages of a criminal or other investigation.

b. Relevance and necessity are questions of judgment and timing. What appears relevant and necessary when collected may ultimately be determined to be unnecessary. It is only after the information is evaluated that the relevance and necessity of such information can be established.

c. In any investigation the Inspector General may obtain information concerning the violations of laws other than those within the scope of his jurisdiction. In the interest of effective law enforcement, the Inspector General should retain this information as it may aid in establishing patterns of criminal activity, and provide leads for those law enforcement agencies charged with enforcing other segments of criminal or civil law.

d. In interviewing persons, or obtaining other forms of evidence during an investigation, information may be supplied to the investigator which relate to matters incidental to the main purpose of the investigation but which may relate to matters under the investigative jurisdiction of another agency. Such information cannot readily be segregated.

5) 5 U.S.C. 552(e)(2) requires an agency to collect information to the greatest extent practicable directly from the subject individual when the information may result in adverse determinations about an individual's rights, benefits, and privilege under Federal programs. The application of the provision would impair investigations of illegal acts, violations of the rules of conduct, merit system and any other misconduct for the following reasons:

a. In certain instances the subject of an investigation cannot be required to supply information to investigators. In those instances, information relating to a subject's illegal acts, violations of rules of conduct, or any other misconduct, etc., must be obtained form other sources.

b. Most information collected about an individual under investigation is obtained from third parties such as witnesses and informers. It is not feasible to rely upon the subject of the investigation as a source for information regarding his activities.

c. The subject of an investigation will be alerted to the existence of an investigation if any attempt is made to obtain information from subject. This could afford the individual the opportunity to conceal any criminal activities to avoid apprehension.

d. In any investigation it is necessary to obtain evidence from a variety of sources other than the subject of the investigation in order to verify the evidence necessary for successful litigation.

6) 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(3) requires that an agency must inform the subject of an investigation who is asked to supply information of:

a. the authority under which the information is sought and whether disclosure of the information is mandatory or voluntary,

b. the purposes for which the information is intended to be used,

c. the routine uses which may be made of the information, and

d. the effects on the subject, if any, of not providing the requested information. The reasons for exempting this system of records from the foregoing provision are as follows:

(i) The disclosure to the subject of the investigation as stated in (b) above would provide the subject with substantial information relating to the nature of the investigation and could impede or compromise the investigation.

(ii) If the subject were informed of the information required by this provision, it could seriously interfere with undercover activities requiring disclosure of undercover agents' identity and impairing their safety, as well as impairing the successful conclusion of the investigation.

(iii) Individuals may be contacted during preliminary information-gathering in investigations before any individual is identified as the subject of an investigation. Informing the individual of the matters required by this provision would hinder or adversely affect any present or subsequent investigations.

7) 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(5) requires that records be maintained with such accuracy, relevance, timeliness, and completeness as is reasonably necessary to assure fairness to the individual in making any determination about an individual. Since the law defines "maintain" to include the collection of information complying with this provision would prevent the collection of any data not shown to be accurate, relevant, timely, and complete at the moment of its collection. In gathering information during the course of an investigation it is not possible to determine this prior to collection of the information. Facts are first gathered and then placed into a logical order which objectively proves or disproves criminal behavior on the part of the suspect. Material which may seem unrelated, irrelevant, incomplete, untimely, etc., may take on added meaning as an investigation progresses. The restrictions in this provision could interfere with the preparation of a complete investigative report.

8) 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(8) requires an agency to make reasonable efforts to serve notice on an individual when any record of such individual is made available to any person under compulsory legal process when such process becomes a matter of public record. The notice requirement of this provision could prematurely reveal an ongoing criminal investigation to the subject of the investigation.

Reasons for exemptions under 5 U.S.C. 522a(k)(1):

1) 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(3) requires that an agency make accountings of disclosures of records available to individuals named in the records at their request. These accountings must state the date, nature and purpose of each disclosure of the record and the name and address of the recipient. The application of this provision would alert subjects of an investigation to the existence of the investigation and that such persons are subjects of that investigation, information which if known might cause damage to national security.

2) 5 U.S.C. 552a(d), (e)(4) (G) and (H), and (f) relate to an individual's right to be notified of the existence of records pertaining to such individual; requirements for identifying an individual who requests access to records; and the agency procedures relating to access to records and the contest of information contained in such records. This system is exempt from the foregoing provisions for the following reasons: To notify an individual at the individual's request of the existence of records in an investigative file pertaining to such individual or to grant access to an investigative file could interfere with investigations undertaken in connection with national security; or could disclose the identity of sources kept secret to protect national security or reveal confidential information supplied by these sources.

3) 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(4)(I) requires the publication of the categories of sources of records in each system of records. The application of this provision could disclose the identity of sources kept secret to protect national security.

4) 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(1) requires each agency to maintain in its records only such information about an individual that is relevant and necessary to accomplish a purpose of the agency required by statute or Executive Order. An exemption from the foregoing is needed: a. Because it is not possible to detect relevance or necessity of specific information in the early stages of an investigation involving national security matters.

b. Relevance and necessity are questions of judgment and timing. What appears relevant and necessary when collected may ultimately be determined to be unnecessary. It is only after the information is evaluated that the relevance and necessity of such information can be established.

c. In any investigation the Inspector General may obtain information concerning the violators of laws other than those within the scope of his jurisdiction. In the interests of effective law enforcement, the Inspector General should retain this information as it may aid in establishing patterns of criminal activity, and provide leads for those law enforcement agencies charged with enforcing other segments of criminal or civil law.

d. In interviewing persons, or obtaining other forms of evidence during an investigation, information may be supplied to the investigator which relate to matters incidental to the main purpose of the investigation but which may relate to matters under the investigative jurisdiction of another agency. Such information cannot readily be segregated.

Reasons for exemptions under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(5):

1) 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(3) requires that an agency make accountings of disclosures of records available to individuals named in the records at their request. These accountings must state the date, nature and purpose of each disclosure of the record and the name and address of the recipient. The application of this provision would alert subjects of an investigation to the existence of the investigation and that such persons are subjects of that investigation. Since release of such information to subjects of an investigation would provide the subjects with significant information concerning the nature of the investigation, it could result in the altering or destruction of documentary evidence, improper influencing of witnesses, and other activities that could impede or compromise the investigation.

2) 5 U.S.C. 552a(d), (e)(4) (G) and (H), and (f) relate to an individual's right to be notified of the existence of records pertaining to such individual; requirements for identifying an individual who requests access to records; and the agency procedures relating to access to records and the contest of information contained in such records. This sytem is exempt from the foregoing provisions for the following reasons: To notify an individual at the individual's request of the existence of records in an investigative file pertaining to such individual or to grant access to an investigative file could interfer with investigative and enforcement proceedings; co-defendants of a right to a fair trial; constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy of others; disclose the identity of confidential sources and reveal confidential information supplied by these sources; and disclose investigative techniques and procedures.

3) 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(4)(I) requires the publication of the categories of sources of records in each system of records. The application of this provision could disclose investigative techniques and procedures and cause sources to refrain from giving such information because of fear of reprisal, or fear of breach of promises of anonymity and confidentiality. This would compromise the ability to conduct investigations, and to make fair and objective decisions on questions of suitability for Federal employment and related issues.

4) 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(1) requires each agency to maintain in its records only such information about an individual that is relevant and necessary to accomplish a purpose of the agency required by statute or Executive Order. An exemption from the foregoing is needed:

a. Because it is not possible to detect relevance or necessity of specific information in the early stages of an investigation.

b. Relevance and necessity are questions of judgment and timing. What appears relevant and necessary when collected may ultimately be determined to be unnecessary. It is only after the information is evaluated that the relevance and necessity of such information can be established.

c. In any investigation the Inspector General may obtain information concerning the violations of laws other than those within the scope of his jurisdiction. In the interest of effective law enforcement, the Inspector General should retain this information as it may aid in establishing patterns of criminal activity, and provide leads for those law enforcement agencies charged with enforcing other segments of criminal or civil law.

d. In interviewing persons, or obtaining other forms of evidence during an investigation, information may be supplied to the investigator which relate to matters incidental to the main purpose of the investigation but which may relate to matters under the investigative jurisdiction of another agency. Such information cannot readily be segregated.

The LSA (List of CFR Sections Affected) is designed to lead users of the Code of Federal Regulations to amendatory actions published in the Federal Register, and is issued monthly in cumulative form. Entries indicate the nature of the changes.

per year

Indexes covering the contents of the daily Federal Register are issued monthly in cumulative form. Entries are carried primarily under the names of the issuing agencies. Significant subjects are carried as cross-references.

A finding aid is included in each publication which lists Federal Register page numbers with the date of publication in the Federal Register.
